Cypriots Reject U.S. Idea of Western Force

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States proposed Friday a Cyprus peace-keeping force of about 10,000 Western troops, including 1,000 to 2,000 U.S. Marines. It would go to the troubled island for three months.

Dispatches from London, where Turkish and Greek Cypriots are in conference with the British, said both island factions called the U.S. proposals unacceptable.

State Department sources declined, however, to accept this unofficial word as meaning a final rejection of the U.S. proposal. The London dispatches said the U.S. plan will be presented officially to the Cypriots only after it has been acted upon by the governments of Greece and Turkey.

The United States has about double its normal Marine strength on hand in the Mediterranean—two amphibious task forces totaling about 3,400 men. But whether Leathernecks will land at Cyprus in the next few days hinged on agreements still to be reached in complicated diplomatic sessions.

The U.S. proposal was approved by President Johnson, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and Undersecretary of State George W. Ball. Ball presented it to the British, Greek and Turkish ambassadors at the State Department on Friday morning.

U.S. officials said the plan responds to a week-old British

Wind Topples Two Structures

DENVER (AP) — Gusty wind blew down two structures in Denver Friday and five persons were injured.

The wind, reaching 47 miles an hour in one gust, toppled a wooden barricade next to the new Security Life & Accident Co. skyscraper downtown. Miss Dagmar Miller, 24, the only person in the walkway, received a skinned elbow and knee.

A 14-foot-high cinder block wall at the Affiliated Trading Co. in west Denver fell on four workmen. John Devlin, 20, Carl Edquist, 57, and Roscoe McClelland, 36, were reported in fair condition later at Denver General Hospital. Jesse Hernandez, 32, was bruised but was not hospitalized.

Laurence Phelps, administrative chief of the State Department of Agriculture, said he received reports the wind was blowing dust over eastern Colorado.

He said moisture is desperately needed to anchor soil.

LBJ Asks Commodity Programs for Farmers

By JERRY T. BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson committed himself Friday to fighting for broader federal help for the nation's farmers but at less cost than this year's government spending in that field.

In a special message to Congress, Johnson stressed that farmers are caught in a "cruel cost-price squeeze" that is eating up rising gross farm income.

The deep-seated problems, he said, are caused by abundance, not scarcity and "they tax our ingenuity."

Most of his specific proposals already are embraced in bills now before Congress or being tested in pilot projects. His proposals for commodity programs are in line with those advanced last year by the late President John F. Kennedy and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

But Johnson's views on specific farm problems and his firm support of a big federal role in agriculture provide a basis for election-year controversy. Many Republicans and some farm groups have demanded that the government make a gradual withdrawal from government price, production and marketing control programs.

Johnson saw his message as a major effort to reconcile "the needs of our farm families for a decent income with the necessity of making this abundance available at reasonable prices for domestic consumption and export."

"Prosperity on the farm gives impetus to prosperity in the city," he said.

The President laid heavy emphasis on a desire to help not only farmers but all 55 million rural Americans. Too many of these, he said, live in poverty and lack education, skills and earning power "which their talents warrant."

"In this message, in my housing message, and in the forthcoming special messages on poverty, education and health, I am proposing a series of actions which will assist rural America to realize the promise of its potential," Johnson said.

The President put the price tag on his program in the budget message 10 days ago, when he asked $5.8 billion for over-all farm spending in the year starting next July 1. That's $1.1 billion below this year's total.

The new total includes about $1.7 billion for farm aid programs, compared with $1.9 billion this year. The remainder would go for research, Food for Peace and other programs which do not provide direct payments to farmers.

The broadened payments to increase farm income would not raise the costs of farm pro-

Knous-GOP Senators Row Over Bill on Assessing

DENVER (AP)—A row broke out Friday, as the Colorado Legislature adjourned for the weekend, between Democratic Lt. Gov. Robert L. Knous and the Republican leadership of the Senate.

It developed when Knous assigned the bill changing methods of assessing property to the Senate's State Affairs Committee.

The GOP leaders wanted the bill to go to the Finance Committee and had expected Knous to send it there.

Republican leaders indicated they intend Monday to appeal the lieutenant governor's action to the Senate itself. If they can muster 18 votes they could override the decision and send the bill to the Finance Committee.

Sen. Harry Locke, R-Hartsel, the finance chairman, contended the bill is "strictly a matter of finances."

"It has nothing to do with state affairs as such," Locke contended.

Knous also held firm and said he was only being consistent in his committee assignments.

"In the past the bills affecting the tax commission and assessments have been assigned by me to the State Affairs Committee and there never has been any objection," he told a reporter.

Chairman of the State Affairs Committee is the veteran Sen. Frank L. Gill, R-Hillrose.

Barry Considers Nixon Toughest GOP Opponent

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Friday he considers former Vice President Richard M. Nixon his strongest opponent for the Republican presidential nomination even though Nixon has not declared himself a candidate.

Goldwater, speaking at a news conference, said New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller would probably be next in line.

Goldwater said Nixon was "like a fighter who missed the crown by just a few points. Of course, he is high on the list for the nomination."

"I felt all along that he (Nixon) would be back in it sometime and I think the New Hampshire write-in will be an indication of his strength."

He said open declarations for the presidential nomination meant little.

"Presidential primaries don't mean anything in getting the nomination," Goldwater said. "It comes in the convention."

The GOP presidential hopeful scoffed at Rockefeller's invitation Friday to enter the West Virginia presidential primary.

"I do not mean to enter the primary," he said. "Rockefeller doesn't influence my moves. We planned a long time ago not to enter the primary, and, as far as I'm concerned, it still stands."

The case will be heard in El Paso District Court in Colorado Springs. Judge Cabibi also ruled that the El Paso court would have to act on a motion by Martz' attorneys seeking bail.

Martz was accused of killing a woodcutter, Lonnie Tomlison, 47, on a ranch in northwest Pueblo County Dec. 18.

Braden Wants To Study Effects Of U.S. Grants

DENVER (AP) — A study of federal grants and their effect on Colorado was called for Friday in a resolution introduced in the State House of Representatives by Rep. James A. Braden, R-Colorado Springs.

Braden noted that federal grants and loans totaling about $135 million are spent on 90 different projects in Colorado each year.

"Such grants . . . usually entail certain obligations on the part of the state in accepting money," his resolution said. The grants, it added, "encourage states to embark upon new programs on a minor scale but result in ever-increasing programs and continually increasing costs."

The resolution called upon the Legislative Council to review all federal grants to the state, its departments, institutions and political subdivisions.

Included will be examinations of the amounts, controls, standards and obligations imposed by the federal money. The Governor's Local Affairs Study Commission was asked to help in assembling the data.

The resolution asks for a report to the 45th General Assembly in 1966.

Cecil Decides to Quit

Cecil Johnson says he's ready to quit — things are too wild for him.

Johnson, 82, of 621 N. Cedar St., who was in Municipal Court Friday facing a charge of careless driving. He was accused of driving a car that collided with a police cruiser on Dec. 23.

He claimed that he had been driving autos since 1912 and horse-drawn rigs before that and never had a serious accident.

Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac wasn't overly impressed. He pointed out that Johnson had piled up a number of traffic violations during the past few years. Johnson agreed, but pointed out they "were all minor ones, and Dad Bruce (late police chief) let me off on all of them."

When Acting Judge Clinton Cole found Johnson guilty and fined him $10, the veteran driver figured he'd had enough.

"There are to many wild drivers around to suit me," said Johnson. "It's time to quit."

OAS Meets Tuesday On Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States rejected Friday Panama's charges of aggression and invited a full investigation of the recent disturbances in Panama by any inter-American agency.

Ellsworth Bunker, new U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, told the OAS's Council of Foreign Ministers, "There is no basis in fact" for Panama's accusation against the United States. An inquiry, he said, would show the government of Panama was "inciting the people to attack and to violence."

The OAS Council, after hearing both Bunker and Miguel Moreno of Panama, recessed until Tuesday.

Mobs "infiltrated and led by extremists, including persons trained in Communist countries" assaulted the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal Zone on a wide perimeter, Bunker told the meeting.

He said, U.S. forces "never attempted to enter Panama but acted only to protect the lives and property of its citizens," and "no small portion of the "Panamanian casualties were caused by Panamanians themselves."

Panama's special representative to the OAS, Moreno, charged earlier in his address to the council that the mob vio-

Rocky to Enter W. Va. Primary Election May 12

NASHUA, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller stepped up his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination Friday by announcing he would enter the West Virginia primary and by intensifying his criticisms of President Johnson.

The West Virginia primary May 12 is the fourth in which Rockefeller will seek support.

He challenged Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and any other aspirants for the GOP nomination to tangle with him in the West Virginia fight.

West Virginia Republicans, Rockefeller said, "have a right to expect those who seek their party's nomination to explain in

Students Plan Tuition Protest Demonstrations

DENVER (AP) — Students at state supported colleges and universities in Colorado are planning major demonstrations on every campus next week to protest tuition increases.

Word of the demonstrations came to Colorado legislators today in a letter from Greeley.

The demonstrations are being organized by a new group calling itself the Colorado Student Association for Protection of Public Education. Organizations, according to the letter, have been formed already at the University of Colorado at Boulder, Colorado State University at Fort Collins and Colorado State College at Greeley.

The demonstrations will take the form of "massive student rallies" and will be held on each campus the evening of Feb. 5, next Wednesday, according to the letter to House Speaker John Vanderhoof, R-Glenwood Springs.

"These rallies would be on the order of the major political conventions with much noise, excitement, music, and on the whole enthusiasm," said the letter signed by Stuart Kirk. He identified himself as a member of the Associated Students at CSC.

Among the aims of the new inter-college organization, as outlined in the letter, is "organized, quiet, dignified picketing."

Student demonstrators, meanwhile, got a boost from the Colorado Labor Council, a statewide organization of AFL-CIO unions.

In a letter distributed to legislators today the council's top officials said, "we commend the spirit and the effectiveness of the protests of the young people from all states who are receiving the benefits of state-supported college education in Colorado today. We urge you to continue to give them free opportunity in the best traditions of our American government to continue to make their case, so that those who follow them in our colleges will not have to continue the protest year by year in greater proportion."

The letter said it is "the considered judgment of our council that we may be embarking on

Legislator to Join Students

DENVER (UPI)— A Republican state legislator will take part next Wednesday in a student rally at the University of Colorado in Boulder to protest Gov. John Love's proposed tuition hike.

Rep. Reg Howard, R-Boulder, said Friday he planned to address the rally.

Howard strongly opposes Love's plan to increase tuition at the state's colleges and universities.

"We in the Republican party have really gone from one extreme to the other," Howard said. "The party favored an open-door policy and the building of Metropolitan State College in Denver last year but has now turned around and said it was going to raise tuition."

The tuition hike, Howard said, would be a "real deterrent" to young people seeking a college education.

Howard also said that only a few part - time jobs exist in Boulder--making it difficult for CU students to supplement their income.

First Foursquare Moves to New Church Site

First Foursquare Gospel Church moved this week to a new location at 2413 Templeton Gap Rd. Official dedication of the new quarters is scheduled for the near future.

The Rev. Glenn D. Metzler, pastor of the church, will preach his first sermon in the new location at 11 a.m. Sunday. This will be a special communion service and time of rededication for members and visitors.

The First Foursquare congregation recently sold its former home at 603 S. Hancock St., a building erected in 1950 by the congregation and largely finished thru individual effort of church members. The new Templeton Gap site offers First Foursquare a larger building with land for future, planned expansion.

Church Council members who guided the church in its change of location are: Cletus Cooper, chairman; Charles Rexroad, Bill Routon, Elton Faust, Dave Beneze and Joe Davis.

Sunday school hours remain unchanged at 9:40 a.m., with morning worship at 11 a.m. Sunday evening activities will continue at 6 p.m., with group services for every age. The customary brief orchestra concert will precede the 7 p.m. evangelistic service.

A special service will be held Sunday night when Pastor Metzler will preach an illustrated sermon, "The Jericho Road," and Sven Bjork, Swedish tenor, will present a special program of music.

Bjork, soloist for ten years at the Philadelphia Church of Stockholm, has toured Europe, North and Central America, and the near East. He has sung at the White House, at the special invitation of President and Mrs. Eisenhower, and has appeared on network television and radio in the United States.

The Rev. Glenn D. Metzler, his wife Norma, and two young daughters, came to Colorado Springs from Scottsbluff, Nebr., in October, 1961. They now live at 4120 Lupine Drive in a new Foursquare parsonage completed last fall. In addition to pastoral duties, the Rev. Metzler is Youth Director of the midwest district of the International Church of the Foursquare Gospel, and a former evangelist. Under his able pastorate, First Foursquare growth necessitated a new and larger building.

Senior high young people will continue their new time for study, which has been set at 4 p.m. Sunday. Junior highs will continue their study as part of a total program of recreation, dinner, choir rehearsal and project time on Thursday evenings from 5:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Calvary Church Will Burn Mortgage Sunday

The congregation of the Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church will celebrate the paying off of their debt this Sunday.

Dr. Lloyd C. Nichols, Conference Superintendent of the South District of the Rocky Mountains Conference of E.U.B. Churches, will bring the morning message. During the service the trustees will share in the "Mortgate Burning" ceremony.

This debt was incurred in 1958 with the building of a new parsonage, then added to the following winter when three new furnaces were installed in the church building. The pastor, E. J. Ness, and congregaton rejoice in the fact that the debt was cleared several months ahead of due date; the last payment being made in December 1963.

Also, this Sunday, the Church School will have a special "Roll Call" day. In the opening part of the Sunday Church School hour all members will respond to their names as the entire roll is called. Teachers are expected to be able to answer for any of their pupils who are absent, as to why they are not there.

The community and all who through the years have had a part in making this Note Burning Service possible, are invited to attend this special service next Sunday at Calvary E.U.B. Church, located on the corner of North Wahsatch at Uintah Street.

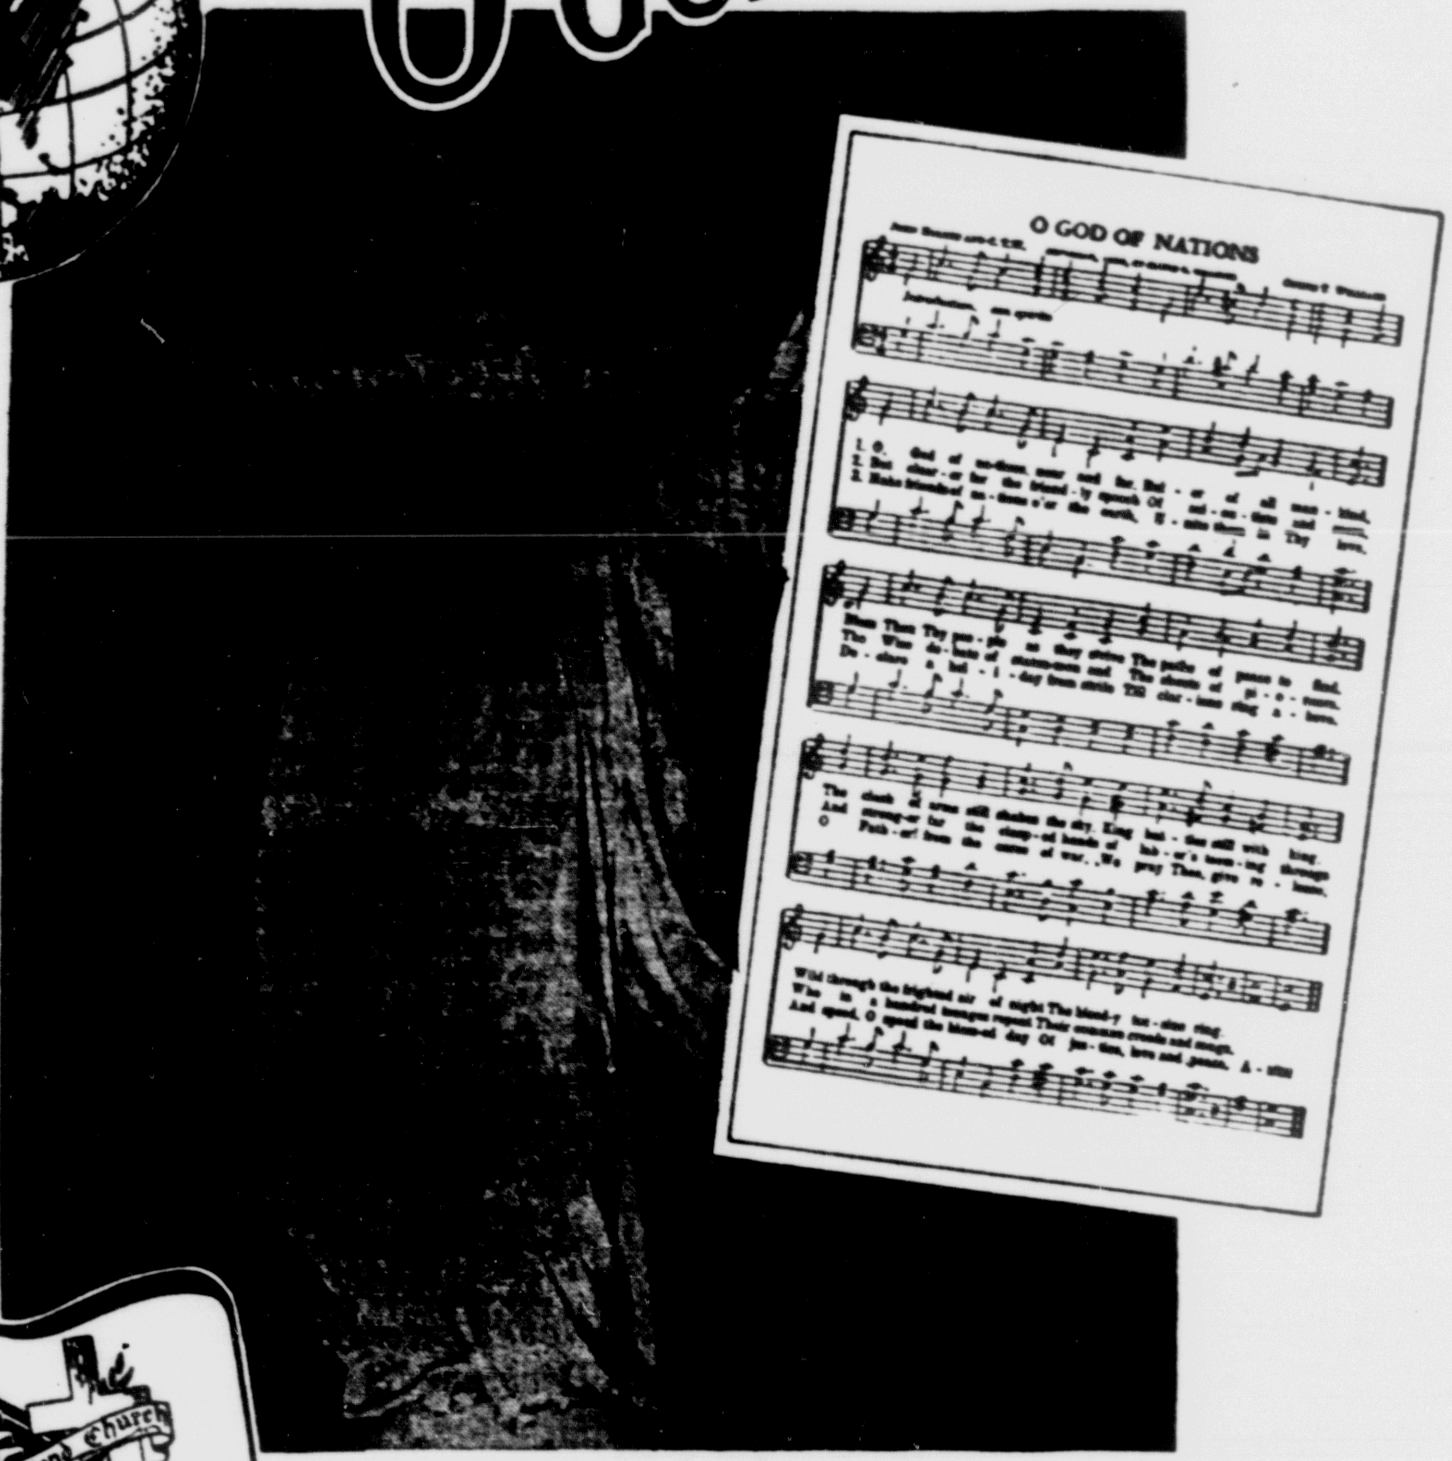
O GOD of NATIONS



YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

© Williams Newspaper Features
P. O. Box 211, Ft. Worth, Tex.

Today the 'Great God of Nations' is pleading for unity of mind, for brotherly love between men and for peace on earth. Jesus the greatest of teachers presented to men truths, which were then as they are now, of great importance to all mankind. His utterances, without revision, are most pertinent to modern life and make universal appeal. In them are heights which no man has scaled; depths which no man has sounded; reaches of length and breadth which no man has explored. Universally the need for blessings from the great 'God of Nations' has never been so great. He commanded men to learn of Him and promised to show them the way.

Pastors, Priests and Rabbis are pooling their interests in an effort to challenge All Nations to an understanding of the term 'Peace.' Prayers from millions of earnest seeking, warm hearted, religious people, go up to the great 'God of Nations' every day for those men who are entrusted with our destinies.

Millions are now saying of Jesus: "There was the true light, even the light which lighteth every man, coming into the world." Whether judged by subject matter, the method of its presentation, or its effectiveness in influencing life... Jesus enjoys pre-eminence among teachers. If men would but seek out His will; if world leaders would but ask His guidance when difficult, international problems arise... then solving them would not be such a surprise, for in Him men of faith find all things possible.

THE CHURCHES AND SYNAGOGUES OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE THE ONLY INSTITUTIONS WHICH HAVE AS THEIR MAIN FUNCTION THE TRANSFORMING OF HUMAN LIVES. THEY ARE THE SIGN BOARDS POINTING THE WAY TO GOD.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through these pages the appeal is for man to stand up and be counted . . . to combat communism on all fronts . . . to be faithful to God.

Approximately 100 friends and relatives were present for the open installation of Florence Assembly No. 17, Order of the Rainbow for girls Sunday afternoon, Jan. 19. Nancy Comstock and her corps of officers were installed at the impressive ceremony at the Masonic hall.

Nancy chose for her installation a floor length formal of yellow brocade; decorations in the east included her symbols, the open Bible and the candle. Her talk was based on her theme, "A Walk in the Garden." She spoke of the flowers in the rainbow and their symbolism in everyday life.

Her Bible verse is Provers 20:27 — "The Spirit of man is the candle of the Lord." Her station was nature; her colors white and yellow; flower, the white carnation, and her motto, "If everyone would light one little candle what a bright world this would be."

Her songs, "In the Garden," and "The Angeles are Lighting God's Little Candles," were sung by Miss Ann Heid.

The installing officers were outgoing advisor, Martha Williams; Lucille Duke, chaplain; Adnra Goodwin, marshall; Genevieve Woofe, recorder; Virginia Dunsmoor, musician.

Other officers installed were: Kathy Smith, worthy associate adviser; Charity, Barbara Howard; Hope, Linda Gilbert; Faith, Vicku Duke; Karen Knisley, recorder; Virginia Garrett, treasurer; chaplain, Becky Roberts; Gayle Shaffer, drill leader; Dorothy Darrow, love; Bernice McClain, religion; Jane Sneed, nature; Katy Molello, immortality; Linda Molello fidelity; Linda Noell, patriotism; Russ Ann Mace, service; Linda Nehans, confidential observer; Judy Wells, outer observer; Martha Williams, hisician, and Jeannine Koefoed, choir director.

Members of the advisory board are Mrs. JoAnn Sandell, mother adviser and Wayne Strickland, Rainbow Dad. Others are: Nellie Ham, Elma Shaffer, Dorothy Gilbert, Betty Gray, Al Howard, Genevieve Wolfe, Minnie Plunkett, Eda Calhoun, and William Calhoun.

Decorations in the dining room carried out the new worthy adviser's colors. Members of the refreshment committee were Mrs. Floyd Williams, Mrs. Lindley and Mrs. Smith.

Miss Donna Taylor was in charge of the guest book and gift table. J. R. Phillips, Ronnie Shaffer and Kenny Smithe were ushers.

ORGAN LESSONS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Learning to play the organ with a group of beginners adds enjoyment, the American Music Conference says.

Group lessons are popular because each person is stimulated by the efforts of others as they experience the same problems and accomplishments. To meet the demand for lessons, studios specializing in organ instruction are springing up nationwide.

LBJ Asks for Commodity Farm Programs

grams, an administration spokesman said, but would be financed from savings that would result through a planned reduction in surpluses. No details were given.

Johnson said, "The agricultural commodity programs developed during the past 30 years have served us well—but they are in need of improvement."

"The commodities requiring immediate attention," Johnson said, "are cotton, wheat, dairy products, sugar and potatoes. At present, the programs for these foods and fibers serve neither the producers, the consumers, nor the taxpayer as well as they should."

One of his recommendations expressed dissatisfaction with the current sugar import system under which foreign countries are assigned specific shares of the U.S. market. He said that on the basis of an intensive study he will soon "make recommendations for remedial legislation."

For the present, Johnson said, "I recommend the removal of marketing restrictions on the sale of domestically produced sugar during the calendar year of 1964. This legislation will relieve the pressure on world market supplies at a time when these supplies are short."

Johnson called for a five-year extension of the Food for Peace program and an expansion on a permanent basis of the domestic food stamp program.

One thing that could bring heavy fire on Johnson is his revival of part of the controversial plan advanced in 1949 by Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture in the Harry Truman administration. This would involve direct subsidy payments out of the Treasury to augment the market income of cotton, wheat, milk and potato producers.

Snoring Fireman Angered

DENVER (AP)—The boys at Fire Station 14 couldn't stand Albert Silvers' snoring any longer, so they went over to his bunk and shook him.

Silvers, 52, apparently couldn't stand being shaken.

A few hours after his sleep was interrupted, he reportedly took an air pressure pellet gun from his locker, went to the room where one of the men was shaving and shot him in the leg, said Asst. Chief Willard Miller.

Fire Chief Allie Feldman suspended Silvers from duty Friday. He will submit a report Monday to Safety Manager Dan Hoffman.

The victim of the alleged shooting, Lynn Johnson, 25, was treated by a physician. The shooting occurred Thursday, Miller said.

Joe C. Oliverius, 53, of Peetz pleaded after U.S. Dist. Judge Alfred Arraj refused to accept his plea of no contest. The Internal Revenue Department charged Oliverius with evading $2,800 in income taxes for 1957, 1958 and 1959.

Oliverius pleaded guilty to evading taxes for 1957 and the remaining counts were dismissed. Arraj said he had not imposed a prison sentence because of Oliverius' ill health.

Knous-Senators Row Over Bill On Assessing

face, appeared to be a matter of prestige there were hints that it might have a deeper meaning.

The measure, as passed by the House of Representatives, grants the State Tax Commission power only to review the work of county assessors rather than to direct them.

On some past occasions Democrats have sought to give the Tax Commission more power over assessors in the drive to equalize assessment rates between counties. Knous, in talking to a reporter, did not concede this feeling might have played any part in his assignment of the bill.

The measure, given final approval by the House Thursday, was written to carry out Constitutional Amendment No. 5 passed by voters at the 1962 election. The amendment removes a constitutional requirement — never followed — that property be assessed for taxation at 100 per cent of its current market value.

The pending bill was worked out last year by a special committee headed by Rep. Palmer Burch, R-Denver. As approved by the House it provides that property shall be assessed for taxation at 30 per cent of its actual value, except that public utilities shall be assessed a 35 per cent.

Friday morning the Senate gave final approval to a bill reorganizing the district courts system and increasing the number of district judges from 41 to 69. The bill passed 28-5 and was sent to the House.

Also given final approval by the Sentte, 30-2, was a constitutional amendment allowing the Legislature, rather than the voters to elect the state auditor. It also went to the House.

Another constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to determine who should take over the government if all top officials were killed in a nuclear explosion failed to muster enough Senate votes for final passage. Sen. Donald Kelley, R-Denver, kept it alive by moving to defer the vote until Wednesday.

The Senate yielded to the House and fixed at $100,000 the amount of money to be given Colorado State University in a supplemental appropriation.

Court Overhaul Would Set Up Judge Elections

By STEPHEN M. AUG

DENVER (AP) — All county judges — full and part-time—would be elected under a revision of the statewide court overhaul program suggested Friday by the Colorado House and Senate Judiciary Committees.

The proposal is a change from the original bill under which part-time county jurists were to be appointed by the full-time county judges. This section was struck down by the Colorado Supreme Court which had been asked, by the legislature, to give an opinion on it.

Sen. Carl W. Fulghum, R-Glenwood Springs, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said he expects a first draft of the new proposal to be ready for committee consideration Monday.

House and Senate committee members met Friday to consider the new legislation on the court system.

They decided that there would be a system of county judges classified in three ways: County judges on a full-time basis, half-time associate judges and quarter-time assistant judges. All would be elected on a county-wide basis.

The legislature would set up the number of such judges in each county and would decide on the location of the courts in which they will serve.

Representatives of the Colorado County Commissioners Association were asked to poll their membership to determine the number of judges they require, the locations of the courts and the amount of time the judges would have to be on the bench.

Fulghum told the committee that he had spoken with Justice O. Otto Moore of the state Supreme Court concerning the decision to strike down the county court proposal. He quoted the judge as saying that all county judges had to be elected.

But Moore told him that referees — also called masters—could be appointed by the county judges. Committee members, however, decided that the appointment of referees — whose decisions could not be binding and would have to be approved by county judges—was not adequate.

Sen. Wilkie Ham, D-Lamar, said "I don't think a master or a referee can sentence a man—the defendant has a right to confront the court.

"We can elect two kinds of judges maybe—we can elect a judge and an associate judge: we've got to look into the possibility of electing associates," he said in suggesting the plan that eventually was adopted by the committee.

Staff members of the Legislative Council were to confer this weekend with legal experts to draft the legislation. One staff official said he believed the suggested system would be in conformity with a constitutional provision requiring election of county judges.

He added that the draft of legislation would include a prototype of the proposals which would be necessary to cover each county. The prototype would deal with Larimer County in which the committee has suggested there be one full-time judge at Fort Collins and a part-time judge at Loveland or Estes Park.

Another suggestion considered by the committee was the election of judges who would serve in judicial districts to be set up by county commissioners. This plan was discarded because committee members felt it would be held unconstitutional.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

Currently most the country east of the Mississippi River is experiencing rather dismal but mild weather.

Considerable fog along with drizzle and occasional rain cover many sections of this area. During the afternoon hours Friday, most rainfall totals were quite light.

In opposite correlation, almost the entire area west of the Mississippi River is enjoying generally clear and dry weather. The exception is intermittant rain and showers over the Pacific Northwest.

The last day of January, departed unseasonably mild as it had been the last several days over most of the country.

Friday afternoon, highs were in the 30s and 40s over the northern third of the country, while the southern third had high temperatures mostly in the 50 to 60 degree range.

U.S. Cause in Viet Nam Reported to Be 'Hopeless'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

The new military coup in South Viet Nam may be regarded in Southeast Asia, with some justification, as an indication that the U.S. cause in that strategic area is beginning to look hopeless.

When Southeast Asia begins to feel the Communists are winning the whole political picture can change. Ultimately the U.S. effort to save South Viet Nam—at a cost of many American lives and half a billion dollars a year—may fail.

The announced intention of those who mounted the new coup was to prevent neutralization of the country. They implied that President Charles de Gaulle's French government was plotting with ranking officers of the deposed military junta to bring this about and drive out the United States.

The fear may have been genuine enough to make De Gaulle the villain of the piece. He has advocated neutralization and his recognition of Red China seems part of an attempt to reassert France's influence in her lost Indochinese empire. But hunger for power among Viet Nam's generals also seems to have played a major part.

The coup has piled confusion upon confusion. The impression is created that no one in South Viet Nam is really strong enough to rule. It raises critical morale problems which strike at the core of the U.S. effort.

Morale, civilian and military, was the biggest South Viet Nam problem before the military junta headed by Maj. Gen. Dumng Van Minh brought to a bloody end the rule of President Ngo Dinh Diem and his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu.

There were hopes then that Big Minh's coup, welcomed by the United States, would permit the army to mount a serious drive against Communist guerrillas infesting the Mekong Delta area, the country's rice granary and most populous region.

Not much came of these hops. Generals went in for politicking for power rather than for earnest warfare against the Communists.

Viet Cong guerrillas made the most of the confusion. They mounted heavy attacks, battered army outposts, overran strategic hamlets and reaped propaganda victories.

Now there is new confusion and the Communists will take full dvantage again.

With DeGaulle taking an active role in attempting to shape the future of Southeast Asia, and with the fortunes of the United States in South Viet Nam looking shakier all the time, governments in the area will be thinking of mending their fences with Red China before it is too late.

The battle in South Viet Nam has been uphill. Today the hill seems steeper than ever.

100-Year-Old Retires From Publishing Job

By TENNEY GRIFFIN

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Maybe it's the smell of printer's ink or his interest in everything, but E. L. Turner intends to keep an eye on his newspaper as he retires at 100.

The title of publisher emeritus gives him the right to do just that. As for the years ahead, he says, "I'll let them take care of themselves."

Turner will be 101 on March 6.

"After 75 memorable years, time has taken its toll," he told the board of directors this week as he retired from active management of the Valdosta Daily Times.

He stepped down as publisher and turned his job over to another Turner, his son E. Mann Turner, who at 75 is following his father's example of longevity.

The elder Turner came to Valdosta in 1889 as a $40-a-month printer. He nurtured the newspaper with thrift and wit from a tiny weekly to a daily with a circulation of 14,500.

His dry humor and astute observations are remembered by many.

On his birthday last March, his employes and directors staged a birthday party for "Poppa." That's what they all called him.

A birthday message from President John F. Kennedy was read. Turner said, "Aw pshaw, that's just politics."

As he approached the century mark, Turner was always asked, "How does it feel to be 97—or 98, 99, 100?"

His reply was always the same: "Damn good. If I weren't I'd be dead."

The son of a weekly newspaper publisher at Alapaha, Ga., Turner worked as a printer at Hawkinsville and Thomasville, Ga., before taking the job in Valdosta.

By 1905 he had become general manager of the then biweekly South Georgia Times when it became necessary to report the proceedings of a bizarre murder trial. He decided to print the paper daily to cover the trial.

The Times never went back to the biweekly schedule.

During World War II when help was a problem, a linotype operator who was being shifted from one job to another complained to the venerable publisher, "If things don't get better I'm going to quit."

Turner told him, "Just hang around for a couple of weeks, son, if things don't get better "I'll go with you."

Turner stayed; so did the operator.

Turner is 5-feet-6 and weighs just over 100 pounds. His hair and mustache have turned a shining white. His health is good.

He complains about not being able to see well, although he reads several newspapers a day.

Turner remains with the company as chairman of the board as well as publisher emeritus.

Erhard Guard Faces Charges

BONN, Germany (AP) — A high West German police official who accompanied Chancellor Ludwig Erhard as bodyguard on his recent visit to President Johnson's Texas ranch was arrested Friday on war crimes charges, the Interior Ministry announced.

He is Ewald Peters, a bureau department head, and he is charged with having participated in mass executions of Jews in Russia in World War II, a ministry spokesman said.

Peters, whose background showed nothing to bar him from office during a 1960 investigation, was also suspended from his job, the ministry said.

CSU Professor Heads Conference

SEATTLE (AP) — Prof. Dale S. Romine, Colorado State University, Fort Collins, Colo., was elected chairman as the Western regional soil survey work planning conference ended Friday.

E. Milton Payne, Denver, was chosen vice president. The conference represents soil scientists in 11 Western states.

The next biennial conference was tentatively set for the last week of January 1966, at either Denver or Fort Collins.

a percentage type of tuition increase) . . . which will restrict in ever increasing numbers college education for our young people."

Signing the letter were Herrick Roth, council president; R. C. Anderson, executive vice president; and A. Toffoli, secretary-treasurer.

The three council officers also told the legislators that they queston seriously the proposal to move laundry facilities from the state hospital at Pueblo to the penitentiary at Canon City where it would be operated by convict labor.

The proposal originated with the State Department of Institutions.

"We will be discussing this directly with this state department in the near future," the union leaders said, "but trust that you will give careful considerstion to the proposal and weigh carefully whether or not rehabilitation is really the prime factor in the proposed move."

U.S. Rejects Panama, Asks For Full Probe

lence by Panamanians was spontaneous and due to inept action by U.S. authorities. It came about, he said, because Panamanians were angered at U.S. citizens who sought to prevent the flying of Panama's flag in "their nation's territory" in the Canal Zone.

Bunker said the United States is prepared for a reconsideration of all U.S.-Panamanian issues "including those arising from the canal and from the treaties relating to it."

It is the first time the United States used the word "treaties" in saying what it will discuss in the 21-day-old crisis over the Panama Canal.

Cypriots Turn Down U.S. Idea To Keep Peace

plea for help, and is aimed at preventing dangerous conflict between two North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies, Greece and Turkey, without putting the United States in the middle in Cyprus' internal troubles.

These authoritative U.S. sources stressed that all the parties involved must accept key provisions of the U.S. plan if it is to be carried out.

Key elements of the U.S. plan were listed as:

1. Stationing on Cyprus of a peace-keeping force composed of troops from a number of NATO countries with a Briton in command.

2. The outside force would be withdrawn in three months. This period was deemed sufficient to calm things down enough so that an effort for a long-term solution of the problems between Cyprus' Greek majority population and Turkish minority could get under way.

3. The parties involved would agree on appointing a mediator to bring about a Cyprus solution. The mediator would not be an American or from one of the three powers guaranteeing Cyprus' independence — Britain, Greece or Turkey.

U.S. officials said it has not yet been decided who would be the European mediator or who would supply peace-keeping forces beside the United States and the three guarantor powers. West German and Italian troops were considered a possibility.

Under the American scheme, the 2,700-man British, 950-man Greek and 650-man Turkish garrisons on Cyprus would be part of the peace-keeping force. The British contingent could be increased but not the Greek or Turkish.

The Cyprus president, Archbishop Makarios, was reported demanding that the peace-keeping force come under the United Nations. This was rejected by Washington authorities on the grounds that it would bring the Communist countries into the situation, since they are U.N. members.

Turkey was reported to be pushing for an increase in the size of its garrison.

Cyprus became independent of Great Britain in 1960 but its 450,000 Greeks and 100,000 Turks never have achieved harmonious relations and violence erupted afresh this winter.

After unsuccessfully trying to work out a peaceful solution, Britain on Jan. 24 asked the United States for help. The main reason given by London was not that Britain has run too low in available forces but rather because the British have found themselves unacceptable as peacemakers in Cyprus because of their former colonial position.

The mere knowledge by the feuding factions in Cyprus that the United States was working on a peace-keeping force plan has had a quieting effect there over the last few days, U.S. officials feel.

The fact that two reinforced Marine battalion landing teams are in the Mediterranean at this time is coincidental. One amphibious force has arrived there to replace another similar-sized force in a routine rotation.

Moscow Killer Sentenced to Die

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow's "mad killer," Vladimir Ionesyan, has been sentenced to die before a firing squad, Soviet sources reported Friday.

They said his mistress—who allegedly helped him by wiping the blood off his murder ax—reportedly got 15 years in prison.

The 26-year-old Ionesyan, a musical comedy singer, was captured two weeks ago after a block-by-block manhunt. He and his mistress went on trial several days ago at a secret location.

He was accused of killing two women and three boys and of raping a girl.

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Evolution

John E. Kreiser has written a fine letter in which he criticizes the statements made by Doctor Russell V. Lee, a research specialist.

We think Mr. Kreiser is correct and are happy to have his criticism.

Indeed, we were so amazed at what Dr. Lee had said that we were considering an editorial on the subject anyhow, and Mr. Kreiser's timely letter serves to emphasize the point.

The burden of Dr. Lee's statement is that man, by his nature, is polygamous and that monogamous marriages are "bizarre." Dr. Lee contends that the strange custom of a permanent union between only two spouses is contrary to man's primitive background and should be discarded forthwith.

Mr. Kreiser has proceeded from this statement to attack ideas of evolution on which Dr. Lee apparently bases his hypothesis. And while we have no quarrel with Mr. Kreiser or the line taken in his argument, to us Dr. Lee's position is absurd simply because it so completely ignores the facts of evolution, and the ideas implicit in Darwin's theories.

The merit of Darwin's theories lies in two central facts. Man is not a static species but an evolving one. In other words, man is in process of improving himself. The other factor, often overlooked, is that the world is considerably older than people supposed it to be in the period of time preceding Darwin's studies.

This latter point has no immediate bearing here, but the first one does. If man is in process of evolving, and the evidence seems relatively convincing that man has improved himself and is still doing so, then there is just no reason to claim that progress is "bizarre." Under the influence of such teachings as those found in Christianity, man began to put aside savage and barbaric customs and began to civilize himself.

It is no secret that only a few thousand years ago polygamous unions were common. Some anthropologists, in their search of even earlier periods, have suggested that prior to the kind of multiple unions described in the Old Testament, man probably lived with a marriage system bordering on the homogeneous. But fortunately for man, he improved himself. He moved out of that condition. He advanced. And to our view he advanced again when marriage became less polygamous.

Mr. Kreiser is eminently sound when he suggests that man does not improve himself by trying to perpetuate some fancied link-up with the great apes. Whatever man's origins, there is certainly no reason to remain at the point of beginning.

Why do we contend that man improves himself when he practices permanent and singular union? Because the evidence is overwhelming that his general well-being parallels this behavior.

For man to live and live well in this world, self-responsibility is the key. To practice self-responsibility means to put aside self-indulgence as the guiding force and to discipline one's self by working, saving, investing. Admittedly, we live at a time when lack of self-discipline is apparent and where all manner of profligacy is rife. But is that any reason to extol it as a virtue?

Self-control which leads to progress is always accompanied by some form of self-denial. Self-indulgence on the part of some is only possible in a society where many others are practicing self-denial and personal discipline.

Let everyone practice self-indulgence and presently the goods and services we rely on for civilized existence would no longer be available. And like apes, bulls or stags we would all be living in the trees, sans families, sans homes, sans jobs, sans clothing, and sans food.

Dr. Lee, in his enthusiasm to establish our origin is forgetful of our destiny. He is not supporting evolution — he is denying it.

A Better Way

Instead of complaining that others have more than you do, why not outproduce them and show them up?

Rate of Growth

Colorado business leaders are taking a long look at the economy within the state with an eye to the future. A. J. Bromfield, Western Federal Savings president, has recently reported that Colorado is falling behind the economic growth it should expect.

"Altho some growth is anticipated for 1964, our rate of growth is declining," he said.

"In a number of industries, Colorado's growth will be below the national average. This is an unfortunate trend which can be reversed if we are willing to make the effort," Bromfield said.

According to Bromfield, three steps must be taken to attract businesses and industries to the state, and all three steps have to do with the removal of government controls.

The problems, as Bromfield outlines them, concern property taxes, ad valorem taxes, and sales tax inventories.

Businessmen, attracted to Colorado's beautiful climate and scenery and transportation facilities, are equally repelled by the deadly tax situation that exists in the state.

There is no question about the high level of property taxes in the state, nor the fact that the transient goods tax creates a roadblock for the establishment of local business. These, combined with the intertwined system of city, county and state property taxes on businesses, have boosted the state into the dubious position of being the sixth highest in the nation in per capita taxes collected for state and local governments during 1962. This figure was taken from the November 22 Colorado Public Expenditure Council report.

Therefore, it is obvious that the Colorado lawmakers are seriously engaged in attempting once more to prove the failure of the feasibility of providing for the mythical common good.

Communists, socialists, collectivists have all tried the system of plundering the individual for the so-called collective good of society, and the collective pages of world history record the failure of all such attempts.

Henry Grady Weaver in his book, "The Mainspring of Human Progress," states: "In any few hundred years of Old World history, we find a succession of convulsive efforts and collapses — as if a living thing were roped down and struggling. This is precisely what was happening. Human energy could not get to work at its primary, natural job of producing and distributing the necessities of human life. Whenever men began to develop farming, crafts and trade, government stopped them.

"Mind you, the government never intended to stop them; indeed, its honest aim was to help them. But the effect was the opposite, for the simple reason that efforts to help were based on the false notion that human energy and individual initiative can be directed and controlled thru an overriding authority, using the brute force of military and police power."

Weaver continues to develop his premise that arbitrary power, of which taxation is a part, always has a demoralizing and degenerating effect on those who use it. "Like the dope habit," Weaver says, "it may start out innocently enough, but it feeds on itself and things go from bad to worse. The more a person relies on it, the greater the temptation to increase the dose."

A tax, as defined by law, is a compulsory payment exacted by legislative authority for the support of government and the maintenance of public services. It may be levied against persons (either individuals or "legal persons" such as corporations) or against property.

It is long past the time for Colorado businessmen to realize that any future prosperity cannot be maintained thru taxation.

Isn't it time the people of Colorado awakened along with other peoples thruout the world who are at last beginning to realize that the preservation and encouragement of private competitive enterprise is mankind's only hope for raising levels of living, and are now fighting government taxation as well as government intervention in economic decisions?

THE ZONING LAWS

What's good about the zoning laws?
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
Many people like them because
The politicians give them applause,
But all their arguments have flaws.
The laws are not good, Lad.
Then why do they have them in the city?
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
To fool good folks, and more's the pity;
So long as voters aren't too witty
The politician's sitting pretty.
That's why they have them, Lad.

But don't those zones protect folks, tho?
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
The politicians tell them so.
And people think such guys should know,
But politicians only blow.
They're no protection, Lad.

Then what would protect our property?
Pray can you tell me, Dad?
If men and property were free
To do things voluntarily
They'd find some way they could agree
On the best protection, Lad.

WAS THE FUSS REALLY NECESSARY?

The Trianon is saved, glory be! Saved from what? Why should it ever have been in jeopardy? If the property right means anything, it means control. If we do not have total control over our property, we do not own it; we have the use of it at the sufferance of those who do control it. These are generally politicians whom we have elected to office as our servants, but who are, in reality, our masters. Taxes are the rent we pay them for the use of our property. They gained this power with our consent when they persuaded us that zoning was a "protection" for our property.

It is only natural for politicians to want more power since it enhances their position in the community and brings them added prestige and glamor, and often higher salaries, for their "services" to the public. Politicians, like all the rest of us, are ambitious and anxious to better themselves. The only way they can advance in their particular field is at the expense of all of us. Also, by creating new fields in which they can "serve" us, they can add appreciably to the number of appointed job holders. And this gives them more power.

There are spots in El Paso County that have been tricked into voting for county zoning. Zoning places legal limits on the uses of real property in a given area. It takes the choice of uses from the owners and gives it to a group of planners who are responsible only to their bosses, the politicians. But these planners have no hard and fast rules. They play favorites, they change their minds and their plans, they create special zones within zones. One group dies off or leaves and the next group scraps the first group's plans. And all we get is planned confusion from any of them. And all the while it is your property and mine they are meddling with. (Who plans for the planners?)

But planners and commissioners can be persuaded to change their minds, as happened in the Trianon case, by pressure from enough angry voters. But this did not free the property, it simply put it in another zone. If the owner, or owners, should desire at some future time to use the property for other purposes than those allowed by the new restrictions, they will have a new battle on their hands.

But the creation of the new Residence - Historical zone will be hailed as a great victory for democracy; as an example of the American system at work; as the voice of the people speaking. But if the truth were known probably a majority of those who were whopping it up to save the Trianon still believe that zoning is a GOOD thing.

We were not opposed to the saving of the Trianon. We were definitely opposed to the owners having to move it or scrap it if they desired to keep it and convert it to a museum. If they had decided it was to their advantage to scrap it or move it, we would have favored their wishes over anybody else's who may have attempted to prevent them. We believe ownership means control.

In any event, we are happy that the owners, in this instance, had their wishes respected in regards to the use of their property. But watch the news and you will find many instances where the owners' wishes have been ignored completely. Many times the public turns out in force in an effort to support the planners against the owners. The bright concept of private property, especially in real estate, is growing dimmer every day.

Nation's Press

United Nations U for Useless

From The Cincinnati (Ohio) Inquirer

In all the world's history, few organizations have claimed so much and accomplished so little as the United Nations.

Any objective study of U.N. operations over a period of years will bear out the fact that this world "super-government" has abetted aggression by the Communist powers, but has checkmated counteraction by the democratic states.

It condoned Sukarno's rape of Papua. It overlooked Indian aggression against Goa and other territories on the subcontinent, which have been Portuguese for centuries. It did nothing about Hungary, and has closed its eyes to the enslavement of Eastern Europe while forming the framework for military action and other harassment of Angola and the Union of South Africa. It ignored the onslaught against Tibet, and now it is compromising effective action to quench the sparks in the tinder box of the Middle East.

The 110-member General Assembly of the United Nations is sometimes defended on the score that it is a debating society that relieves tensions. No unprejudiced observer can share that view. The inflammatory speeches in the General Assembly do not serve the interests of peace. And freedom of speech simply does not exist in the General Assembly or its main sub-agencies. Any explanation of the position of the white colonies on the continent of Africa is hooted down, if not expunged from the record.

The U.N. is an expensive luxury at best — a means by which espionage and treachery are practiced regularly by our enemies. And we pay most of the bills.

We can't attend to the best interests of the United States in any part of this troubled world today, so long as we remain blind to the built-in deficiencies of the United Nations.

POLYGAMY

To the Editor:

In your Monday edition, I read an article in which a Dr. Lee, engaged in medical research, said that "monogamous marriage is a bizarre and unnatural state."

According to this article, the doctor compares man with animals and says, "The normal buck, bull, stallion or primate collects, dominates, protects and impregnates as many females as he possibly can."

I'm convinced that the teaching of evolution in our high schools and colleges is causing our young people to believe they are animals, and is one of the major causes of so many of our young women to be forced out of school as unwed mothers.

It seems that whenever man is given the liberty to act like an animal, the women, girls and children are the ones who suffer the most.

I recently finished a book written by a man who was raised in a polygamous family. While his father went off to visit his other wives, this young man's mother was left with the responsibility of not only raising the children, but also supporting them. Each wife wondered who the father's real sweetheart was. Even tho he was unable to protect and provide for the families he already had, he married two more women. Who suffered most from this kind of lie? Not the man, as the author of the book makes clear.

In the past century, scientists have accumulated more knowledge, and have contributed more to man's welfare and comfort, that at any time in recorded history. Why, may I ask, has not one scientist from anywhere in the world been able to present one fact that verifies organic evolution of man from animal life, or the common ancestry of man with animals?

According to Moses in the Old Testament (Genesis 1:26, 27) and Christ in the New Testament (Matthew 19:4, 5) man and woman were created by God and for each other.

Man is distinct from animals not only in that he was created by God, separately from animals, and given higher reasoning powers and a conscience, but that he must also give an account to God some day for all his actions, including the lives his teachings and influence corrupt and destroy.

Far better for the single people of our society to devote their lives to a constructive Christian endeavor as recommended in the New Testament (1 Corinthians, 7:32-35), than to become involved in a kind of marriage that brings jealousy, confusion and misery — especially to the women.

HISTORICAL REGION

To the Editor:

We, the Coloradans, see tourists, visitors who travel each country and state for sightseeing and vacationing tours.

These trips could be the thing of the past if we keep up doing away with our great historical monuments. We all should stick up for the rights of keeping the Trianon in the Broadmoor area.

The Pikes Peak Limited, which ran from Colorado Springs into Manitou and all the way to Victor and Cripple Creek, should never have been done away with. The train made a great many round trips thru the lovely region of sight-scenery which surrounds us for tourists of all states.

Keep our history of by-gone days lively. The Old West will never fade out. This should be the westerner's spirit.

ROBIN HOOD

To the Editor:

One of your readers seems to suffer from the fixation that I have a special mad on for the people of her former country, England. Actually, this is not the case. In fact, I rather admire the English, or British, if you will. They probably take second place to none in their love of and respect for individual privacy. I recall once in 1944 having shared a seat with an English gentleman on a train trip from Glasgow in Scotland to a place called Abergavanney (?) in Wales. He smiled and nodded when we took our seats. Several hours later, when we parted, he smiled and nodded again. I was much impressed.

But whether or not the legendary Robin Hood was a socialist, a thug and a thief, has nothing to do with the character or my like or dislike of the English people per se. Robin Hood was either a socialist, a thug and a thief, or he was not. It is as simple as that.

Robin stole, so the story goes, from the rich and gave to the poor. Thus it follows that he believed that people should be rewarded, not on the basis of their productivity, but on the basis of their needs. That, when we add the element of force, made him a socialist.

In carrying out his socialist philosophy he resorted to violence, knocking people on the head, if you will, and relieving them of their property. That made him a thug.

And since he stole (knowingly and without permission of the owner taking that which was not his) obviously, he was a thief.

So, once more, Robin Hood was a socialist, a thug and a thief. That he gave part of the loot to the poor, if we are to believe the legend, does not alter the case one whit. The proof is to be found in the manner of the "getting" and not in the distribution of the proceeds thereof. As has been said previously, if the "get" is honest, the "give" will take care of itself.

Define theft, ma'am. Then form your premises from there. And, with a bit of thought, you might then ask me an embarrassing question indeed.

Open Mind

From The Royal Bank of Canada Monthly Letter

A closed mind is merely a machine, automatically churning over and over again the little that is in it, believing always whatever it now believes. It is prone to exclude, whether neighbour from a country club or books from the library.

The open-minded person has a question which he asks regularly in order to prevent misunderstandings: "How does this look from where he stands?" It applies to members of his family, to a neighbour, to those who live in another city or province, and to those whose homes are at the far ends of the earth.

When you look at the spectrum you see the colours, from violet to red, side by side but shading into one another with no boundaries to indicate precisely where one colour ends and another begins. That is the way to look at people, too. There is no such thing as a life that is all black or all white, all indigo, blue, green, yellow or orange, altho one or another will predominate at one time or one place.

The Athenians gave us the first example of the explicit recognition of the importance of social tolerance. They had minds open to new ideas and thoughts. We recall that on his journey up and down the coast of Asia Minor Saint Paul was mobbed and imprisoned and ridiculed and beaten, but when he came to Athens they brought him to Mars Hill, their highest court, and said: "May we know what this new doctrine, whereof thou speakest, is?"

Open-mindedness is not empty-headedness. It means having a desire to learn as well as having freedom from prejudice, partisanship and other mind-closing habits. If you have an open mind you are not content to uncover errors: you go a step farther in an attempt to establish true opinion to take their place. And when you come upon something excellent you like it, no matter whose it is.

Is This an Honor?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

There has been a tremendous amount of conversation about the plan to reproduce a different face on a half dollar. Personally, I couldn't care less about which face is on what coin. I will, however, be vitally interested in the silver content in new half dollars or any other silver coins. But is it an honor to have your face imprinted upon coins or currency issued by government, the federal reserve banks or both? What good purpose is served by reproducing faces of politicians or other notorious persons on coins, currency or stamps? I can think of none.

Government, having no faith in government, has instituted an absolute monopoly in such matters as the ownership and control of currency, and ownership and control of the post office department. It dares not face competition! Government always detests competition because private enterprise competition always shows up government in its true, inefficient light. But, we can imagine what might happen if private enterprise could compete with government.

Visualize a silver dollar on which might be represented a lion attacking a bull or an elephant chasing a donkey or a donkey biting huge hunks out of the hind quarters of elephants. How about a silver dollar with a single, magnificent buck depicted on one surface?

A coin similar to the Athenian owl would be interesting but if the owl could be depicted as a calm and wise old bird, the effect might be nicer. Illustrations on coins have shown such things as an ear of barley, a bee, turtles, stags and swans, but never a pretty girl in a bikini swim suit or less. Dolphins, goats and hares, eagles, dogs, wolves, geese, frogs, crocodiles and snakes have been used to make one coin different from another, not to mention mice, grasshoppers and lizards. Were the little bugs and animals pleased with the honors bestowed upon them or did they just go on about their business?

Of course there has been some talk about imprinting the faces of checking account depositors on their bank checks, as well as a fingerprint or two, but I suspect this procedure will not denote an honor being paid to the depositor but rather a blanket indictment of clients of banks. On the other hand, a family portrait of papa and mama, complete with fingerprints, will make a nice, homey effect on checks used for joint accounts.

Certainly, I would trust private enterprise money, Mr. Henderson. I would prefer money backed by a financially sound private enterprise concern to money issued by a totally bankrupt government any day of the week, including tomorrow.

As a matter of fact, we always look with pride at money we receive occasionally from a nationally known mail order house when a rebate is due us. Actually, this money is in the form of a bank check but it is issued to bearer and may be cashed without endorsement and we've found no merchant refusing to accept this kind of money.

Now, let your most imaginative thinking dwell on private enterprise postage stamps. If private enterprise started handling the delivery and transportation of mail and packages and publications, who knows what might happen? One concern might use a rubber stamp which merely acted as a receipt for postage paid. Another might go all out and provide decorative stamps of all types, shapes and sizes, and stamp collectors could really enjoy themselves.

Of course, I don't expect to see anything of this kind in my lifetime but I didn't expect the majority of the people of this country to become more and more irresponsible within my lifetime, either. I prefer to believe there may be some change for the better one of these days and that I may be around to see the beginning, anyway. In the meantime, remember those new one dollar bills are backed by 25 per cent in gold which we are prohibited from owning.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

Do you have money invested in a savings account, insurance policy, pension plan or social security?

If so, your financial future is in serious jeopardy!

The value of your savings is solely dependent upon the continuing course of inflation in America. That retirement income of $300 or $500 per month might look very adequate right now. But by the time you retire, its purchasing power can shrink to only $50 or $100 per month. Could you live on that?

The stakes of inflation are enormous. If it continues, you may spend your "retirement" years working harder than you do today — or imposing a frightful burden on your children. Is this what you want?

The cause of inflation is simple. It is not high prices — that's just the effect of it.

Inflation is a condition in which the government feeds new paper money into the nation's economy to pay expenses for which no taxes have been raised.

For example, if the government collects $85 billion in taxes — but spends $90 billion — it must make up the $5 billion from somewhere. It sells bonds to the Federal Reserve System, which pays for them with new Federal Reserve Notes. These notes look and feel just like other money, but have no value of their own — because they are not backed up by gold or silver.

And since these new bills have no real value of their own, all other money in circulation inevitably decreases in value until the total money supply once again equals the assets backing it up.

So that $5 billion extra that the government spends will eventually cost the taxpayers $5 billion in new inflation. Even tho the costs of government do not appear to come out of your tax bill, they do come out of the value of your savings account, insurance policy or paycheck.

NEW THREAT

In the last twenty years, your savings have already been cut in half by inflation. And — far from slowing down—it is now beginning to speed up. New one dollars bills have just been put in circulation — without gold or silver backing.

In addition, the government is anxiously pushing a "tax cut" that is not accompanied by a cut in spending. This means more inflation is forthcoming to make up the deficit in the government's budget.

Together, these two developments signal a massive increase in the rate of inflation — unless we act now to reverse the trend. Three major steps are required to restore economic sanity to our nation:

1. Passage of the Liberty Amendment will cut government expenditures to those authorized by the Constitution only.

2. A prohibition on paper money not backed by gold or silver will further check the government's temptations to spend.

3. The citizen's right to personally own gold must be re-established. This provides additional protection against inflationary government policies.

If you don't have a savings account, insurance policy, pension plan or fixed income, don't worry about all this. But if you do — then isn't it time you acted to protect your own future?

If you don't, someday you'll be wondering, "What happened to my savings account?"

Another Blooper

By Robert Allen and Paul Scott

Last July the foreign aid agency agreed to put up $88 million for the construction of a 380-megawatt nuclear power plant in Terapur, India. Total cost of this project is $114 million, with the balance in the form of loans and credits. This juicy contract went to General Electric Company.

This same corporation is building a 600-megawatt nuclear power plant for the New Jersey Central Power & Light Company at Oyster Creek, N.J., for $68 million.

Aid Administrator David Bell is being asked to explain the big difference in cost between the two plants.

It is being pointed out to him that for the power plant in India, General Electric is getting $300 per kilowatt, while the Oyster Creek plant is costing only $113 a kilowatt. Transportation charges to India are estimated at around $1 million, which still leaves a wide gap between the costs of the two plants.

Bell's explanation is being awaited with avid curiosity.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: We have started installing the studding in our attic, which we plan to make into two bedrooms. We had about decided on using knotty pine panels for the walls, but recently saw another attic finished with plywood and can't quite make up our minds. Can you tell us which is cheaper?

ANSWER: No — not without knowing the grade of knotty pine and the kind of plywood. You can get some types of plywood at a cheaper price than knotty pine panels, but others — notably, the hardwoods —are more expensive. Your decision should be based on which material you think will best suit your purpose. You can then buy that kind of material in the price range which fits your pocketbook.

Actually, you would have been wiser to make the choice before you began putting up the framework. If, for instance, you are using quarter-inch plywood, you can get by without putting up furring strips, placing the 4 by 8 sheets directly across the studding. This will only work if you do a careful job in lining up the studs.

If you are using knotty pine panels of regular or random widths, you will have to put horizontal furring strips across the studding and then attach the panels to the furring strips. In the latter event, the studs should be 16 inches apart on center; that is, 16 inches from the center of one stud to the next. When sturdy plywood sheets are being used, you can often place the studs 24 inches apart on center. One other point: as a compromise, you might try plywood sheets with knotty pine facing.

Question: I recently purchased a large quantity of sand for use in a concrete project I have in mind. A neighbor took a look at the sand and said he thinks it contains too much silt, which I understand is a mineral soil deposit. He said that the concrete won't come out right if I make it with this sand.

I am willing to forget about using the sand for the concrete, since I have another use for it. But how do I know whether the sand has too much silt and how can I determine whether the next batch I buy will be the same?

Answer: Your neighbor is correct about the effect of making concrete with sand containing too much silt. Here is a simple test that will determine whether there is an excessive amount of silt, which is present to some degree in all sand. Pour about two inches of the sand into a small, clean, dry jar. Then add clear water to a point close to the top of the jar. Shake the jar vigorously for a couple of minutes, then set it down. The silt will go to the top, leaving the rest of the water perfeclty clear. If the laker of silt is more than one-eighth of an inch in depth, the sand has too much silt and is not suitable for making concrete.

If you purchased the sand from a dealer who knew that it was to be used in a concrete mix, he should be willing to exchange it for the right kind. The presence of foreign materials in sand weakens the concrete mix and is one reason why ordinary beach sand is not suitable for this purpose.

Poor Heating Causes Cold Floors

Drafts and cold floors may be caused by poor quality heating equipment, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council. Good insurance against substandard heating can be obtained with a hydronic (hot water) home heating system.

House Plans You Can Buy

By Hiawatha Estes, AIBD

Whether you dream of a vacation house high on a windy hill or deep in a shady glade, the values of a second home are assuming a new importance in today's way of life.

A design such as this should not be considered only as a second home. The plan offers adults the simplicity of an apartment and the generous living space of a large house minus a number of superfluous rooms plus the usual time-consuming care they require.

Individuality begins here at the entry. From the roofed porch, a beautiful and inviting stone planter leads to the front door. From the door, one walks into an attractive entry. A wide and convenient guest closet opens to the entry. From this area, there is access to the living room, bath and bedroom. A very unusual feature in a home of this size.

A window in the front wall of the living room offers a view towards the street while sliding glass doors open to the privacy of the rear patio. The fireplace opens to the living room but is mostly located in the garage so as to provide additional living space in the living room.

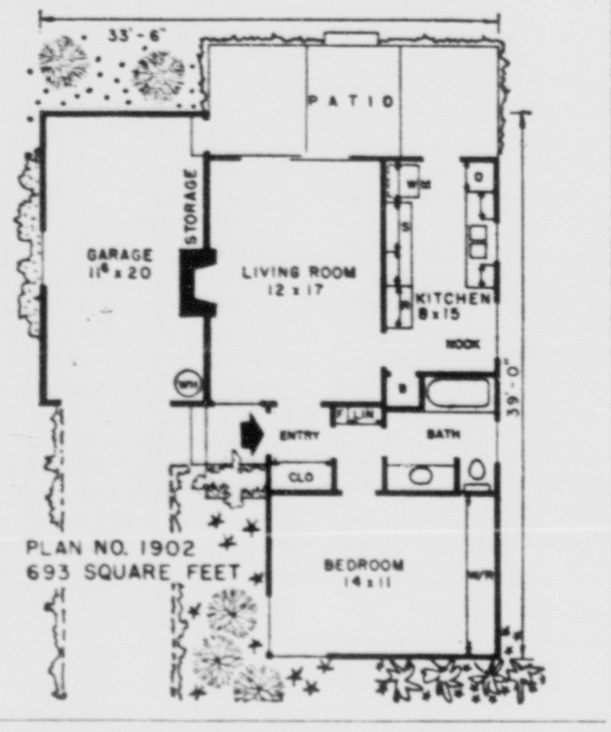
The compact but well laid out kitchen has been planned to lighten daily household tasks, now and in the years to come. It can boast of a generous size eating nook, the latest built-ins and space for a washer. Note the large broom closet and its out-of-the-way location. A rear door opens from the kitchen to the patio.

The bath has a recessed tub with a shower over, a pullman lavatory and a water closet behind a partial wall.

The bedroom offers eleven feet of wardrobe. A small, inexpensive but efficient forced air furnace — next to the linen closet — emits warm air directly into the living room and hall.

Wide eaves around the perimeter of the home protect the walls and windows from most of the elements. Board-on-board vertical siding has been specified for the exterior wall covering but could be replaced with a different type wood siding or other material during the construction of the home if you so desire.

Complete working drawings for this plan can be purchased at a cost of $8.50 for the first set and $5.00 for each additional set when ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these prices until May 19, 1964. Please allow two or three weeks for delivery. The following home plan books are also available: Hallmark Homes — $1; Award Homes — $1; Town & Country Homes—$1; Homes for Living — $1; Homes of Distinction — $1; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2. All books — a $7 value — only $5. Send all orders for either plans or books to: Hiawatha Estes, P. O. Box 404-K, Northridge, Calif.



Protect Outdoor Metal From Rust

Derust lawn furniture, sports equipment, garden tools and the children's swing set before they are stored and they'll be bright, shiny and ready to use when returning warm weather put them in demand again.

During the summer rust often gets a start on metal objects, then the most serious rust damage occurs while equipment is in storage.

Much of the work in rust prevention has been eliminated by the one-step derusting paints, primer and finish coat are combined in one product. With these rust preventive paints often only the loose, flaking rust need by removed.

The paint should penetrate the small amount left on the surface of the metal and check it from spreading.

Remove old paint with emery cloth and steel wool. Clean up rust the same way. Wipe the clean surface with a solvent so that no grease or oil is present.

Boilers Installed With Extra Capacity

Hydronic (hot water) boilers for home heating systems are usually installed with sufficient extra capacity — up to 30 per cent — to handle extra heating loads that result from home expansion, says the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

PICK BEST SPOT

When adding a room to your home, try to pick a location where an existing window or door can be used as a connecting passageway. By doing so, costs are reduced because the existing opening already will have a functioning header.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

Provide Inside Hose Connections To Fight Fire

For most of us, the purchase of a house represents the largest single investment of a lifetime. For this reason, it makes good sense to protect that investment in every possible way.

The importance of an adequate water supply under sufficient pressure should be kept in mind when planning to build or modernize a house, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

Water is not only a key to comfortable, gracious living in the home, but is is also a major factor in providing fire protection.

Fire insurance underwriters know the value of a few gallons of water directed at a fire that has just started. It is far more effective than hundreds of gallons after a fire has gotten out of control.

The installation of an ordinary faucet in a centrally located closet is one economical method of obtaining added protection against fire. The faucet should have hose threads so that an ordinary garden hose can be attached to it. Have your plumbing contractor install it out of the reach of children.

Another precaution suggested by the Bureau is the installation of a cabineted fire hose in a central hallway.

All facuets and valves intended for use in fighting fires should be connected directly with the water supply piping where it leaves the meter. This means that in an emergency, you will have maximum water volume and pressure.

It is advised that homeowners discuss the matter of fire protection with an experienced plumbing contractor. His expert design and installation of a fire fighting system will give you important protection economically.

Build Luxury and Comfort into Headboard

By BILL MEYERRIECKS

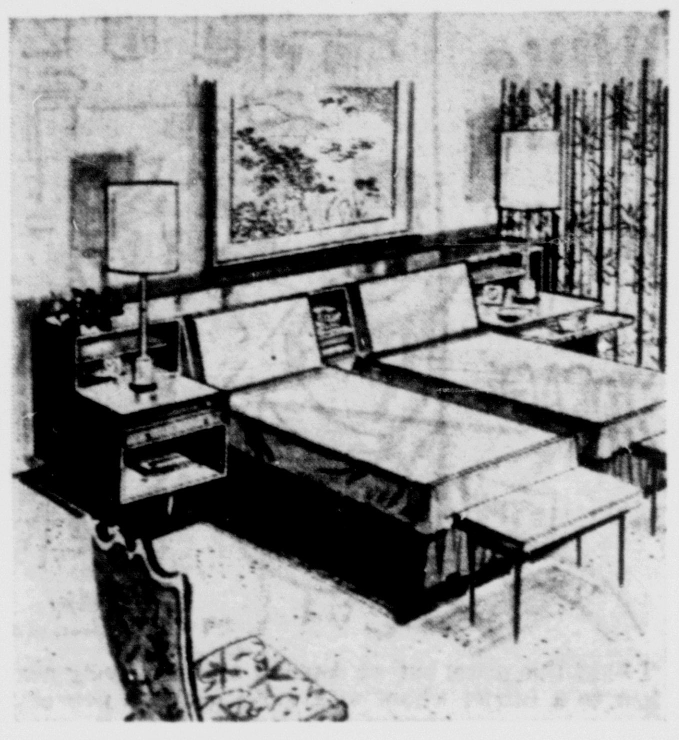
Sketchbook's idea for a comfortable, padded headboard is one any handyman can build, any homemaker will love—and best of all, it really is a unique, luxurious unit that will be appreciated in any bedroom of the home. It is designed to be flexible enough to fit any need — double bed, single bed or even twin beds. If you are planning to revise your bedroom any time in the near future, or perhaps expanding to an extra bedroom, S-147 of the Sketchbook series is a plan to have and consider.

The headboard has built-in comfort and convenience. Under the cabinet tops at each side, for instance, there's a shallow drawer for storage, which offers as much if not more than the average night table. Over this is a shallow shelf for clock or radio. Below the drawer is a large compartment for magazines where you can easily reach that favorite book that you love to read in bed.

Immediately under the case top there is a pull-out board for that luxury of luxury — that first cup of coffee in the morning. And the board is right where you can easily reach it as you lounge comfortably against the built-in backrests of the bed.

Sloped attractively and lightly upholstered over foam rubber, the two backs are hinged at the bottoms to provide access to the valuable hidden storage space within.

Sketchbook plan S-147, available thru this newspaper for only 50 cents, gives you all details in easy step-by-step directions to build the headboard plus full material and parts lists. It is suggested that you make the project in hardwood, but plan also tells how you can substitute pine or even plywood. If that extra bedroom is in your future plans, then here is a good opportunity to give it a definite design lift.



GLAMOUR AND COMFORT: Padded backrests heighten the look of luxury in this headboard design, and insure comfortable lounging. There's plenty of convenient storage space, including pull-out sideboards. Dimensions may be lengthened or shortened to fit your bed. To order easy-to-follow building plan for Luxury Headboard S-147, fill in the blanks below, cut out this coupon, and mail with 50 cents to SKETCHBOOK, in care of this newspaper.

Do-It-Yourselfers Can Dress Up Neglected Walls

Do-it-yourselfers looking for cold weather indoor projects might consider improving beat-up walls in neglected areas — stairway, stair landings, foyers.

Walls with their cracks, bumps and gouges are often rejected as projects when they are not in the living areas of the house. But these walls can be made an asset to the entire house and easily rejuvenated with a minimum of time and money.

Tearing out the entire wall is a big nuisance to the household, a dirty task for the do-it-yourselfer who must breathe in old plaster and a headache to the homemaker who must live with the mess. It is an expense no matter what course is pursued when a wall is torn out and additional new studs often are required, insulation, plaster or plasterboard and taping, and then the finish — paint or wall-covering — can chew up several hundred dollars.

An alternative that can be less expensive and eliminate the mess involves putting up either a finished plywood — walnut, teak, birch, etc. — or an ordinary plywood and covering it with one of the marvelous new wallcoverings.

Furring strips may be put up, plywood and then a finished decorative material to bring the cost down considerably. In addition, the handsome covering used can set a charm theme for the entire house.

An idea used by one well-known antiques buyer is a covering of deep gold burlap along the staircase wall of his little salt box home and above the wainscoting of an attractive beamed living room.

The gold color is exactly right for his English antiques, paintings and other treasures and the cost of the material used was negligible.

The burlap was put up with a special adhesive and attached with staples at sides to establish evenness. This burlap is laminated to a backing which is then coated with the adhesive before application.

Deep red is another effective staircase wall covering, with either contemporary or modern furnishings.

There are narrow and wide-striped tickings, and more elegant fabric coverings — linens, brocades, grass cloth and moires. There are vinyl laminated and coated burlaps that defy grubby hands. They are scrubable and scuff resistant. These permit the use of light colors and white on walls and stairways.

Wall paneling can upgrade old bumpy living room walls. A good rich finish can be achieved, too, by using a rich color above a wainscoting of warm-tone paneled wood.

Dark colors can flatter a small living room. If the proper balance is used — dark wood along with a rich color and light, bright accents, results can be truly amazing. The warmth of wood can help make the room cozier than any other decorating scheme.

This technique should be studied carefully before it is used. The proper textures and accent colors must accompany dark wood. Burlap is a good choice, providing the color chosen is not muddy. White wainscoting is an excellent choice for a small room, using yellow, vibrant blue or red paper or burlap above it. One is helped in the choice of this laminated burlap because colors available are beautiful. It is difficult to make a wrong decision, unless it is in the harmony of other furnishings in the room.

Painting Can Delay New Roof Several Years

Costly re-roofing jobs can be postponed five to eight years or more by using the new aluminum roof coatings and paints recently introduced by the paint industry. These coatings can be made with and without asbestos.

Available in a choice of pastel colors, these paints are of three general types: asphalt combined with aluminum flakes, alkyd-based aluminum paints and synthetic rubber-based aluminum paints. The alkyds usually contain asbestos fibers for greater strength, body and insulation. The asphalt coatings are made with and without asbestos.

In addition to waterproofing and sealing the roof, these paints can also reduce under-roof temperatures by as much as ten to fifteen degrees because they reflect a large proportion of the sun's heat. During the winter, this same reflective aluminum shield will also turn heat from inside back down, thus reducing heat loss thru the roof. This means lower air conditioning and heating bills.

As noted previously, these coatings cannot be used on wood roofs, but they can be applied to built-up composition or felt roofing, to metal roofing to asbestos-cement shingles, tile, slate or asphalt shingles.

Before the coatings are applied, the roof should be absolutely clean and any loose material, including blistered paint or rust, should be removed. Loose or blistered areas should be nailed down. Small breaks in the surface are sealed with roof cement. Badly damaged areas and large cracks and holes should be patched with roofing felt, securely attached with roofing cement.

It is generally not necessary to repair small cracks, nail holes or other tiny leaks because both types of coatings will form a water-proof, weatherproof film which will stay flexible for years without drying out.

Since the covering rates of aluminum paints and coatings vary with the type of surface being treated and the type of paint, fibered or not fibered, be sure to read label instructions carefully.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

The mortar joints around the top of a bathtub are especially susceptible to the ravages of time because they are constantly under attack from water. This is especially true if the tub has an overhead shower, which sends water against the walls and down toward the joints.

Various kinds of caulking compounds are available for patching such areas, most of them far more effective than those on the market years ago. Before applying the compound, remove all loose mortar, but do not disturb that which is firmly in place.

Use a small brush to dust the crevices thoroly, otherwise the compound will not adhere properly. Be sure, too, that the sections to be repaired are completely dry.

Apply the compound directly from the tube, squeezing it with an even pressure as you move your hand along the joint. Don't worry too much if you don't get the hang of it immediately, since a certain amount of leveling will be necessary in any case.

A wooden spatula — or one of those wooden sticks from an ice cream pop — is excellent for the leveling of the joint. Do not attempt this immediately. Wait 30 or 40 minutes until the compound has started to set and you'll get a better result. Dampening the stick sometimes helps in smoothing uneven patches.

A single-edge razor blade will effectively remove compound which slops over onto the wall or the tub.

Lobbies Split Over Federal Aid To Education

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two religious lobbies are exhorting their members to bombard the White House with letters and telegrams on federal aid to parochial schools.

The lobbies stand on opposite sides of the ever-controversial issue. Each says it is trying to generate mail to the President in order to offset the efforts of the other.

Carrying the hod for parochial school aid is "Citizens for Educational Freedom" (CEF), which describes itself as "a national, non-sectarian organization of parents and friends of children in Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and other private schools." Its headquarters are in St. Louis, Mo.

Leading the opposition to any use of public funds for church-related schools is "Protestants and Other Americans United for the Separation of Church and State" (POAU), with headquarters in Washington.

Although both organizations take pains to avoid a narrow denominational label, the CEF is predominantly supported by Catholics, while POAU draws most of its support from Baptists, Methodists and other Protestants.

CAB Promises Prompt Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered a quick investigation into the need for scheduled air service to the Steamboat Springs-Hayden-Craig area of Colorado on a route between Denver and Salt Lake City.

If the Marriage Is on the Rocks

By Charles W. Schoeneman
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
(Fifth of 10 Articles)

Along with its human wreckage, a marriage broken by divorce or separation leaves a host of tax problems and confusion. This article will tell how to handle alimony and support payments on 1963 tax returns.

A man who itemizes deductions may deduct alimony or separate maintenance payments as they are defined in the tax law.

He may not deduct payments which have been specifically designated as support for minor children.

Whatever money is deducted by the man as alimony or separate maintenance is, however, taxable income for the woman who receives it.

Child support payments, since they are not deductible for the man, are not considered taxable income for the woman.

To be deductible, alimony and separate maintenance payments must satisfy each of the following tests:

They must be required under or incident to a court decree of either divorce or separate maintenance or under a written separation agreement or a support decree.

They must have been either paid in discharge of a legal obligation based upon the marriage or family relationship, or required by the support decree, or made under the separation agreement and because of the marriage or family relationship.

They must have been paid after the decree of divorce or separation, or after the separation agreement.

They must generally have been what the law calls "periodic payments."

It is true that certain installment payments of a total fixed amount of alimony may be deductible even though they do not technically qualify as "periodic payments." But you must check carefully to see whether such installment payments of a specific total sum are in the category.)

Divorced or separated couples have special tax problems on alimony and support payments.

What is meant by "periodic payments?" They may be either payments of fixed amounts for an indefinite period of time or payments of an indefinite amount (like a percentage of salary) for a fixed or indefinite period. They need not be made at regular intervals.

Generally, fixed payments for a fixed period of less than 10 years are not periodic payments and are not deductible. The only exception to this is where a contingency, such as death or remarriage, can terminate the less - than - 10 - year obligation. Then the payments will qualify as deductible "periodic payments."

Are a divorce laywer's fee deductible? No. Ordinarily not, unless the fee can qualify as payments in connection with tax advice.

Sometimes a divorced husband is required by a court to pay the insurance, mortgage, interest, taxes and utilities for a house he and his ex-wife still own jointly (with rights of survivorship). Are these expenses deductible as alimony? No. The IRS says he cannot deduct as alimony any of these expenses, except the utilities. However, he can deduct the interest and taxes to the extent these items ordinarily are deductible by any homeowner.

Cuban Students To Enter U.S. Schools Soon

WASHINGTON (UPI)—About 2,400 Cuban refugees will enter 219 American colleges and universities next spring through loans of more than $944,000 from the U.S. Office of Education, the agency said Friday.

It said about 600 of the students are borrowing funds for the first time. They bring to about 3,300 the number who have borrowed an estimated $4,150,000 since the program began in the 1961 spring semester.

Braceros May Be Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Mexican farm workers may not be available for the full year despite extension of the Mexican bracero farm labor program, Labor Department budget figures indicated today.

Lack of funds to finance administrative costs of the program might result in its liquidation before Dec. 31, officials said in submitting budget requests to Congress.

Administrative costs of the program to bring the so-called braceros into the United States to help harvest crops are met from a fund created by charging employers $15 for each bracero contracted.

If sufficient funds are not available in the fund to meet all costs, the department said, it would be necessary to stop contracting workers and liquidate the program before the expiration date set by Congress.

Cotton Industry Divided Over Cost Reduction

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Spokesmen for the American cotton industry are unanimous in urging that something be done to reduce the cost of cotton to U. S. textile mills. But they are sharply divided on how the job should be done.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, headed by Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., opened hearings on new cotton legislation Tuesday and heard representatives of three farm groups urge Senate approval of a subsidy to cotton traders. More witnesses were called to testify today.

The House-approved subsidy plan has been backed by a number of cotton and textile leaders who say it will help halt the loss of cotton markets to imported fabrics and synthetic fibers.

Ellender said he hoped to steer a new cotton bill to Senate passage by March 1. He said that public hearings on a wheat bill would be held next week. He hopes to combine new wheat and cotton provisions in a single package bill along with a dairy plan the Senate passed separately last October.

The cotton subsidy, one of the principal features of a cotton bill approved by the House, would allow cotton traders to buy from farmers at the government-supported price and sell to textile mills at lower prices.

But the National Grange, the Western Cotton Growers Association of California, and the Missouri Cotton Producers Association offered widely varying advice on many other features of the new cotton proposals.

Ellender Tuesday outlined a possible compromise plan of his own.

Under this compromise, domestic textile mills would be given reduced cotton prices only on the amount of cotton they use over and beyond their normal use.

Bonuses May Take Credit For Corporation Earnings

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Cash bonuses, stock options and other special incentives to executives play a role in generating record corporation profits like those now being reported.

Practically every big company offers incentive compensation to lure and hold able managers.

Rewards under most plans are geared to profits. For top executives, the incenitve often is tailored to overcome the federal income tax rates on high bracket salaries.

General Motors Corp. awarded more than $100 million bonuses at the start of 1963, based on employe performance in 1962. Last Monday, GM reported 1963 earnings of $1,592,000,000 more money than any business has ever made in a year.

Stock options granted to Lynn Townsend, president, and six other officers of Chrysler Corp., a GM rival, stirred a demand by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to outlaw such privileges.

The Chrysler group, which converted an ailing firm into a big money-maker, benefited more than $3 million recently through a preferential stock purchase-sale arrangement.

"This stock option privilege is a tax abuse which is growing," Gore said. He called it detrimental to stockholders and unfair to taxpayers.

Some companies have profit-sharing plans. Others have savings-investment funds in which the company matches the individual's contribution.

U.S. Steel Corp. has seven kinds of incentives, some available to blue collar as well as white collar employes—such as rewards for suggestions to improve efficiency.

Analysts credit the GM bonus plan, established in 1918, with an important part in the development and retention of GM's excellent management corps.

In all likelihood, bonuses wil exceed $100 million again this year. They could amount to half again as much.

Awards granted last February—the so-called 1962-related bonus — were distributed to about 14,000 employes, most of them salaried men and women earning more than $9,600 a year.

The size of the bonus — or whether an employe will get one — is determined anew each year, based in the first instance on a recommendation of his immediate superior.

Except for small awards made in a lump sum, they are paid on an installment basis over five years. This provides a strong deterrent against switching to another company. When an employe quits, the payments stop.

On GM's highest echelons, bonuses help explain why GM placed eight names on 1962's list of industry's 10 highest paid men.

Of $791,466 accruing to chairman Frederick G. Donner last year, his salary was $201,275 and bonus payable in cash was $442,500. The remainder was in contingent credits under the GM stock option plan.

Roger M. Keyes, vice president in charge of the accessory group, received $126,100 in salary plus $300,000 in bonus. His total emoluments came to $526,258.

And he ranked seventh on the GM payroll.

Other vice presidential salaries and bonuses:

Edward N. Cole $141,200 and $341,250; Lo suiC. Goad $161,100 and $352,500; James E. Goodman $153,700 and $352,500; and James M. Roche $131,000 and $341,250; Louis C. Goad $161,100 dent, drew $180,900 in salary, $408,750 in bonus and had total emoluments of $725,049.

Over-all, 56 directors and GM officers divided $9,036,053 in bonuses — payable over the next five years.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., 88, GM's honorary board chairman, said in his recent book, "My Years with General Motors" "It is my own profound conviction that to abolish or seriously modify the bonus plan after 45 years of successful operation might very well destroy the spirit and organization of the corporation's management."

Pueblo East Hands Tribe Narrow Loss

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

PUEBLO — A pair of pressure-packed shots failed to find the mark for Palmer High's inconsistent Terrors here Friday night and Pueblo East dumped them into the cellar of the South Central League with a 62-60 decision.

The missed key attempts at the wire erased what had been a brilliant rally for the Terrors in the second half as they came from behind a 11 point deficit at halftime to grab a brief lead near the finish only to see it disappear in the final minute of play.

The first of the crucial shots came with only six seconds on the clock and East's Eagles holding a two-point edge. Usually steady guard, Mike Romero, stepped to the free throw line for the Terrors with two tries coming up. His first one missed, so the only choice for Palmer was to go for the rebound on the second attempt.

East got the key carom, but the ball was swiped back and the Terrors had still another pot-shot at the basket in an attempt to send the game into overtime. Right at the buzzer, they worked the ball into Bob Pearson under the goal and he tried vainly to push it thru an umbrella of Eagles' arms — and the game was over!

For the second straight game, however, Palmer blew a lead in the final minutes, just as they had done a week ago against Pueblo South in Colorado Springs. This time the Terrors were out in front by a 56-51 margin with three minutes to go, but floor mistakes donated possession to East on no less than four trips down the court and this was enough to turn the tide.

East's scoring ace, Bill Brown, banged in five of their eight buckets in the final quarter to pull the Eagles from behind. He finished with 32 points for the game — by far the tops for both squads and now the high total for a single game in the entire league this season.

Actually, the Terrors did a fine job in holding Brown for most of the contest and the defensive work of team captain Walt Hylton was espedially outstanding. However, the officials elected to give him a free rein under the basket and time and again he merely took the ball and backed right into the defensive wall in back of him to gain good shooting position.

The loss was Palmer's fifth in seven league games and virtually knocked them completely out of the running for one of the top spots this winter. The Tribe finishes up with several home games, where they should get a bit better break in the officiating, but it's probably too late to catch the leaders.

East, on the other hand, sailed back into contention with the win which was their third in seven tries. They, too, have a long road ahead tho and another loss along the way probably would put them on the sidelines.

Considering the dismal performance in the first half by the Terrors, they probably didn't deserve to win. Colder than an Eskimo in January during the first two periods, they had to flash some signs of greatness to even get back into the running.

East had them down by 13 points after the first five minutes of the game as only Bobby Joe Williams could connect on a solo field goal and a free throw in that span. They closed that to a nine-point deficit by the first break, but still were hitting poorly from the field.

Things didn't improve much in the second period, but a half-dozen free throws kept them from going all the way down before intermission. They finished the first half by hitting only six of 27 shots for a chilly 22 per cent.

In contrast, the Terrors blistered the cords for 65 per cent in the second half. Some of this was undoubtedly brought on by the short-short pep talk Coach Jerry Schroeder gave them — sending his team right back onto the floor at halftime for the obvious practice they needed.

At any rate, they started the second half in race-horse fashion and continued the pace thruout the third period — dumping in 24 points in the eight minutes. Leading the way was Hylton, who finished with 14, Bill McCalvy who had a game total of 15, and forward Bob Pearson. Most of this time the Tribe was forced to play without the services of starting center Bobby Joe Williams, who as usual, picked up three early fouls.

The Terrors took their first lead with one minute to go in the third period, 40-39, and went ahead by four by the start of the final go-round.

Brown then started his big rush in the fourth frame and he almost personally trimmed the lead to one point with four minutes remaining in the game. Williams hit a cripple and Pearson dumped in a pair of free throws for the Terrors and they again had a five-point lead.

But the floor mistakes caught up with the Springs' five just when they needed their poise the most, and it was all East needed to get back into the contest. Guard Frank Albo stole the ball and raced in for a layup and seconds later Brown hit another close shot to pull to within one, 56-55. Brown connected on another and Darrell McDaniel followed with another to give the Eagles the lead at 59-57.

Romero's driving layup tied the score for the last time and then Brown found the mark again and McDaniel potted a free throw to give Esat all the points they needed — and set up the thrilling but futile finish for the Terrors.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

PPL Periscoping

With the new state alignment of league classification placing four teams—Air Academy High, Cheyenne Mountain, Harrison, and Widefield—from the Pikes Peak League into Class AAA competition this fall, the PPL (Class AA) will retain five schools in addition to Buena Vista, Ordway (Crowley County), and Fowler added to the Roster.

The eight schools in the PPL will compete in all major sporting events beginning with the 1964-65 school term. Locally, Manitou Springs and Fountain will remain in the Class AA league along with regular members including Salida, Florence, and Leadville.

Beside the vast distances between the eight schools in the PPL, the loop is caught in a flexible enrollment varying from 176 thru 550 students. Salida, the basketball kingpins for the last three years, will undoubtedly continue supremacy in the roundball sport.

One PPL spokesman put the traveling problem right on the button when he stated, "We'll have to purchase an airplane to commute between schools this fall."

For example: the distance between Leadville to Ordway is 205 miles. Altho the local schools, Fountain and Manitou, won't have that far to travel for a single game, the two schools will be confronted wtih logging considerable additional mileage.

At least this season these two teams have five games located in the nearby area to eliminate the expense and time involved in completing their baskebtall schedule.

Periscoping how the eight teams will jell as a league and what individual school will benefit from the new alignment, we think Salida will continue its role as the consistent leader; at least in basketball and track. However, the Spartans have proven themselves on the gridiron winning the PPL football championship two years running.

The Salida basketball team, under the capable direction of Don Schmidli who has produced three consecutive PPL championship teams the last three years, is presently seeking its fourth league title pending Friday's crucial game against top challenger Cheyenne Mountain. Even tho the Spartans should falter against Cheyenne, they will still be in contention for loop honors based on last year's record — the Salida aggregation bounced back from two defeats to win the league crown.

Undoubtedly the prime reason for Salida's success in basketball is the Spartans' building program. Schmidli has constructed a highly successful program in the junior high school, thus, providing yearly varsity candidates.

With the possibility of a proposed 500-home development slated for the Fountain area, that school should increase its athletic program to compete consistently on a more successful plane.

DON SCHMIDLI
Builder of Athletes

Last year the Fountain student enrollment was the lowest of the nine schools in the present PPL league. Fountain's 285 school enrollment put them at a handicap competing against school's with nearly 800 students. Witlefield, for an example, was 770 strong last year and and certainly picked up an additional 100 students this school term.

In addition to the proposed home development which really hasn't been finalized, Fountain is slated further growth during the 1965-66 school year as Ft. Carson will gain 280 housing units.

Fountain school officials were quick to point out that their school growth depends largely on the proposed development in that community. But regardless of the student body increase encountered by Fountain and Manitou, the Salida teams will prove superior as long as that southern school maintains its present philosophy — a plan for the future with a constructive building program in the lower grades.

Granted, Fountain would benefit if they eventually went Class AAA, providing they reach the allotted school enrollment, from the standpoint of less travel expenses but suffer on the sporting field unless they adopted a building program.

This problem of adjusting to the more competitive higher classification against the larger schools nearing the 3,000 student enrollment also holds true for the four local schools advancing to Class AA next fall.

Soviets Dominate Olympics

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Fleet and durable Lidia Skoblikova spearheaded continued Soviet domination of the ninth Winter Olympics with another record-smashing speed skating victory Friday as United States forces again were outclassed in their bid for a title.

A rare ray of hope came for the Americans in an 8-0 romp over Germany that kept the defending champions alive in the hockey tournament. However, U. S. chances are slight, since the Yanks already have been whipped by the Russians and still must face powerhouses Canada and Czechoslovakia in the round-robin competition.

Before the U. S. hockey victory, Mrs. Skoblikova, a dimpled blonde schoolteacher from Siberia, became the first double winner of the Games by taking the women's 1,500-meter speed skating in Olympic record time of 2 minutes, 22.6 seconds.

The 24-year-old holder of four world titles already had won the 500-meter, also setting an Olympic record, and might very well skate off with four gold medals. She still has the 1,000 and 3,000 meters to go.

Mrs. Skoblikova's triumph gave Russia its third gold medal of the current Games and the Soviet contingent picked up another bronze when Berta Kolokoltseva took third in the speed skating. Russia now has seven medals over-all, including one silver and three bronze, while no other nation has more than three—and the United States has been shut out completely.

Friday's only other gold went to Finland's Viekko Kankkonen, who soared to victory in special 70-meter ski jump on the final leap of the day.

Russia's potent hockey team, the current world champions, defeated Czechoslovakia 7-5 in a game that may have decided the gold medal in this sport. The teams are rated one-two in the round robin but the Russians built up a 4-0 edge in the first period and then hung on for the triumph.

German men and women dominated the second heat of the tobogganing singles from which the United States' lone woman entry, Mrs. Dorothy Hirschland of Closter, N.J., withdrew because of an injury suffered in a spill Thursday night.

There were numerous accidents with at least seven persons hurt badly enough to warrant medical attention. Konstanze Roehrs, petite Germany downhill skier, apparently was the worst injured. She fell on her face during practice and suffered a broken nose.

Elsewhere, Britain rocketed into the lead over the favored Italians in the first phases of two-man bobsledding, and Holland's ice queen, Sjoukje Dijkstra, increased her lead in women's figure skating singles as compulsory figures were completed.

America's battered girl speed skaters were well back and America's men were not real threats in the ski jumping. Also, U. S. entries are decided longshots in the bobsledding and women's figure skating.

The United States and Germany were scoreless in the rough first period of their hockey match, but the Americans broke loose for two goals in the second period and punched in six more in the third. Roger Christian of Warroad, Minn., and Dates Fryberger of Duluth, Minn., scored twice each. Goalie Pat Rupp of Detroit filling in for the injured Tom Yurkovich, turned in the shutout.

Judith Morstein of Butte, Mont., made the best showing among the American girls in speed skating, taking 15th place in 2:33.3. Marie Lawler of Minneapolis, wracked by the pain of a leg muscle ailment, was 19th in 2:34.9 and Janice Smith of Rochester, N.Y., was 24th in the field of 30 with a clocking of 237.8.

Miss Smith skidded some 25 yards past the finish line, plowed into a snowbank, and was carried by stretcher away from the course. But she was unhurt. Miss Lawler's shin splits probably will keep her out of further competition in the 1964 Games.

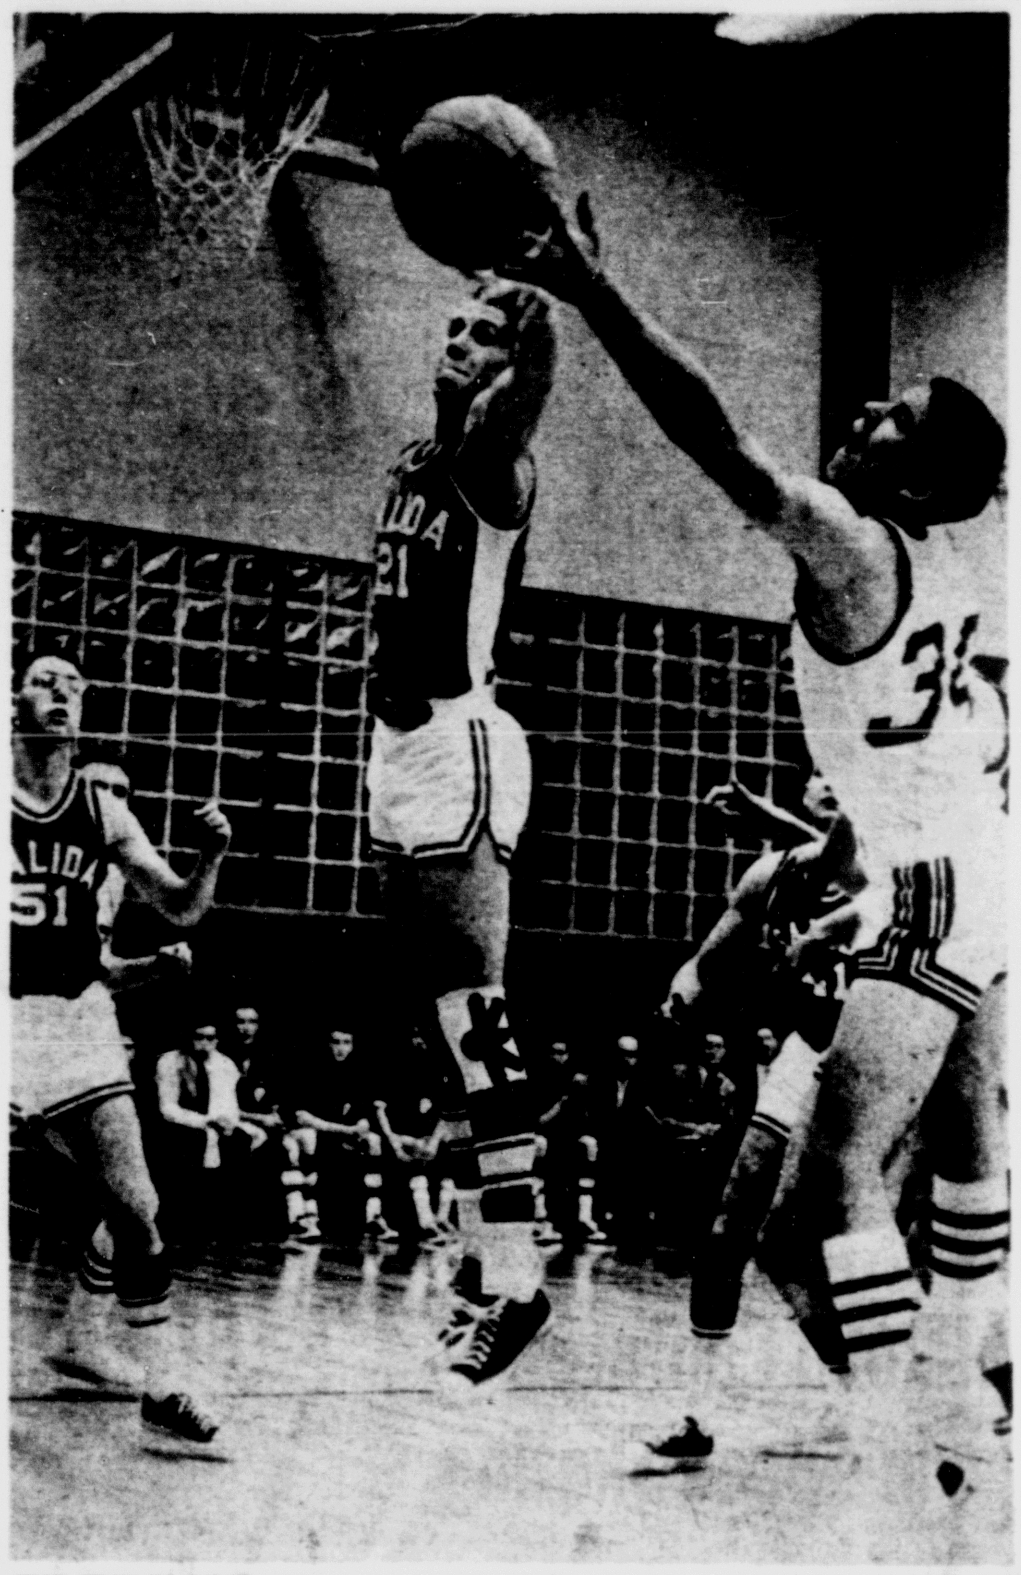
Mrs. Skoblikova, cheered on by the rousing chants of "Lee-da, Lee-da" by her fellow Russians, had an almost three-second edge over runner-up Kiaja Mustonen of Finland, who clocked 2:25.5.

There was a different leader after each of the three jumps in the special 70-meter event, decided on the best two of three jumps with points awarded on distance and style.

Kankkonn, after a poor first effort, came back with a leap of 262 feet, six inches and then captured the gold medal with a flawless jump of 259-2. He had 229.90 points to 226.30 for Toralf Engan of Norway, the leader after the second jump. Torgeir Brandtzaeg of Norway won the bronze medal with 222.90 points.

Josef Matous of Czechoslovakia held the lead after the first jump with the best distance of the day, 264 feet.

Wasson Runs Past Junction



THE STRAIN OF IT ALL — Cheyenne's Joe Folk (34) and Salida's Lynn Bevington show signs of strain as they grope for a rebound off Cheyenne's board during the tension filled second period at Cheyenne's gym Friday nite. Cheyenne won the nip and tuck battle 60-59 after four tight periods and two overtimes, to darken Salida's hopes as repeat PPL cage champion for the fourth straight year.

T-Birds Snatch Second South Central Triumph

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Wasson's cat-quick defenses caged Grand Junction during a furious first quarter Friday night as Dick Westbay's ever-improving Thunderbirds sprinted to a 61-51 decision over the Western Slope Tigers in a South Central League contest at the Palmer Gymnasium.

The T-Birds' mobile guards, working out of their familiar full-court press, pinned the bigger Junction team inside the midcourt stripe almost continually in the opening period while racing to an 18-2 lead that laid the groundwork for their second conference victory of the campaign.

The triumph pulled Wasson into a seventh place tie with rival Palmer in the SCL standings and set up another hectic battle when the two meet in the first of a two-game intra-city series at the Palmer Gym next Friday. Palmer dropped a narrow 62-60 decision to Pueblo East in Pueblo Friday night.

The only other league action Friday saw defending champion continue along the comback trail with a 61-56 defeat of the Centennial Bulldogs in Trinidad. Tonight's slim slate has league-leading Central meeting South in Pueblo while Junction moves on to Trinidad to conclude its swing on this side of the mountains.

Wasson, showing surprisingly few ill-effects from last week-end's frustrating experiences which saw them drop last minute contests to Centennial and Trinidad, enveloped the slower Tigers in a flurry of first quarter motion Friday. With guards Jim Smith and Mike Teague ripping apart the Junction offense before it could get off the ground, Wasson sped to an overwhelming lead in the early minutes — one that Mickey Dunn's Tigers could not chop away in three later quarters of continual effort.

Smith, the jet-propelled junior guard, effected numerous steals in that early flurry and led the scoring with 16 points, most of which came as a climax on booming drives up the key. Teague, hitting five or six shots from the field, finished with 11 points and Clay Chambers, continuing his outstanding accuracy at the free throw stripe, added 11 more. Charlie Steel, the 6-3 junior forward, had 10.

Junction's offense was concentrated around the excellent shooting of sophomore Jim Olsen who flipped in one soft jump shot after another and finished with 22 points. No other Tiger broke double figures.

Wasson, working carefully out of a pattern offense, got on top quickly as Smith sank a jump shot just 15 seconds into the opening period and after Ron Nighswonger converted a pair of tosses at the free throw line, Smith came up with his first steal and dumped a drive to send the 'Birds ahead 6-0. Junction finally got on the scoreboard with 6:03 left in the quarter on a Ken Bruce goal but it was to be a long dry spell before the Tigers made any addition to that total.

With the Wasson guards batting down passes continually, the T-Birds swept to that 18-2 margin with 1:06 remaining in the quarter. The sneaky Smith contributed three more baskets in that crushing spurt. Bill Huff finally broke the drouth for the Tigers with just over a minute to go and Olsen's three-point play eventually narrowed the lead to 20-7 at the break.

Wasson's lead ranged from 10 to 15 points thru the majority of the second period. The Thunderbirds were on top 34-19 with 2:14 left in the half when the Tigers launched a rally which carried them to within 36-28 at intermission.

The T-Birds resumed their pattern play at the outset of the second half and immediately broke Steel clear for a pair of easy goals as he swung across the middle. That thwarted any quick comeback by the Tigers and Wasson then shot down future rally attempts with steady, cautious play. In the final minutes, with Olsen sizzling from outcourt, the 'Birds displayed their finest ball control session in at least two seasons to preserve the victory.

Indians Top Salida In Double Overtime

By DICK FOSTER

When two evenly-matched squads get together for a battle that could well decide which of the two will be the next league champion, the result is usually similar — mayhem. Both the Cheyenne Mountain Indians and Salida's Spartans put up tremendous battles in a hectic, see-saw thriller Friday night but when the smoke of four tight quarters and two sizzling overtimes had cleared, Cheyenne held a skimpy but convincing one point victory, 60-59.

The Tribe put a possible end to three years of reign by Salida's classy group, and handed the Spartans their first defeat of the season. Cheyenne is now riding atop the Pikes Peak League and may manage to stay there with the crucial test now successfully cast aside.

This contest was rated as a toss up, and it was just exactly that! Although Salida started fiercely and held a nine point lead at the end of the first eight minutes, Cheyenne battled back to even up the tilt at the half. Ragged play due to some tension-taut cagers kept percentages fairly low from the field. Both teams had the breaks because both squads committed many mistakes thruout the erratic affair. But neither team could cash in on an error because they had troubles of their own in the mistake department, working under a terrific pressure.

Cheyenne and Salida both played a fast moving, wide open game. The Spartans attempted 72 shots from the field in the game's course. Cheyenne, just as eager, shot an outlandish 90 times from outside, and connected just 24 times for a low huffing 26.6 percentage. At the charity lanes it was a complete reversal tho. Salida shot 11 for 15 to compile a 73.3 per cent, and Cheyenne's uncanny free throw eye missed just twice out of 14 ateempts, racking up an 85.7 mark in the process.

Salida appeared as tho they were going to make it a one sided affair when the contest was young. It was close for the first six minutes, but the Spartans put on a last burst to collect six points in the last two minutes, and led after eight minutes, 18-9.

The Cheyenne aggregation countered in the second period with a balanced attack. Bill Massarand, Joe Folk, Gary Graham, Jack O'Brien, and Jim Hatton sank two points each and with three minutes left in the half, Cheyenne tied Salida at 20 points apiece.

The entire third and fourth quarters followed the same course. Cheyenne held a one point lead 40-39 at the third period horn. The Indians worked up a five point lead at one time in the fourth period on fielders by Ron Graham, Gary Graham, and a pair by O'Brien.

It was 49-44 when Salida set to work with 4:33 remaining to catch the Tribe. Gangling John Lantz, the Spartan's 6-7 postman connected, as did E. J. Dunckhorst two minutes later. The latter cager added a free throw and things stood at 49-49 with 2:30 left. Ron Graham added a field goal with 1:08 left, and was followed promptly by Salida's Dean Champlin. So it was tied 51-51. Champlin gave Salida the edge with a free throw and Ron Graham saved Cheyenne as the clock read 0:03 with one of the same.

In the overtime turmoil, Gary Graham gave Cheyenne a quick lead with a fielder at 2:32, but he was offset by a Dunckhorst two pointer one minute later. Cheyenne took another lead when Joe Folk hit at 1:29. Again Salida countered in the person of Champlin and the contest stood at a 56 point deadlock.

It was a pair of Joe Folk free throws that gave Cheyenne their eventual winning margin. He connected the two charity line attempts with 25 seconds left. Before him however, Rick Wilkerson had hit for two points, wo with less than a half-minute left, Cheyenne led 60-56. Salida's last ditch effort was to be commended. Ed Ehmke hit a free throw in the last 15 seconds and Dean Champlin added an all but useless field goal with three seconds remaining. But it was all over by that time

The Spartans controlled rebounding with their "Tower of Lantz" who stood at his post position and gathered 20 rebounds. Salida had a total of 67 to smaller Cheyenne's 42.

A contest that could have gone either way, with two evenly matched, and highly spirited squads competing for league laurels — it was quite a sight.

PP Ski Area Offers One-Day Refresher Course

Facilities for the display and sale of used ski equipment have been provided as a public service by the Pikes Peak Ski area, Manager Willis E. Armstrong announced today.

Anyone with used or outgrown skis, boots, poles, or any kind of ski accessories, can bring them to the lodge at the popular mountain slope. The articles will be tagged with the owner's price and placed on display in the ski shop there for sale to the general public. When the items are sold, a 10 per cent handling charge will be deducted and the remainder sent to the original owner.

A demand for this service to patrons has been developed by the popularity of the new beginners' slope and slo-Poma lift at the Pikes Peak area. Every Saturday and Sunday beginning skiers of all ages turn out to perfect their techniques on the U. S. Forest Service-approved hill.

One-day refresher courses, for beginners or intermediates, are provided by the staff of the Pikes Peak Ski School under the direction of Fred Sorenson, a certified instructor. The total cost for an all-day lift ticket and two group lessons is $5.

Bucs Whip Cathedral; Tackle Raiders Sunday

The St. Mary's Pirates slapped Cathedral with another of their balanced scoring shows Friday night, romping to a 57-34 triumph at the St. Mary's Gymnasium and setting up an important battle with Regis in Denver Sunday afternoon.

The Pirates, with Friday's win, ran their Denver Parochial League mark to 6-3 for the season and clung to their place in the standings. Dan Wright's Bucs, who were beaten by Regis in the conference opener here early in January, now will attempt to spill the unbeaten Cardinals at the Regis Field House Sunday. A win there would move St. Mary's into definite title contention.

The Pirates got double figures scoring from three starters Friday in racing past cellar-dwelling Cathedral. High-jumping Bill Pfalmer paced the attack with 15 points while Sam Zavatti had 12 and Mike Conway. 10. Nine of the 12 players employed by Wright broke into the scoring column.

It was a close contest in the first half with St. Mary's building a 12-8 lead after a period and holding a narrow 20-16 margin after two quarters. The Bluejays faded quickly after intermission, however, as the Bucs whipped to a 35-24 advantage after three periods and then tacked on a strong 22 point last quarter.

The win was only the second in the DPL on the local floor for the Pirates this season. St. Mary's has dropped three contests here but has not lost in four starts in Denver, where the crucial battle Sunday will be contested.

Russia's Skoblikova Captures Second Medal in Speed Skating

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—If it really is real gold in the Olympic medals here, the Russians are going to be able to buy an awful lot of wheat when the games are over.

And Lidia Skoblikova will be able to buy up the output of three Kansas prairies, on her own.

She won her second medal in speed skating Friday, and is as solid a bet as the New York Yankees to win the other two.

The sight of Lidia's skating stirred the dozens of Russian tourists here at the games.

They smiled so wide the sun glinted off the stainless steel fillings in their teeth.

"Lee-da, Lee-da, Lee-da," they chanted as she whirled around the Olympic rink, her right arm swinging in rhythm on the turns.

At least, it sounded like "Lee-da."

But it also sounded like "Lee-da," when they chanted for the other two Russian skaters in the 1,500 meters, Berta Kololtseva and Valentina Stenina.

"What's that you're shouting one Russian was asked. "Her name?".

"Da. Name Lee-da," was the reply.

"But what about Berta and Valentina? They're not named Lee-da." By that time he was too busy shouting and waving to answer.

Maybe all the girls have the same nickname, a situation that will be readily understood by anyone who has ever tackled "War and Peace."

After all, two of the American girls in the race were named Janice Marie. There was Janice Marie Lawler, who was 19th, and Janice Marie Smith, who was 24th.

Miss Smith, who calls herself Janice, tripped at the finish and skidded 25 yards over the ice into a snowbank. She was carried off the ice, but was back in five minutes, perky as ever.

She joined Miss Lawler, who calls herself Marie, in a spin around the ice after the races were over.

"I'm all right," said Janice, called Janice. "I may have a black and blue mark, but it's hard to tell. I'm black and blue all over anyway."

Two North Korean girls also tripped and fell, making it five times out of six that they had finished on their noses. They were both up promptly, too.

It was hard to tell how they felt since they know only three English words: "Dirty American Imperialist."

Dijkstra Maintains Lead In Figure Skating

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Holland's Sjoukje Dijkstra swept all five compulsory figures Friday and took a commanding lead in the women's figure skating championship at the Winter Olympic Games.

The 22-year-old Dutch girl, winner of the world championship the last two years, finished the school figures phase of the event with 9.5 ordinals and 1,113.2 points — a lead of 38.4 points over her closest competitor.

Miss Dijkstra was ranked first by eight of the nine judges and was given a tie for first with Austria's Regine Heitzer by the other judge. Miss Heitzer is in second place with 20 ordinals and 1,074.8 points.

The compulsory phase of the event counts 60 per cent toward the title, which will be decided Sunday after the free-skating portion.

The three U.S. entries were among the first 10, but seemed too far back to become serious threats.

Christine Haigler of Colorado Springs, Colo., was sixth with 53.0 ordinals and 1,000.9 points while U.S. champion, Peggy Fleming of Pasadena, Calif., dropped back to eighth with 81.0 and 968.6. Albertina Noyes of Arlington, Mass., was ninth with 88.0 and 951.3 points.

Miss Dijkstra pulled away on the fourth figure, a paragraph double three. It was the best executed figure of the event and her performance enabled her to double her advantage over Miss Heitzer.

She outscored the Austrian girl by 18 points on the figure.

Michigan Blanks Tigers, 7-0 To Retain Hockey League Lead

ANN ARBOR, Mich., — The usually high-scoring Tigers from Colorado College suffered their first shutout in over three years here Friday night as Michigan University and goalie Bob Gray slammed the door in their face with a 7-0 Western Collegiate Hockey Association victory.

The win pushed the Wolverines into a tie for the WCHA lead with Minnesota University and kept the visiting Tigers in the cellar. Both Michigan and Minnesota have 4-1 league marks, while CC's WCHA record now stands at 1-4.

If it's any consolation, CC has company in the basement with Michigan State, who suffered a 6-5 setback at the hands of Minnesota. In the only other league game of the evening, Denver University lived up to its preseason billing with a 2-1 win over North Dakota in Denver to give the Pioneers a 3-1-1 record and drop the Nodaks into fourth on a 2-2-1 ledger.

The only other action was a non-league encounter with Michigan Tech winning its fifth in 12 starts on a 3-1 decision over Duluth Branch of Minnesota.

Michigan had three players scoring two goals each in the win over Colorado. Wilfred Martin, Jack Cole and Bob Ferguson each contributed two each. The other was off the stick of Mel Wakabayashi.

Before the trip here, Coach Bob Johnson said he felt the Tigers only chance against the burly Wolverines was to score when they were short-handed. CC had worked all week on the power play, but it failed to connect in six opportunities when Michigan was penalized. Colorado College drew only one penalty in the entire game — but it was a major infraction of five minutes against sophomore defenseman Bob Otto for spearing.

It was a busy night in the nets for goalie Art Warwick, who turned back no less than 44 shots by the Wolverines. Warwick had just recovered from a leg injury from last weekend and had almost no practice this week.

Falcons Face Cowboys In Home Tilt Tonight

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

One of the great arguments of modern basketball will get at least a regional answer to night at the Air Force Academy's cadet gymnasium.

The question is whether one of the nation's top defensive teams can put the brakes on the highest-scoring outfit in the region. That's the plot for this evening's drama with the of Wyoming billed in the two-team cast.

The tipoff is slated for 8 p.m., following a prelim between the schools' freshman squads at 6, and seats in the limited gymnasium undoubtedly will be at a premium for the top attraction of the season so far locally.

Wyoming has averaged slightly over 80 points in 15 games this winter while the AFA has held 14 opponents to a miserly 60.8 points. Quite obviously, something will have to give.

That defensive mark puts the Falcons among the top 18 in the nation and Wyoming's blistering attack is also among the country's leaders, but they both will likely be shy of their averages tonight.

This will be the first of a home-and-home two-game series between these teams this year, with the return scheduled at Laramie, Feb. 29. Last year they also traded sites, with the Academy winning a 78 - 65 decision at home and then dropping a 70-68 thriller at Woming. That left the series at 7-4 in favor of the Falcons.

In the two games last season, the Pokes' 6 - 1 junior scoring maching, Flynn Robinson, sizzled the nets with 58 points, 35 coming in the windup at Laramie. And this season's he's up to the same tricks with a brilliant 25.5 average with a single game high of 35 points against Texas A & M, the leader of the Southwest Conference.

Wyoming has been deep in final examinations this week, and there's some question as to whether Robinson and his talented playmated Leon Clark will make it for the rest of the season. This could be the swan-song for both this year if they become ineligible. However, the new semester doesn't start until next week, so pass or not, they'll both be in the lineup tonight.

"I certainly hope they play," AFA Coach Bob Spear said this week. "If we're going to beat them, I want it against their best."

As far as the fans planning to make tonight's game are concerned, they too would feel cheated if this high scoring twosome was not on the floor. Robinson, with one of the most unorthodox shots in the country, is more than worth the trip to watch him.

Clark, a 6-6 sophomore from Harvey, Ill., is nearly as exciting with a scoring average near 20 points and the leading rebounding performance for the Pokes.

In only one season, the colorful Robinson nearly re-wrote the Wyoming record book with most points and most field goals for a season and he put his name high on the list of accomplishments in nearly all categories. He was the only sophomore named to the Western Athletic Conference all-star team last year.

The clubs come into the game with similar records, the AFA having an 8-6 mark and Wyoming at 8-7. However, only five of the Falcons games have been at home so far this winter and they have certainly posted their most impressive victories while on the road.

In fact, this will be only the second "major" opponent to appear on the Academy court, and with the exception of the early game against Colorado University, all the home games have been near routs. Only twice during the entire month of January did the Cadets play here.

From this point on, however, it's a different story. The Falcons are at home in five of the next six games and six of the next nine. Other top attractions coming up are with Regis of Denver, Denver U., Colorado State University and Oregon.

Coach Spear will have to have his Cadets' defense honed to the sharpest edge to clip the Pokes tonight, tho. Wyoming in on a three-game winning skein and would like to continue that at the expense of the AFA.

Field general of the Air Force attack all season has been guard Johnny Judd, the great all-around performer from Seymour, Ind., who paces the attack with a 15.1 average.

He's been aided recently by the improving play of several sophomores and the steady play of the veterans. Altho Spear has been shuffling the lineup considerably this week in an attempt to find the best scoring combination to go against the Pokes, he'll probably stick with the usual starters.

That would have Judd and soph Scott Etnyre at guards, Roger Head at center, and Rich Porter and either Mike Pavich or sophomore Sam Peshut at forwards.

From all indications, this should be one of those tight battles that goes to the final buzzer. If that's so, it could be trouble for the Falcons since they've already dropped three games by the slim margin of one basket. Should they learn the combo to pick up the close ones, it could be a fine finish to the season from here on out.

FALCON VETERAN — Roger Head, tallest of the Falcons at 6-6, has been in the starting lineup for every game this season. The senior from North Hollywood, Calif., is a two-year letterman and still shows improvement with nearly every game. Tonight Head will have the assignment of trying to hold down Wyoming's fine sophomore center, Leon Clark, as the Pokes invade the Air Force Academy.

Kent Layton grabbed 21 rebounds to lead Adams State to a 57-37 edge.

Western hit 33.5 per cent from the field and Adams was 32.8.

Colts-Steelers in Hall of Fame Tilt

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts announced Friday that they will play the Pittsburgh Steelers in the annual Hall of Fame football exhibition at Canton, Ohio, Sept. 6.

Manitou, Kadets, Harrison Post PPL Cage Victories

With Cheyenne Moutain taking over complete leadership in Pikes Peak League, Friday night with a 60-59 stunning double overtime win over Salida, another team was eliminated from the pennant chase.

After two successive victories last weekend, Widefield succumbed to pesky Air Academy High, 79-71, and Manitou Springs handed Florence its second loss, 57-54. Meanwhile, Harrison handed winless Leadville its fifth

Both the Gladiators and Florence were in possible position for league contention but Friday's losses threw the two teams into the lower division. Prior to losing to Academy High, the Widefield squad wrote a 2-2 won-loss record but that third win comlpetely destroyed any hopes of title contention.

The Kadets, spearheaded by Charlie Neyhart's 18-point performance, jumped to an early lead and the Academy High five took a 38-31 lead at intermission. Despite an outstanding scoring output by Widefield's Chuck Rushmer who dumped in 27 points, the Gladiators were unable to catch the fired-up Kadets.

Lance Jensen poured in 15 points and teammate Bert Spear added 14 points for the winning home team as Florence faltered in the third period as the Huskies could only muster six points.

Prior to that time Florence held a three-point lead. But the visiting Mustangs collected 29 points in the last two quarters to pull out the victory. Manitou's Jim Ridgon added 12 points to the winning cause.

Harry Horton's potent Panthers snapped a two-game losing streak in PPL competition as the Harrison team scored heavily in the second and final periods. Danny Gieck, the Panthers leading scorer, enjoyed a hot hand from the field sinking 11 field goals and two charity tosses to tally 24 points. But the visiting Leadville squad's gunner, Jack Hosley, topped both teams in individual scoring with a 28-point performance.

Fred Stephens added 18 points for Harrison along with Eddie Hook's 10 points. Hook has been sidelined for most of the season but the lanky Harrison cager is coming back strong and should give the Panthers added scoring and rebounding strength come district tourney time in March.

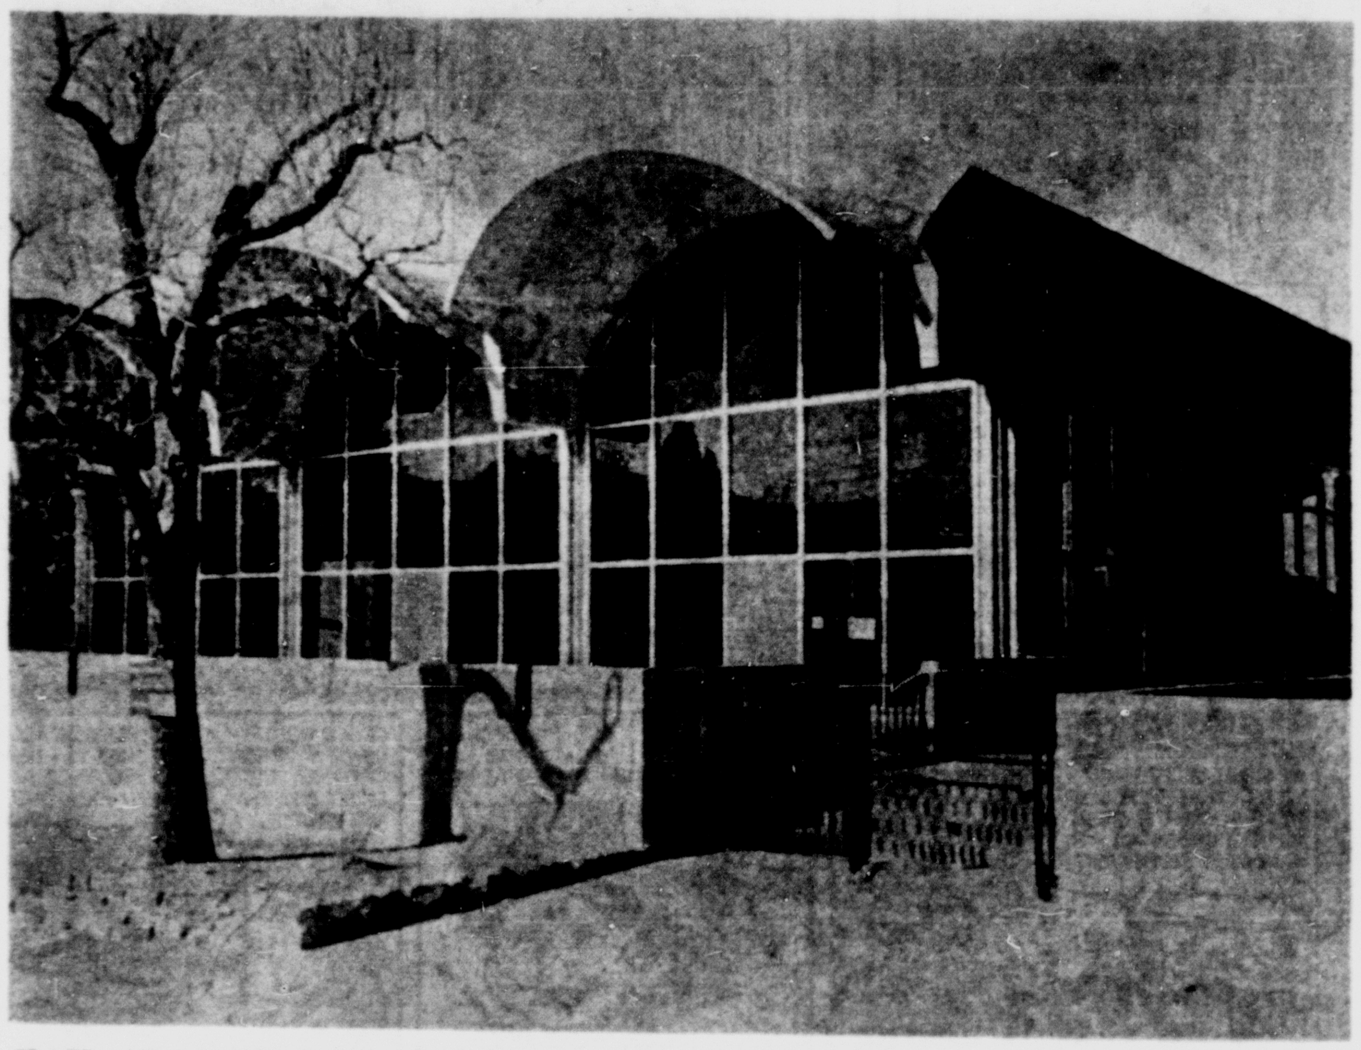
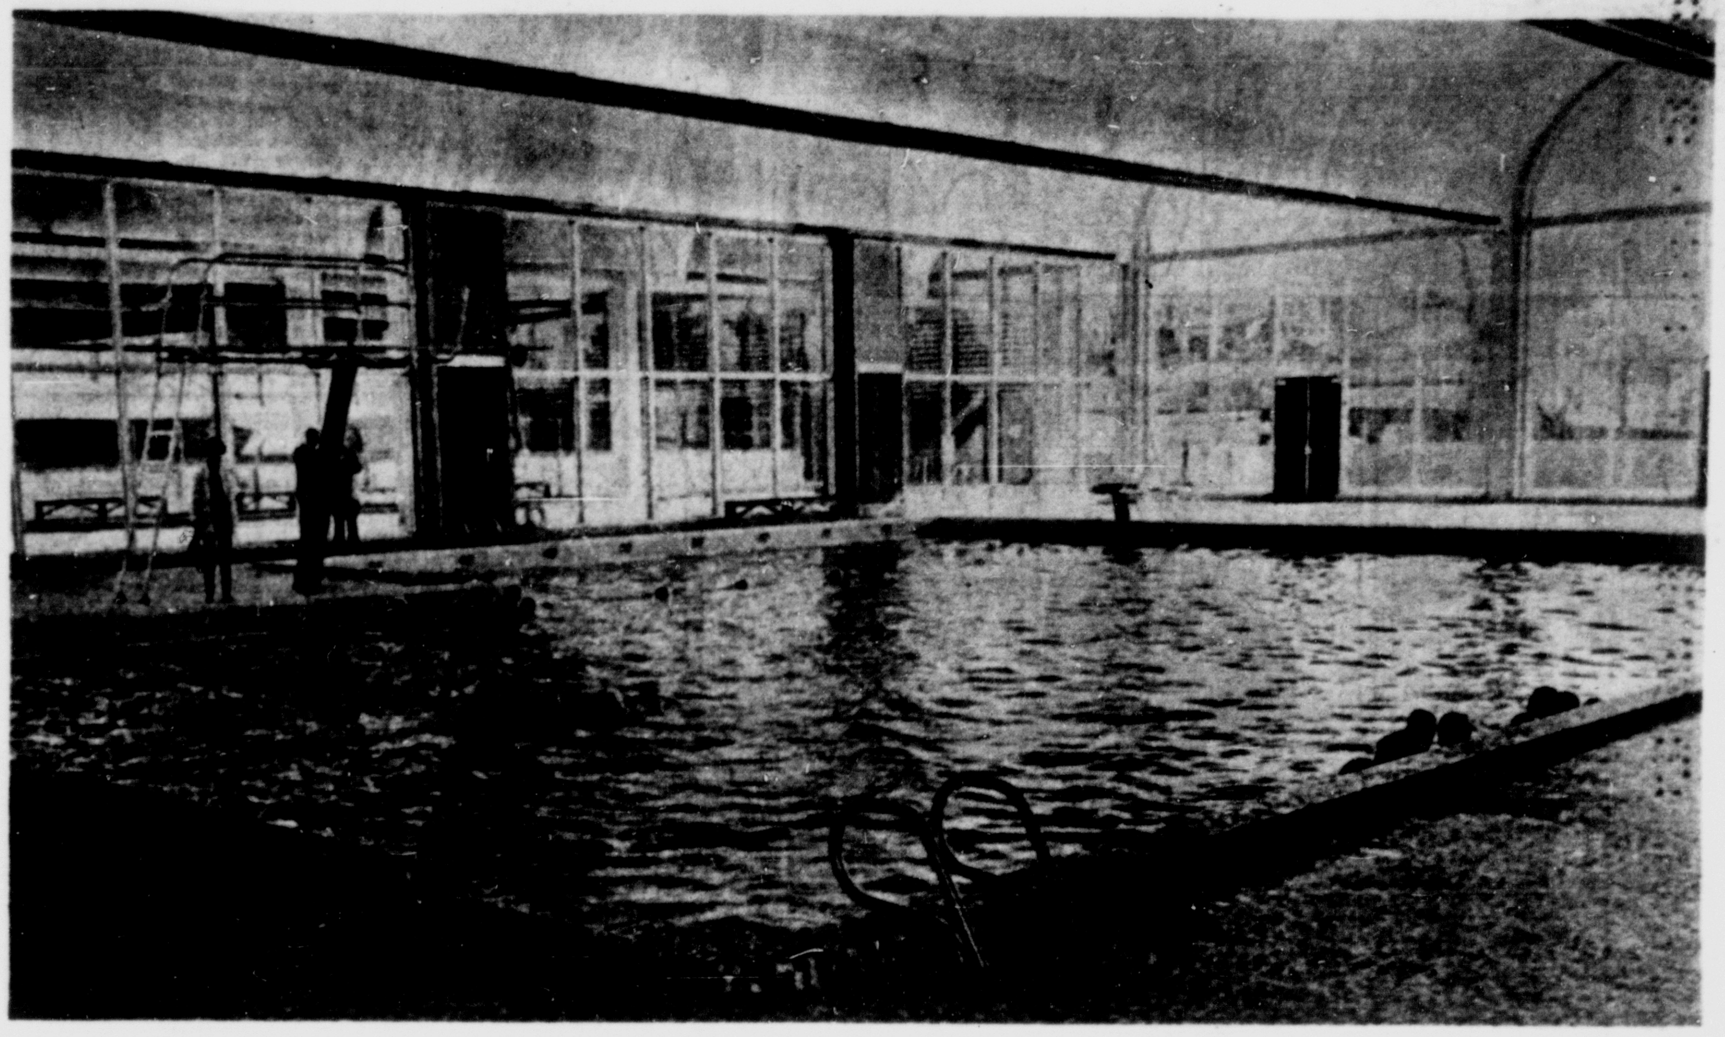
Colorado College's New Swimming Pool



GLASS AND LOOPED ROOF — This is the view of the new Colorado College swimming pool from Cache La Poudre, just west of Cascade Avenue. On the south and east sides of the building the double-glass windows go all the way up from the ground level to the looped roof. This is the same basic design that's used for the adjacent ice rink and for the proposed gymnasium, which is planned for just to the west of the pool. In the foreground in a concrete patio which will be used for sun-bathing this spring and summer.

(Gazette Telegraph Photo)



FROM INSIDE THE POOL — The light and airy atmosphere due to the huge windows on two sides of the Colorado College swimming pool gives the newest sports facility on the Colorado Springs campus an inviting look. Bright tile surrounds the water's edge with plenty of room for spectators and swimmers. The pool is regulation 25 yards in length with six full racing lanes, featuring side lanes which are not bounded by the tile sides so there is no danger of swimmers hitting their hands with in action. On the far side can be seen the separate area for diving with both the one and three-meter boards, which are of the new metal construction.

DIVING AREA — One of the Colorado College co-eds dives off the regulation three-meter high diving board during a girls' gym class at the new CC pool. The diving area is separate from the regular swimming area for safety to the CC students. Note the curved ceilings and the indirect lighting which eliminates glare against the water. A new bromide disinfectant has been used to give the pool such a clear appearance.

NEW LOCKER ROOMS — For anyone who has visited the ancient Colorado College gymnasium in Cossitt Hall, this could hardly be recognized as part of the same building. However, with the construction of the new swimming pool on the south-west corner of Cossitt, dressing rooms were re-built for the swimmers. The locker rooms for both men and women include new showers, and a hallway leads from this building to the pool.

'Pro Icers Developed By Subsidizing'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Canadian hockey official told Senate investigators Friday that professional hockey players are developed by openly subsidizing "amateurs" with money and free educations.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said this seemed "sounder and morally stronger than the practice of slipping them money to play college football," or providing "amateur" jobs on which they never work.

Clarence Campbell, a Canadian who is president of the National Hockey League, said he regards open subsidies as better for the sport and the players than payments under the table.

Under the program, he said, aid from professional teams doesn't affect a player's amateur standing for other Canadian sports.

The comments came as Campbell and J. Walter Kennedy, president of the National Basketball Association, testified before the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee of which Hart is chairman.

Both men endorsed a proposed bill which would provide uniform antitrust exemptions to professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey. Baseball currently enjoys the exemptions as a result of a series of court decisions, but the bill would write this into formal law.

Top baseball figures endorsed the bill Thursday in the opening session of the two-day hearings. Further hearings are scheduled on the bill, with professional football and other baseball leaders to be heard from, but a date has not been set.

"We are realistic," Campbell said. "As far as we in Canada are concerned everyone is an amateur who is not currently engaged in an organized professional hockey league."

He said this includes youngsters who receive money and free educations while playing on teams sponsored by National Hockey League clubs.

Campbell added, however, that "unhappily" the Amateur Athletic Union in the United States has strict rules which differ from those in Canada.

Hart was sharply critical of what he called "hypocrisy" in amateur rules in the United States.

Campbell also said his league is making plans to establish sponsored farm teams in northern Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and possibly other states for training young American hockey players for professional careers. He did not go into detail.

General Robert E. Lee commanded the Confederate Army at the Battle of Gettysburg.

Three More Athletes Injured

Three more athletes were injured Friday in the so called "jinx" Olympics.

German downhill skier Konstanze Roehrs suffered a broken nose in a training tumble and was hospitalized; Belgian two-man bobsledder, Claude Engelbert, suffered a possible brain concussion in an automobile crash en route to the track at nearby Igls, and Austrian jumper Gerhard Niederhammer was hospitalized after suffering a brain concussion in a fall.

The injuries brought to 12 the number of athletes sidelined since activity got underway here early last week. Two other athletes—British tobogganist Kay Skyzkecki, and Australian ski captain Ross Milne, were killed in training mishaps.

Olympic veterans said they could recall no previous games so hard hit by major injuries. None had two fatal injuries.

A spectator received bad cuts about the face Friday when she was hit by a toboggan that spun out of control on an icy bank. The driver of the toboggan, Austria's Antonio Lanthaler, was unhurt, but the spectator had to be carried off on a stretcher.

YOUNG CHAMP

TORONTO (UPI) — Harvey (Busher) Jackson was only 21 years old when he won the National Hockey League scoring championship in 1932 as a member of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Kentucky Congressman Calls for 'Blackout' Curb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Kentucky congressman Friday called for a curb on television "blackouts" of pro sports.

Rep. Frank A. Stubblefield, D-Ky., told the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee that it was imperative to have "adequate protections against unreasonable television blackouts."

He said the current problem involved only pro football and specifically the National Football League, but he warned that it could extend to other sports in the future.

Stubblefield etstified as the subcommittee continued hearings on legislation which would exempt baseball, football, basketball and hockey from antitrust statutes.

The Kentucky representative endorsed the bill but said it should contain a clause restricting blackouts to television stations which are physically located within 75 miles of the game site.

Stubblefield said that since 1961 — when Congress gave antitrust sanction to a master contract for televising pro football — the NFL has extended the blackout to include the television stations's entire coverage area.

He cited Paducah, Ky., as an example. Stubblefield said the entre Paducah area has been blacked out since 1962 although the station is 180 miles from the NFL home city and part of the Paducah area is 250 miles from St. Louis.

Don Chandler of the New York Giants won the National Football League scoring title with 106 points on 18 field goals and 52 extra points.

Swedish Icer Suspended

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—Sweden's Karl Oberg, a flashy forward who turned his back on a pro career in the National Hockey League, was slapped with a one-game suspension at the Winter Olympics Friday for throwing his stick in the face of Canada's coach, the Rev. David Bauer.

The suspension was handed down by the International Ice Hockey Federation, and will keep Oberg out of action when the Swedish team meets the United States Saturday. The suspension is the first in Olympic hockey competition.

Oberg flipped his broken stick at the Canadian bench as he skated past during a 3-1 loss to Canada Thursday night. The stick struck Father Bauer, a Roman Catholic priest, and cut his forehead. Oberg received a two-minute penalty at the time, and the more severe penalty after a special IIHF meeting.

Bunny Ahearne, the organization's president, announced the decision and said that Father Bauer "deserves our protection just the same as the players."

The United States, Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Ahearne all voted in favoring of suspending Oberg, who worked out with the NHL's Toronto club recently but refused to sign a pro contract because the Maple Leafs wanted to farm him out to a minor league club.

Only one vote was not cast against Oberg. Rudy Eklow, the Swedish delegate, abstained.

Some of the Canadian players were ready to jump over the boards and retaliate against Oberg, but Father Bauer ordered them all to sit down.

With play stopped at the time, Sweden's Tumba Johansson went over to the Canadian bench and apologized to the coach.

Sifford, Charles Deadlocked for Palm Springs Classic Golf Lead

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Cigar-chomping Charlie Sifford for the third straight day found himself in a tie Friday in the Palm Springs Classic as the competition swung through the third round in this $50,000 golfing marathon.

The 40-year-old National Negro Open champion from Los Angeles shot his second straight one-under-par 71 for a 54-hole score of 208.

But Sifford couldn't shake his pursuers. British Open champion Bob Charles of New Zealand, came in with a 69 to match chunky Charlie's total.

The weather again was perfect as the 128 pros toured the four courses employed. Each course has par of 36-36—72.

The 27-year-old Charles, who now plays out of De Sota Lakes, Fla., had 34-35—69 at the Eldorado Country Club, while Sifford did the job with 36-35—71 at Bermuda Dunes in a round in which he had 17 pars and one birdie on the 18th hole.

Coming up from the ranks with a 69 was veteran Bill Casper Jr. for 209. And just two strokes back were Gene Littler, 71; Randy Glover, 67; Bob Adamson, 69, and one of the all-time gallery favorites, and possibly the oldest man in the field at 52, Jimmy Demaret, who followed Thursday's 68 with a 67.

Jack Nicklaus, who started out in shaky fashion Wednesday with a 73, produced a 72 Thursday and moved to within six strokes of the lead with a 69 Friday.

Arnold Palmer, with rounds of 78-71-72, going into the fourth round of this 90-hole grind at 221, and National Open champion Julius Boros, with 71-74-70—215, have a lot of ground to make up in the final two days of play.

Art Wall Jr., with a 70, and Bob Goalby, 72, tied at 211. The 212 group includes Bruce Devlin and Bruce Crampton, both of Australia, and Bob Rosburg and Chuck Courtney.

Sifford was tied in the first round by Tommy Jacobs, who now has a total of 214. Doug Sanders matched Sifford's score in the second round and Friday Sanders fell back with a 77 and a tie at 214 with Jacobs and a host of others.

Finland's Kankkonen Cops Special Jumping Event

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — Weikko Kankkonen of Finland soared thru the air with near-perfection in the fantastic final leap Friday that gave him the gold medal in the special ski jumping event of the winter Olympic games.

It was a fantastic comeback for the flying Finn after he had fluffed the first of his three jumps and had to fight his way back from 29th place in the strong field. Kankkonen, a 23-year-old sports instructor, made his best leap of 262 feet, 6 inches on his second jump and finished with a total of 229.9 points.

Norwegians Toralf Engan and Torgein Brandtazeg won the silver and bronze medals, respectively.

The United States was far behind in the competition as John Blafanz of Minneapolis, Minn., finished 10th for the best showing. The 23-year-old Salesman compiled 206.5 points with two identical leaps of 244-5.

Gene Kotlarek, a 23-year-old accountant from Duluth, Minn., managed to finish 14th although still bothered by a sprained left ankle. His best leaps were 260 feet and 249-4 for 203.4 points.

Veteran Ansten Samuelstuen of Boulder, Colo., placed 24th with 200.40 points on leaps of 237-11 and 239-6 and Dave Hickes of Duluth, Minn., was 41st with 190.30 points from leaps of 237-11 and 236-3.

Fighters Stop To Watch Spectators

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The fighters stopped to watch the spectators Thursday night at Chattanooga's Golden Gloves boxing tournament.

A battle broke out in the audience when a fan jumped from his seat at Memorial Auditorium and another spectator started swinging. Nobody was sure just what the scrap was all about, but it took police to break it up.

During the melee, the referee stopped the match in the ring.

CHILDHOOD RINGWORM

Can an adult contract the usual form of ringworm of the scalp from a child? Yes, but this seldom happens. When it does, the condition is likely to be of shorter duration than in children.

The same cannot be said of another form of ringworm (Trichophyton tonsurans) that is prevalent in Mexico and is crossing the border into the southwestern part of the United States. Adults are susceptible, even tho it occurs more often in youngsters.

Ringworm of the scalp (tinia capitis) is a significant public health problem in many parts of the world. It is produced by various forms of fungi and the most common type in this country (M. audonini) is confined mainly to city children. The disorder is highly contagious yet less than 1 per cent of our youngsters is infected at one time. This would suggest a natural immunity.

Why do adults escape this variety of ringworm? The oil glands of the scalp are thought to produce an anti-ringworm substance that discourages the growth of this fungi.

Direct contact with the causative organisms is the easiest way to become infected. The role of the backs of theater and auditorium seats is well known, altho somewhat exaggerated. Other means of spread are contaminated hats and barbershop instruments. Conditions associated with crowding and poor hygiene help transmit the infection.

Boys are infected 5 to 10 times more frequently than girls, as the spores reach the scalp more readily via short hair.

Ringworm is suspected whenever round or oval scaly areas appear on the scalp. The patch is partially bald with many stubby hairs. The borders of the lesions continue to enlarge as the centers heal. Slight itching is the only discomfort associated with this infection.

The involved hairs give off a bright, blue-green fluorescence when viewed under the Wood's light. Treatment should be started as soon as possible to cure and prevent spread of this fungal disease. Many physicians prescribe griseofulvin by mouth for this purpose.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Bunion Operation

Mrs. K.D. writes: I was told by a doctor when I was 30 years old that I ought to have my bunions removed before age 50. I am now 42 and these bunions bother me terribly. What are the chances for good results?

Reply

The operation is successful when performed by a competent surgeon.

Cause Unknown

B. D. writes: Is sarcoidosis of the lungs and glands a rare disease?

Reply

No. It is found all over the world, especially in rural areas, and is 15 times more prevalent in Negroes than in whites. It is an inflammatory disease that produces tumor - like lesions thruout the body. The cause is a mystery.

Hereditary Factor

A. W. writes: What would cause emphysema in a 10-year-old? Both lungs are affected.

Reply

An intrinsic tissue weakness may be responsible as the vast majority of victims of this disease are men over 50, with bronchitis, who have been heavy smokers.

Cobalt For Cancer

H. writes: How does the cobalt bomb work on lung cancer?

Reply

It gives off rays that kill cancer cells.

Market Remains Irregular in Slack Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained irregular late Friday afternoon although selected blue chips improved. Trading was slack.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.1 million shares compared with 4.25 million Thursday.

Gains and losses of most key stocks went from fractions to around a point.

Caution prevailed prior to the weekend in view of unsettled international affairs and the generally high level of the market.

The list moved unevenly in the morning. Gains exceeding a point by Standard Oil (New Jersey), General Electric and General Motors helped jog averages to the upside.

Cigarette stocks were irregularly higher.

Prices were mixed in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Government bonds advanced and corporates were mixed.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat futures traders drew some bearish conclusions from President Johnson's farm message to Congress today and sold new crop wheat heavily on the Board of Trade.

In the early afternoon, losses ranged to about four cents a bushel. Brokers said the message was viewed as confirmation that the administration would press for the certificate plan of production control.

Other grains traded in a mostly mixed range. Soybeans firmed on active speculative demand.

Estimated carlot receipts were wheat 1, corn 110, oats 15, barley 28, soybeans 2 and rye none.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — Before the night club and TV comics start boring us sick with cute cracks about a woman President, it should be noted that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith's rivals for the GOP Presidential nomination see nothing funny about her joining the contest.

In the first place, she has messed up the New Hampshire "first-in-the-nation" primary of March 10 to a fare-you-well. There are some half-dozen other entries, all male, and including Rockefeller, Goldwater, Nixon, Lodge, and the perennial Harold E. Stassen.

But this isn't the most confusing aspect of Mrs. Smith's New Hampshire try. She likes Sen. Barry Goldwater; would, if worst came to worst, be his running mate next November. But she is going to do him more harm than good in New Hampshire.

This is because a chunk of the Republican women's vote that Goldwater had counted on to drift his way because of Gov. Rockefeller's marriage, will now go to Mrs. Smith.

It is a woman's prerogative to be inconsistent, so Goldwater will have to be silent about what might seem to him to be a political double-cross.

However, Goldwater's loss is not going to be Rockefeller's gain. Mrs. Smith intends to see to that, for she thinks that Rocky has crossed her up in her own state of Maine. She has accused him of trying to take away her own "favorite daughter" delegation, entering his state in Maine in order to get its 14 delegate votes.

While campaigning in New Hampshire, Mrs. Smith will accent the "frugality" issue which can be embarrassing to both Goldwater and Rockefeller, who are willing to spend and spend to get the primary victory.

Mrs. Smith has a close ethical fist with a buck in any political campaign. She has never accepted more than a $10 contribution from a well-wisher and will certainly stress this attribute in a state where thrift is considered a great virue.

CHIVALRY ISN'T DEAD IN POLITICAL CIRCLES

It is such a virtue in New Hampshire that there is a state law limiting to $25,000 the amount a Presidential candidate can spend in the primary campaign. Both Goldwater and Rockefeller have found themselves uncomfortably circumscribed by this restriction, which, of course, is to Mrs. Smith's advantage.

Another serious aspect of Mrs. Smith's candidacy to all male contestants — in New Hampshire and elsewhere — is that none will be able to indulge in personalities so far as she is concerned.

Just one public crack, sly or bold, concerning a woman's effrontry in trying to reach the highest office in the land, and the male candidate would be a casualty long before the party's July convention.

There are an estimated 30 million women voters due to participate in next November's election. They may not all like Mrs. Smith, but they certainly are not going to support a male who runs down the idea of a woman President.

It is because of the intangible women's vote that no Republican or Democratic politician of stature has had anything but kind words to say about Mrs. Smith's entry into the race.

SHE TOPS GOP LIST IN EXPERIENCE

Why shouldn't her Presidential candidacy be taken seriously, anyway? Democratic Presidents, both male, have gotten the country into two World Wars.

For that matter, Mrs. Smith has had more experience in elective office than any other Presidential candidate of her own party. On that basis she is better qualified than John F. Kennedy was when he ran and won in 1960.

Mrs. Smith has been in Congress since 1940, first in the House, then in the Senate. Kennedy's Congressional experience only dated back to 1947. Nixon also started his Congressional career in 1947. Goldwater only goes back Congressionally to 1953. As far as Congressional experience is concerned, the only name candidate of either party with more service than Mrs. Smith is President Johnson, who went to the House in 1937.

Mrs. Smith is, of course, more hopeful of being her party's Vice Presidential nominee than of winning the top honor. So what if she became Vice President?

She would be "one heart beat away" from the White House, as Speaker John McCormack is today. Certainly the risk in having a woman in that second place spot would be less to the nation than the situation that existed from 1941 to 1945 when, during the crucial war years, FDR's Vice President was Henry A. Wallace.

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER

HER APPEAL TO LITTLE GUYS AND GALS

She also should have considerable voter appeal as a GOP Vice Presidential nominee. For example, Rockefeller, Goldwater, Romney and Scranton are all millionaires many times over. On the ticket with one of them, Mrs. Smith could help remove that money curse. She appeals to the little guy and gal; before she came to Congress she was a telephone operator, dime store clerk and even tried her hand at barbering, her father's trade.

All in all, it is high time that a woman with a political record she can point to with pride had the audacity to try for her party's Presidential or Vice Presidential nomination.

Women have had the vote in this country since 1920. Until now they have been shrinking violets about pushing one of their own for the Presidency.

Fortunately, in Mrs. Smith they have neither a glamor puss nor a sensitive soul, but a woman with a fine sense of humor. She also is a widow, so there can be no snide cracks about a husband who would be the "First Man" in the White House.

Doctor and Psychologist Lecture at All Souls

A physician and a psychologist will speak tomorrow to discussion groups of the All Souls Unitarian Church.

Dr. D. W. MacCorquodale will speak at 9:45 a.m. to the Adult Discussion Group and Dr. George Levy will speak at 7 p.m. to the Sunday Night Discussion Group. Both meetings will be held in the church parlor.

Dr. Levy, psychologist at Canon City Penitentiary, will lead a discussion on "Penology and the Church."

"Dynamite in Latin America" will be Dr. MacCorquodale's topic. He has just returned from Central America, where he served as consultant for Mobile Rural Health, an Alliance for Progress program. Fifty jeep-ambulances, each staffed by a doctor, nurse and sanitarian, make rounds of Central American villages. Dr. MacCorquodale consulted with doctors and ministers of health to attempt to make the program as effective as possible.

"It's amazing how profoundly politics affects health in Latin America," he said. He cited the example of one minister of health who is sacrificing the effectiveness of the rural health program to his own political ambitions. "Because he wants his name known thruout the country, he has a jeep-ambulance visit as many as eighteen villages, whereas only six villages can be properly served," Dr. MacCorquodale explained.

Dr. MacCorquodale, who has practiced medicine here since 1950, has frequently traveled in Latin and South America. Fluent in Spanish and Portuguese, he has been interested in anthropology for many years. In his talk he plans to concentrate on health and family life in Central America.

Kenneth Carlton Murray did not appear in District Court Friday for sentencing and judge Russell Miller forfeited his bond and ordered a bench warrant be issued for his arrest.

DA Dismisses Assault to Murder Charge

A charge of assault to murder against Vincent DePaul Sireci was dismissed by the district attorney's office Friday as "the evidence did not warrant prosecution."

Sireci, 21, of Ft. Carson, who was charged in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court, was alleged to have shot Glenn Ronald Rocks, 20, of Ft. Carson, Jan. 10. For a time his condition caused grave concern, but the hospital authorities said Thursday that he had vastly improved and would make a complete recovery.

Rocks, in a written statement given to Deputy District Attorney Montell L. Dunn completely exhonerated Sireci. He wrote "....About 10:30 p.m. I went to a house where I was staying at 221 E. Victoria, Colorado Springs. I walked in, heard a bang and the next thing I knew I was in the hospital at Fitzsimmons General in Denver.

"I have known Vincent Sireci about three months since I have been at Ft. Carson. We have been friends and have never had any arguments or difficulty with each other. It is my opinion that the shooting was an accident and I do not wish to press criminal charges against Vincent Sireci."

Educator Knocks Advertising

GREELEY (UPI) — A Tennessee educator condemned the American system of advertising Friday as "a disgrace, a process which exploits children to make money.

Dr. Willard Goslin, head of the Department of Education at George Peabody College in Nashville, cited advertising as both an example and a cause of the "distortion of American values."

"We have allowed our value system to get away from matters which should be deeply rooted in our commitment," he said.

Goslin criticized what he called "a national obsession with two cars and a boat as primary success symbols in life while education takes second best in time, attention and money."

He charged the United States is indulging in "The expensive luxury of a part time school system."

"Many school children in America aren't even attending school for half the year," Goslin said.

He addressed the 36th annual Mid - Year Education Conference at Colorado State College. About 3,000 Colorado teachers were attending the two-day session.

Ladd's Death Not Determined

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) —Actor Alan Ladd did not die of a heart attack, but the cause of death will have to be determined by laboratory tests, a deputy coroner said Friday.

The 50-year-old film star was found dead in bed Wednesday at his Palm Springs home.

"An autopsy was completed," Robert L. Drake said, "but there were not enough of the gross findings to give us the cause of death.

"Therefore we will have to run laboratory tests—chemical tests and microscopic examinations—which may mean that we won't have an answer until Monday."

Services will be held for Ladd at 2:30 p.m. Saturday at the Church of the recessional in Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Councilman Asks Probe of 'Off Limits'

DENVER (AP) — Denver's City Councilman Elvin Caldwell asked a congressman Friday to investigate possible racial prejudice in a military "off-limits" order regarding 41 Denver establishments.

Caldwell noted that all but one of the 14 taverns and hotels listed are in his council district. He said that they cater primarily to members of minority groups.

"If I were not a Negro myself," he said in a letter to Rep. Byron Rogers, D-Colo., "I would be very much inclined to believe that there is a degree of prejudice regarding the decision of the board."

His reference was to the Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Board, which issued the order.

Caldwell owns two of the banned establishments, but he told Rogers he did not want them included in the investigation. He said he feared if this were done his actions might be "improperly interpreted."

He told Rogers he was sure he would want everything done "to see that all military personnel, regardless of their racial background, are treated fairly and equally."

Cecil Campbell Died of Heart Attack Friday

Cecil Robert Campbell, 67, of 608 N. 31st St., was dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital at 2 p.m. Friday after he suffered a coronary at the Drivers License Bureau, 518 S. Tejon St.

Campbell had gone to the bureau to have his driving license renewed, according to his brother, Forrest P. Campbell of 1111 Chambers Dr. Forrest Campbell was preparing to return for his brother when he was notified of his death by police.

Stork Knocks; Defendant Goes; Court Waits

A 24-year old woman, charged with a school signal violation, had her hearing continued Friday in Municipal Court when Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac announced she had just had a baby.

"Mother and baby are doing fine," Isaac said. Judge Clinton Cole said the matter would be taken up when Mrs. Linda Von Helks, 1220 E. Cache la Poudre St., was able to come to court.

Harry English, 51, Monument, pleaded guilty to making an illegal turn and was fined $5. A $5 fine was also levied against Helen Greene, 44, 1424 N. Franklin St., who was found guilty of parking in an alley. She was not in court and a writ of execution was ordered to collect the fine.

Russell Lyon, 31, 129 Hancock Ave., was found guilty of careless driving and fined $25.

In a companion case, Judge Cole found Finis Lemley, 51, 121 Dartmouth St., Widefield, not guilty of careless driving, and found David Osborn, 20, 307 N. Union Ave., guilty of careless driving but not guilty of reckless driving.

Osborn was fined $20 and given a 10-day stay of execution. He was represented by Ben Fann.

Charles Sullivan, 48, 3303 N. Hancock Ave., changed his plea to guilty to a charge of careless driving and received a $25 fine. At Isaac's request, Judge Cole dismissed a reckless driving charge against Sullivan. Attorney Gerald Bennett represented Sullivan.

Cole dismissed charges of riotous conduct and breach of peace against Austin Cunningham, 51, 2435 N. Logan St., on the failure of the complaining witness to appear.

Anthony LaMarr, 32, formerly of 321 E. Bijou St., failed to appear in court and his $150 bond was ordered forfeited. He was charged with breach of peace, disorderly conduct, riotous conduct, and injury to private property.

Bob Crane Finds Plenty of Work in Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Almost any morning Bob Crane can be seen dashing across the intersection of Sunset and Gower, en route from one job to another.

From 6 to 10 a.m. he operates one of the most talked - about Hollywood radio shows, a combination of music, interviews and wackiness on the CBS station, KNX.

Then he races to Screen Gems to assume his role as Dr. Dave Kelsey on "The Donna Reed Show." This season he became a regular on the television comedy.

He isn't limiting himself. Coming up: Movies for Jerry Lewis and Walt Disney.

Bob started as a drummer in his home town, Stamford, Conn. Always a clown, he moved into radio in Bridgeport. He was hoping to hit the big time in New York, but the call came from the West Coast.

Crane's KNX show soon attracted a vast and loyal following. For eight years he has been firing wild and sometimes pointed questions at celebrities, and most of them love it.

"There have been exceptions, but very few," Crane said. "Once I started tossing quips at Shelley Berman and he got more and more incensed. Finally, during a commercial, he exploded, 'I didn't come here to be a straight man,' and walked out.

"Another time I tried to work up some repartee with Glenn Ford. He saw what I was doing and said, 'I came here to talk about the picture I'm in and that's all.' So I talked to him for three minutes and let him go.

"On the other hand, a star like Bette Davis will be off and running from the moment we start talking. Another great one was Jonathan Winters. He held back the first time he was on because he didn't realize how far I went. Then he asked to come back again and he was on because he didn't realize how far I went. Then he asked to come back again and he was out of this world."

Although radio paid him an estimated $70,000 a year, Crane was not content. He sought comedy leads in little theater plays and drew good reviews. He was ready when the call came for an important role in a "Dick Van Dyke Show." That led to the "The Donna Reed Show."

What will the future bring?

"I look at the things Dick Van Dyke and Danny Kaye do on television, and I think: Maybe I could do that. And I never miss a Jack Lemmon picture."

Girl in Custody For Shoplifting

A 17-year-old Colorado Springs girl was in the custody of juvenile authorities Friday night after she was observed taking a box of hair dye from the S. H. Kress and Co. store, 23 N. Tejon St.

Nolan Theobald, assistant manager of the store, told police that he observed the girl pick up the box of dye and put it in her purse. He said she was joined by another girl and the two of them left the store and walked across the street where they entered the F. W. Woolworth store at 20 N. Tejon St.

Theobald followed the two girls and said he watched them while they browsed around the store and left without taking anything. The pair was apprehended as they left by the front door of the Woolworth store.

Police reported that the 17-year-old girl had admitted taking the box of dye which was valued at 43 cents.

Building Permits Show Healthy Increase in Jan.

This compares with $1,381,160 in building permits issued during January, 1963.

Included in last month's business was $1,444,580 for 118 new homes. Only 57 new homes permits valued at $739,654 were issued in January of a year ago.

Other permits taken out last month included four 30-unit apartment houses, $518,000; one duplex, $13,000; one store, $60,000; and 56 permits for additions, alterations and repairs, $172,984.

Value of all city building permits issued since Jan. 1, 1952, has been $191,402,311 and $167,422,311 for new construction. During that period, 7,991 new homes valued at $107,844,580 have been constructed.

City of Colorado Springs building permits have averaged more than $2 million a month for the past 25 months, the most productive building period in the history of the city.

Student Takes Jail Rather Than Pay Fine

A 27-year old former editor of the University of Colorado "New Conservative" newspaper has chosen to serve a seven-day jail sentence in Castle Rock rather than pay a fine he received for careless driving.

Charles F. Adams of Denver was fined $10 and $5 costs by Larkspur Justice of the Peace W. Williams Thursday night on a careless driving charge stemming from an accident on Dec. 23.

Adams, who is currently a student at the Freedom School Phrontistery in Palmer Lake, said Friday in Douglas County Jail that he was not guilty of the charge and did not intend to pay the fine.

Sammy Scott Given Suspended Sentence

Sammy T. Scott was given a suspended sentence of three to five years in the state penitentiary by District Judge G. Russell Miller, Friday and was then placed on probation for entering a motor vehicle with intent to commit larceny.

Scott, 27, of 727 E. Dale St., pleaded guilty to the offense Jan. 17. He stole a tire and wheel worth $15 belonging to Richard Flores Nov. 7.

Police Chief Thanks All Aiding Search

Colorado Springs Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick said Friday he wanted to publicly thank all those aided in the search for 4-year-old Thomas Schockey.

Even tho the search ended tragically, McKissick said he wanted to extend thanks to all those who came forward to help when it was believed the boy might be found alive. There were many hundred such volunteers.

"When we needed manpower to search, it was ready in an all-out community effort," the police chief said.

"And when the search ended so tragically Thursday afternoon," he added "I am certain that all those who had helped in the search felt, as did all the law enforcement officers, a great grief and sympathy for the parents and other loved ones in the family."

Stay Granted For Driver to See Attorney

A defendant, found guilty Friday in Municipal Court on a speeding charge, asked Judge Clinton Cole for time to see a lawyer "for a hearing."

"You just had a hearing," the surprised judge told Kenneth Brech, 27, of Green Mountain Falls.

When Brech's case was called, the defendant offered no objection until after Patrolman Henry Fryer had testified that he had clocked the man driving 40 in a 30-mile zone on Jan. 3, 1964.

Brech then said the ticket giving him was in error as it read "Jan. 3, 1963."

Deputy City Attorney Bob Isaac pointed out that Brech had made no motion to have the ticket quashed before evidence was taken. The defendant said he didn't know what this meant, and maintained he was not in the state on Jan. 3, 1963.

Isaac then asked Brech if he was in the state on Jan. 3, 1964, and had received the ticket from the police officer. Brech said he was and he had. Isaac said he had no objection to the original ticket being quashed and Brech being served again.

Judge Cole ruled that would not be necessary, and asked Brech if he had any statement to make about the speeding charge. Brech said he didn't. The judge found him guilty and imposed a $20 fine. Brech then asked for time to see a lawyer "for a hearing," causing Judge Cole's surprised remark.

Brech said he didn't know "anything about legal stuff" and said he didn't understand what had just transpired. Cole granted him a 10-day stay of execution and advised him to talk the matter over with a lawyer.

'Pitmen' Sing for Hootenanny Tonight

There'll be a rompin', stompin' hoedown hootenanny tonight at the City Auditorium when 40 entertainers line up to volunteer their talents for the March of Dimes.

The show will get underway at 8 p.m. and may last until 1 a.m. — the time it could take to get all 16 acts on and off the boards at the auditorium.

The Hootenanny is free — it won't cost a penny to see — but contributions will be appreciated as the hat is passed during the evening.

All the talent is voluntary—the acts were picked at a tryout Tuesday night and rehearsal was Friday night. Dr. Harvey Vieth and Charles Bennett are ramrodding the Hootenanny for sponsors, the Colorado Springs Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Acts in the show will be:

Kathy Sticky, solo; Ed Wladie, solo; Mike Neely, solo; The Chevellers, Beverly Harvey, Charlene Brown and Barbara Thomas; Bob Kindel, Ent Air Force Base; The Coach Lighters, Don Wooley, Bill Mitchell, Bill McClelland and Jimmy Berthrong; The Raggedy Anns, Carol Dyer and Darcy Kennedy; The Two Tones, Twyla Williams and Vicki Potter; Susan and Chris, Susan Zwinter and Chris Peterson; Susan Zwinger, solo; The Group, Ellen Matteson, Judy Jones, Ann Whitney, Linda Rhodes, Celeste Emerich, Verna Heaston; Bill Bailey, solo;

Country Singers Want to 'Hoot'

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Country singers are getting together — as they have for years at barn dance and Grand Ole Opry — and calling the gathering a hootenanny.

A live performance, in Bakersfield, Calif., put on record by Capitol, is titled "Country Music Hootenanny." It includes 13 country artists doing one tune each and master of ceremonies Cousin Herb Henson of Bakersfield.

"Hootenanny Bluegrass Style," on Mercury has fewer artists (six) and is separately recorded songs instead of a continuing, live show. In general the Mercury singers use a more throat-straining, back-country delivery while the Capitol country stars use a bit of pop treatment.

"Country Music Hootenanny" performers are Buck Owens, Bob Morris, Rose Maddox, Buddy Cagle, the Kentucky Colonels, Johnny Bond, Joe and Rose Lee Maphis, Tommy Collins, Glen Campbell, Jean Shepard, Roy Nichols, Merle Travis (the one disappointment — he coesn't really put enough into "Midnight Special") and Roy Clark.

"Hootenanny Bluegrass Style" artists are Flatt and Scruggs, Earl Story, the Stanley Brothers, Anita Carter, her mother, Maybelle Carter (doing two instrumentals on the autoharp) and Jimmy Skinner.

For listeners interested in the old as well as the new, RCA has remastered 16 recordings made by the famous Carter family in 1927, '28, '29 and a few in the 1930s.

"Mid the Green Fields of Virginia" is of historical interest, of course, since the Carters had a big influence on both country and folk music. It is also amazingly enjoyable judged simply as a record to listen to now.

Sara, Maybelle and A. P. Carter strum and sing, and do a little yodeling, on such songs as "Keep on the Sunny Side," "Bury Me Under the Weeping Willow" and "My Clinch Mountain Home." There's no brashness here, no brass, and RCA somehow has eliminated most of the way-back-when reproduction.

Other new country-western albums, going from twang to smooth:

"Alone with YOU," (Capitol) finds Rose Maddox singing solos and duets with herself, songs like "From a Beggar to a Queen." She has that down-home twang.

"Buck Owens Sings Rommy Collins," (Capitol) is also a real western-style offering. Best-known song among those written by Tommy Collins is "If You Ain't Lovin' You Ain't Livin'." There's a variety of mood, from "It Tickles" (a mustache) to "No Love Have I."

"I Wrote a Song," (RCA) presents one of the most talented western singers, Don Gibson, doing some of the well-known songs which he also wrote. Ray Charles had a million seller with "I Can't Stop Loving You." Gibson sings that one, plus "Oh Lonesome Me," "I'd Be a Legend in My Time," "Give Myself a Party," "Lonesome Number One" and others.

The slim guy with warm hospitality in his voice, Porter Wagoner, sings "Y'All Come" for RCA. With the Anita Kerr Singers, he also sings "Company's Comin'," "Bad News Travels Fast" and one of the many country songs where the scorned "bad girl" proves to have a self-sacrificing heart, "Be Careful of Stones That You Throw."

Sonny James may be on Grand Ole Opry but his delivery is positively pop-romantic on Capitol's "The Minute You're Gone." Selections include the title song, the catchy "Twenty Feet of Muddy Water" and a maudlin opus about two soldiers and the girl they both love, "Tommy Brown."

Mardi Gras Charity Ball Set Feb. 8 at Broadmoor

The excitement and pageantry of the famed Mardi Gras of New Orleans will again be brought to the Pikes Peak region thru the Mardi Gras Charity Ball, Saturday, Feb. 8, at the International Center. This year, even more than in the past, the 18th annual Colorado Springs Mardi Gras Ball will be presented with authenticity.

Altho the theme of this year's PikesPeak Mardi Gras is Mardi Gras in Paris, Father George Julian, O. M. I., the pastor of Sacred Heart Church is familiar with the New Orleans Mardi Gras and has witnessed the celebrations for the past 10 years.

As pastor of the St. Louis Cathedral in the French Quarter, Father Julian saw all of the parades which wind their way through the French Quarter to the municipal auditorium. Each parade reaches its climax here with a spectacular pageant and ball.

The Mardi Gras celebration itself lasts 10 days, beginning two Sundays before Mardi Gras, or Fat Tuesday, itself. During these 10 days 16 major parades, most of them taking place at night, are each presented to a tumultous crowd of about 300,000 persons. The last two parades, those of Rex and Comus, are witnessed on Mardi Gras day itself by a crowd that is estimated to be 600,00 or 700,00. The celebration lasts all day and is known as the greatest free show on earth.

Key to the understanding of the Mardi Gras celebrations are the 60 or more Krewes or private clubs that sponsor an equal number of magnificient pageants and balls. The majority of balls take place in the municipal auditorium that is usually divided into two sections, each with its own stage for the pageant and a dance floor for the ball. There is room for about 4,000 spectators in each side of the auditorium. The balls themselves begin around Jan. 6 with two balls taking place simultaneously one each night on each side of the auditorium.

The parades are sponsored by 16 of the oldest and most traditional Krewes, with the Mystik Krewe of Comus being the oldest. Each parade has about 16 to 20 floats all with the same theme that may range from some mythological fable to a modern motif such as the song hits from the Broadway musicals. The floats of the parade, the maskers who ride the floats and the pageant and the ball which terminate the parade carry out the same motif. One of the important features of a Mardi Gras parade are the prancing, gyrating and jiggling flambeau or torch carriers that add indescribable color to the float. An alonist unique cutom in New Orleans is the throwaway. Every masker on each float spends all of his time thru out the five-mile route of the parade throwing trinkets by the thousands or literally hundreds of thousands to the screaming bystanders.

Approximately 120 men (there is only one women's Krewe that conducts a parade) ride the various floats in masquerade. On reaching the auditorium, the masqueraders dismount and enter the auditorium for their pageant and ball. All the members of the royal court are presented beginning with pages, dukes, duchesses, etc. until finally the Queen and King are presented. Only the members of the individual Krewes, their wives and the court, participate in the pageant and ball. A very select few from the great number of spectators who are seated in the auditorium proper are given "call-outs" to come down on the floor and dance an individual number.

Our own Mystik Krewe of Comus is named for the oldest and one of the most respected Krewes in New Orleans. On Mardi Gras night at the stroke of midnight the great curtains separating the two stages and the two auditoriums are drawn apart and the King and Queen of the Krewe of Rex hold a meeting with the King and Queen of the Krewe of Comus for the traditional toast with champagne.

When the balls terminate in the wee hours of the morning, the Krewe members and their wives or escorts anywhere from 200 to 300 persons, are off to a nearby hotel for a breakfast banquet. After the last ball of the Krewe of Rex and the Krewe of Comus, Mardi Gras is over and then as a big sign on Canal Street announces "Sackcloth and ashes."

REX IV—Bob Delaney will reign as Rex IV, King of the Mardi Gras Charity Bali on Saturday, Feb. 8, at the Broadmoor Hotel's International Center. Dressed in colorful regalia, Delaney will carry his scepter and wear the royal crown of the Mystik Krewe of Comus.

Peak Plans Film Festival

A film festival will be held Feb. 7-18 at the Peak Theatre, with the classic, "Tale of Two Cities," starring Dick Bogarde.

During the festival, seven famous movie hits will be shown for one and two-day runs including "Henry V," starring Laurence Oliver; "Black Orpheus,"; "Richard the III," starring Laurence Oliver and Claire Bloom; "Tunes of Glory,"; "Electra," and the all-time favorite, "The Royal Ballet."

Schedule times will be announced later.

'Sunday' Next Ute Comedy

Cliff Robertson, Jane Fonda and Rod Taylor star in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new color release "Sunday in New York," next attraction at the Ute Theatre.

Norman Krasna adapted his successful Broadway comedy for the screen and the result is a bright, sophisticated adult comedy.

Robertson as an airline pilot encounters seemingly predestined difficulties in his love affair with Jo Morrow when their plans for a week—end, thru a quirk of fate, finds her one end of the country and Robertson at the other. His sister, Jane Fonda, adds to the confusion when she unexpectedly arrives in New York for a visit.

Jane promptly becomes involved in her own mix-up when she is "picked up" on a Manhattan Fifth Avenue bus by Rod Taylor. Aviolent rain storm forces them to retreat to her brother's apartment, where they are discovered by Robert Culp, Jane's wealthy home town fiance.

Peter Nero, the cocktail pianist who has recently recorded several albums, composed the title tune and has a part in the film. Mel Torme sings the title song.

'Prize' Held At Cooper

"The Prize," held over for second week at the new Cooper Theatre, is based on Irving Wallace's best-selling novel dealing with Nobel Prize winners. It was photographed in Stockholm backgrounds in color with Paul Newman and Edward G. Robinson.

Mark Robson directs from Ernest Lehman's screenplay.

Peak Shows 'Dead Ringer'

The movie screen today is "a man's world" in the opinion of Bette Davis, and few scripts are being written that can be labelled "a woman's story," says the star of "Dead Ringer", new Warner Bros. shock drama now at the Peak Theatre. Karl Malden and Peter Lawford are co-starred in the release. Paul Henreid directed.

"There are so many men's stories on the screen now" declares Miss Davis, "that some men who go to pictures regularly complain they don't see women stars anymore. Writers are doing men's stories because this is a time of great tension when the problems are world problems and it is men who are attempting to solve them. So a writer now thinks about strong male characters.

"The Thirties was a great period for women's stories," the actress continues. "Women were emerging from their long dependent position in American life, and writers found many women themes to write about. Most of the big screen stars were women. Now, most are men."

As she has so many times done before, Miss Davis proved to be the exception to the rule. In a period when women's roles are scarce, she managed to find two stories with powerful parts for herself, "What Ever Happened To Baby Jane?", which re-established her in the top ten category of stars, and "Dead Ringer" where she plays both sides of a twin sister relationship.

Cartoon Still on Chief Screen

When Walt Disney produces a new animated cartoon feature, it is truly an entertainment event and his newest, and probably his funniest, "The Sword in the Stone," is no exception. This mirthful, magical, musical cartoon treat at the Chief Theatre to delight moviegoers from six to sixty.

Based on the widely - read book by T. H. White, this amusing account of the life and times of a legendary young King Arthur and his hilarious adventures with that grand old magician, Merlin, introduces a whole new cast of wonderful Disney characters.

Merlin emerges as the star of the film. Absent - minded and befuddled at times, he is nevertheless a warm and lovable old gentleman, with a youthful outlook on life and the amazing ability to see far into the future.

Suzanne Pleshette Finds Homemaking Has Hazards

HOLLYWOOD — Suzanne Pleshutte was loaned to Twentieth Century-Fox for "Fate Is the Hunter" without her knowledge, so she's working instead of shopping for furniture and settling into a new home with Troy Donahue: "It came at an awkward time. I had a million things to do when we got in from Round Hills, Jamaica, where we honeymooned. Even my driver's license had expired.". . .At Round Hill they had the William Wright home —pool, three maids, gardener, pool man, and chauffeur. People let them alone until Troy rescued a little dog from under the wheels of a car and was nearly run over doing it. Turned out to be Adele Astaire's Yorkshire terrier. After that she and her husband, Kingman Douglass, and Gen. Pershing's son entertained them beautifully. . ."I learned to play gin rummy and sleep late," said Suzanne, "but Troy was out early scuba diving and motor boating." The top layer of her wedding cake was lifted off and put in the deep freeze. It's being saved for their first anniversary.

Bing Crosby got $350,000 for his Holmby Hills pad. When they pulled out, they left a keg of red wine in the basement which his brother, Larry, offered to send me. I declined. It's been there for years. Larry says Bing's son, Lindsay, opened a delicatessen in Palm Springs with a pal. They're doing well. His brother, Everett, lost his other leg — below the knee Eddie Fisher and Yul Brynner get together in Switzerland to talk about the story Eddie owns — "The Gouffe Case." Yul wants to produce it. . .Chris Plummer once thought about becoming a pianist but changed his mind after his first acting job. . .Lucille Ball has only five more shows, a special with Bob Hope, then a long vacation — she hopes. . .Richard Boone said the network had until April to pick up the option on his show. They canceled in January and even his sponsors weren't told about it. One is up in arms; almost up in arms; almost as angry as Richard, who's fit to be tied. So are those of us who loved it. That network hasn't heard the last of this.

Marion Hargrove called before taking off to Mount Olive, N. C., for the funeral of his mother, Emma, a remarkable woman who raised seven children after separating from her husband. Marion left home a 14; three years later informed his mother, a staunch Baptist, that he'd decided to become a Catholic. "That's better than nothing," she told him. A couple of years ago she came out for a visit, met Cary Grant and Tony Curtis. She was enchanted and vice versa. . .One reason Marion made the trip across country was to console his father, who married twice after leaving Emma. One wife died, the other marriage ended in divorce. After being seaprated 28 years, he had returned to Mount Olive and asked Emma's hand in marriage again. She was 68, couldn't make up her mind, so he began wooing her. She was sitting talking with him when death came. "I think," said Hargrove, "they were planning to elope."

Joan Blondell turned down a good part at Twentieth Century-Fox. After reading the script which had her running around with a parrot, she inquired if the bird was stuffed. "No, it's the real thing," she was told. That did it. Joan is so petrified of birds she wouldn't even read the ads on Alfred Hitchcock's picture. Even when she was in the crawling stage, anything feathered frightened her. Her mother kept her off the stairs by putting a feather duster at the top of the steps. But Joan has a good one in her TV series at Desilu, a takeoff on silent movies. She plays the secretary of one of those hammy producers, and will do the commentary, too, a la Walter Winchell and The Untouchables. She's on a diet, is down to a size 12, and won't quit until she can get into a 10.

Preston Sturges' 10-year-old son was very good on Art Linkletter's show. Since I'll be on once a month with Art, he wired: "Now that you're a member of my family I can come right out and say it at last. I love you, adore you. Arturo Linkletter." . . .Tony Martin surprised his beautiful Cyd Charisse by presenting her with a pair of gold slippers their closing night at the Riviera in Las Vegas. The same slippers she wore at the opening. He had them dipped in gold. . .The producer of "The Loved One" may have to go to San Francisco to find a cemetery location. Forest Lawn won't cooperate.

ROCK HUDSON PAULA PRENTISS

Cooper Gets Rock Hudson

For the first time in a career that includes 46 film roles scattered along a ladder of success that has established him as the number one male box office star in Hollywood, Rock Hudson has wrapped himself up in a farce comedy.

"But I've done broad comedy before," says Rock, with a grin. "When I first got into the movies, some of my most serious attempts at acting turned out that way."

The comedy is "Man's Favoite Sport?", due Friday at the Cooper Theater, and it's been the pet project of producer-director Howard Hawks ever since he ended a three-year hiatus in Europe and returned to Hollywood.

Of course, comedy is no new experience to Rock. He has enjoyed tremendous boxoffice success with such comedies as "Pillow Talk," "Come Septembber" and "Lover Come Back." However, all were sophisticated comedies.

In "Man's Favorite Sport?" Rock does falls into lakes, streams, gullies and bedrooms. He drives sports cars upside down, gets stuck in sleeping bags, is caught by a speckled bass while fishing, and chased by a bear on a motorbike.

'VIP's' at Ute Theatre

The pampered people passing thru London Airport inspired playwright Terence Rattigan to write a screen play titled 'The V. I. P.s," now at the Ute Theatre.

The picture stars Richard Burton, Elizabeth Taylor and Margaret Rutherford.

The V. I. P. game has probably existed since some remote ancestor of the race figures out a status symbol from a daub of blue clay. 'Very important persons' — whether designed by themselves or someone else — may be traced all thru history. An early flowering of the game was when a traveler pulled up at an inn and demanded a room for the night.

If the tone of his voice had the top drawer ring and there was an unmistakable bulge to his purse, without hesitation the landlord called his wife to prepare "the best room in the house." The coffee houses and restaurants later brought their own special brand of class distinction.

Then, as now, the famous and-or well-endowed diner could always be assured of the best table, regardless of the crowd that waited.

Movies Not Violent For Kids

NEW YORK — Television, movies and comic books may not be viiolent enough for children , a leading social critic has stated.

"Since death (in these media) is only a 'pow!' and a man falling down, it is of little consequences and no horror," Marya Mannes wrote in the current (February) McCalls's.

"The real consequences of death have never been shown... The sitting children, viewing or reading, see no blood gushing out of a shattered brain, no gaping hole in a stomach, no splintered and dangling limb. Nor do they hear the shriek or bellow of intolerable pain. If they did they might be seized with fear and horror and remember forever what happens, to them as well, when a gun is aimed at a human being and a trigger pulled.

Miss Mannes said "broadcasters, naturally fearful of such shock and offense to young sensibilities and even more of the avalanche of outraged mail from the consumer parents, abide by a code which requires that no such consequences of physical violence be portrayed."

Miss Mannes also stated, "one might also say that the gun has become an extension of the American arm. Adn this is where the children at their shooting games come in, and the cowboys and gangsters on the little screen who, by one small and violent act, can dispose of another's life. For there is a difference between such an act an the aggressive fantasies afchildren an encounters of men in the ages berore the gun. With asword or a spear or dagger, real or toy, with bare clenched fist, you were involved witht your adversary at a close range, engaged in the struggle for power.

"To conquer, courage was need, and skill; quickness of wit and physical prowess. With a gun, on the other hand, you are removed from your target, the victim; you need only a steady hand and eye..."

"The gun is power, hate the propellant," Miss Mannes said in McCall's. "That is why a weak, miserable man can exercise the power of death over a strong, great man. The gun is the equalizer."

Garner Film Next at Hotel

James Garner, who rode to fame on the high TV ratings of "Maverick" when he was a fledgling in the acting world, is a guy from Texas territory in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Wheeler Dealers," starting Wednesday at the Broadmoor Theatre.

As a Boston-born Texan who heads oil wells, he rides the wide-open ranges of New York's financial empire on his taxicab mount and gives up poker to play hokey-pokey with Lee Remick.

For the last four days, Marlon Brando is starred in "The Ugly American."

Mrs. Smith on TV Sunday

Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.), who has become the first woman ever to seek the Presidential nomination of a major party, will be the guest on "Face the Nation" at 10:30 a.m., Sunday on KKTV. It will be her first telvision interview as a Presidential aspirant.

Senator Smith will be interviewed live in Washington, D.C., by CBS News Correspondents Paul Niven and George Herman, and Warren S. Duffee, United Press International Senate Correspondent.

Senator Smith made her debut on the Washington scene in 1940, when she was elected to the seat in the House of Representatives held by her husband, Clyde, before his death. Re-elected to the House for three subsequent terms, she was elected to the Senate in 1948 and re-elected in 1954 and 1960. Mrs. Smith is the ranking Republican member of Senate Space Committee, the second ranking Republican member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a member of the Appropriations Committee.

Monsieur Cognac, French poodel featuded in "Wild and Wonderful," starring Tony Curtis and Christine Kaufmann beat the odds when he was signed. The American Humane Association estimates that only one dog in 6 million ever reaches movie fame.

'Terrors' Next At Chief

After a long and honored carer as a menace, good-natured and good-humored Peter Lorre finally is getting a chance to put his acting genius to work as his real funny self.

The veteran actor literally has a comedy "ball" in his latest starring role, with Vincent Price, Boris Karloff and Basil Rathbone, in American International's rollicking thriller, "The Comedy of Terrors."

The frightfully funny color and Panavision film, which also stars Joyce Jameson and Joe E. Brown, opens soon at the Chief Theatre.

Pro Actors Get Together

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Character actor Fritz Feld and his wife, Virginia Christine, have a combined total of 500 motion picture appearances, but never together.

They finally got a chance to work in the same film when they were cast in "Four For Texas," Frank Sinatra's new movie.

THE VIGIL — A fatigued Abraham Lincoln (Jason Robards Jr.) slouches in a chair as he waits for the 1860 Presidential election returns, during a scene in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," the Robert Sherwood Pulitzer Prize-winning drama which will be presented in color on NBC-TV's "Hallmark Hall of Fame" Wednesday.

OCCUPIED BY GHOSTS'

Bay of Pigs Plans Told

A disillusioned leader of the Cuban Revolutionary Front.

A guerilla commander who waited in vain for supplies and military equipment.

The man whose coffee plantation was used for training the invasion brigade.

Three anti-Castro leaders who were held in a house in Florida on the eve of the Cuban invasion.

These are some of the men who will tell their eye-witness stories on significant events in the planning, training and carrying out of the project to invade Cuba at the Bay of Pigs as it is traced on the "NBC White Paper" telecast of "Cuba: Bay of Pigs, at 8 p.m." Tuesday, on KOAA - TV.

Fred Freed is producer and Len Giovannitti associate producer of this presentation of Creative Projects, NBC News, which has been in preparation for over a year.

The first-hand accounts that the Cubans will relate for the full-hour special will cover the various phases of the invasion operation: in Florida, where the invasion brigade was recruiting; in Guatemala where it was trained; on the beach of the Bay of Pigs where it began its invasion; and inside Havana, as well as the provinces and the mountains where underground and guerilla forces prepared—in vain—to participate in an uprising designed to coincide with the invasion.

"Cuba: Bay of Pigs" will be followed on Sunday, Feb. 9 (10-11 p.m. EST) by the second "NBC White Paper" on American foreign policy in action in Cuba, "Cuba: the Missile Crisis," which also will be produced by Fred Freed. The Feb. 9 program will be sponsored by the Xerox Corporation.

Hunzaland In Pakistan On Travelog

"Hunza — Valley of Eternal Youth" this remoite corner of West Pakistan in the Himalayas will be the subject of a colorful full-length movie travelog on the "Horizons Unlimited" program.

Renee Taylor will personally narrate the movie at 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 23, and 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 24 at the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center.

Miss Taylor made an expedition to Hunzaland two years ago with a Hollywood motion picture crew. Aside from the unique scenery which she found in the country, Miss Taylor found much appeal in the general longevity of the Hunza people — who live beyond the age of 100 years.

The artist has appeared on major tour series in the U.S., West Indies, South America, and will tour Australia and Europe later this spring.

Blow-Ups Take Altering Of Original Negatives

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

For a good quality enlargement, it is often necessary to alter the existing negative. If the negative were printed "straight," that is without any manipulation, some portions of the resulting print might be too dark while other portions might be too light.

Changes can be made by manipulating the light in the process of exposure of the enlargement. Some of the light can be prevented from reaching the paper in those areas which will otherwise come up too dark. On the other hand, extra light must be funneled to those areas which would normally come up too light.

With experience, darkroom addicts can juggle their hands and fingers with artistic skill to accomplish these results. A beginner must take it slowly and learn how his finger or hand blocking part of the light from reaching the "thin" portions of his negative results in a better enlargement. He'll also learn to make a circle by bringing the tips of his thumb and forefinger together and letting the enlarger light shine through this opening to "burn in" the dense portions of his negative while blotting out the light from the other areas. At all times the hands are kept in perpetual motion to prevent a discernible dark or light area from showing in the print.

Another way to get the effect of "dodging" or "burning in" is by using retouching dyes directly on the negative to add to, or reduce, the density of any specific area. When correctly done, this eliminates the necessity of any manipulations when making prints thereafter.

To add density or to darken a negative area in order to lighten that print area, use neo-coccine or Crocein Scarlet. Prepare a stock solution by dissolving a level teaspoon of the dry powder in one pint of water.

The stock solution may be used to opaque a background or to vignette a photo. For general use, however, the stock solution is diluted with three parts of water. Use a sable or a spotting brush to work with. Apply the dye with a light touch, in small varied strokes on the negative base, not the emulsion side, over a light box, groundglass or other means of seeing the effect as you work. If mistakes are made, the dye can be lightened or removed by washing the negative in running water.

If you do not wish to work on the negative, you can apply the dye to a piece of clear acetate or a fixed-out clear negative and sandwich it to the original negative. The Crocein Scarlet is bright red so the retouched area is easily seen. By looking thru a green or blue filter, the extent of the added density can be judged as an over-all tone.

To reduce areas of heavy negative density, potassium ferricyanide or Farmer's Reducer is applied. The negative should be thoroughly soaked in water first and kept wet. The stock solution of reducer is diluted with about 10 parts of water. It is applied repeatedly with a cotton swab with intermediate rinsings until the desired reduction is obtained.

It's a good idea to practice with the additive and reducing dyes on a spare negative until the technique is mastered. For other helpful hints on making better enlargements you might consult the newly revised Kodak data booklet, "Professional Printing," available at your camera dealer.

Fan Mail for Shakespeare

LONDON (AP) — To some people, William Shakespeare is a very alive dramatist, custodians at the Royal Shakespeare Theater report.

The theater receives an occasional letter addressed to him. A recent one from a Canadian schoolgirl concerned "The Tempest," "Wasn't Miranda," she asked, "a little young to fall in love and marry? She was only 15 years old."

DRAMATIC LIGHTING—On these interesting profiles is enhanced by proper enlarging. Originally there was a slight confusion of people in the background. It is minimized by "burning in" the area in front of the faces to get an over-all dark tone. Has Cameo Role Carol Lawrence, Mrs Robert Goulet in private life, will make a "guest star" appearance in Ross Hunter's "I'd Rather Be Rich." The romantic comedy stars Sandra Dee, Andy Williams, Maurice Chevalier — and Robert Goulet.

'Exploring' Features Olympics

The Olympic Games and Olympic champion Jesse Owens are the subjects of "Exploring" at 11 a.m. today on KOAA-TV.

Lee Bowman is off-camera narrator for a story of ancient Greece which tells of the Athenian soldier and athlete who raced from the plain of Marathon to the marketplace at Athens, carrying the news that the Persians had been routed by the Greeks. The Marathon races of today are named after the plain over which the soldier ran.

Muriel and Abie Grossfeld, members of the last United States Olympic gymnastic team, and Jacques D'Amboise, of the New York City Ballet, will demonstrate some of the similarities between the movements of the athlete and those of the ballet dancer.

The Ritts Puppets, with Dr. Albert Hibbs, program host, will appear in a skit in which Magnolia Blossom — an ostrich — learns that tho the ostrich does not fly, it is the fastest running bird in the world.

With the assistance of the Grossfelds, Dr. Hibbs will examine the science of kinesiology and the intricate workings of the bones and muscles in athletic or gymnastic movements.

In a film sequence, Dr. Hibbs will trace the history of the Olympics, beginning with the first recorded Olympic race at a distance of approximately 200 yards, at Olympia, Greece in 776 B. C. The 1936 Olympics, which were dominated by the performance of sprinter Jesse Owens will be highlighted. Owens won four Olympic gold medals and broke numerous records.

Lively Race Drivers

Five of the nation's top racing drivers headed by Mickey Thompson, holder of the world's land-speed record of 407 m.p.h., will pilot cars in the big racing sequences of "The Lively Set," starring James Darren, Pamela Tiffin, Doug McClure, Peter Mann and Marilyn Maxwell.

Where to Buy Play Oranges?

NEW YORK (AP) — Posters about the Broadway run of Israel's Habimah Theater company brought Producer Roger Euster some unexpected inquiries.

Euster put up signs at subway stations with just the word Habimah, the box office telephone number and—for eye-catching appeal—an orange, a typical Israel product.

"We got hundreds of phone calls," he reported, "asking where the fruit could be bought."

"Now Aggie, just a cotton-picking minute! I'll fight before I switch from Sno-White laundered shirts!"

During the first intermission between Acts I and II of "Lohengrin", radio listeners will hear another edition of the popular Opera News on the Air. Facing quizmaster Edward Downes during the second intermission Texaco Opera Quiz will be Hans Busch, a faculty member of the University of Indiana in Bloomington; Fausto Cleva, a Metropolitan Opera conductor; Walter Ducloux, head of the opera department and conductor of the symphony orchestra at the University of Southern California, and Michael Manuel, executive stage manager for the Metropolitan Opera.

"Lohengrin," with a libretto by the composer, was first produced at Weimar, Germany, in 1850 when Wagner was 37 years old. It was first head in America at New York's Stadt Theater in 1871. When it entered the Metropolitan Opera repertory, the work was sund in Italian.

Many opera "greats" have been heard in the roles of Elsa, including Lillian Nordica, Emma Eames, Emmy Destin, Maria Jeritza, Elizabeth Rethberg, Lotte Lehmann, Kirsten Flagstad and Helen Traubel. Among the famous Lohengrins have been Jen de Reszke, and Lauritz Melchior.

Wagner's earlier operas — Rienzi, The Flying Dutchman, and Tannhauser — had not appealed greatly to German audiences when produced at the Dresden Opera House. While he was writing "Lohengrin", Wagner joined a group of revolutionaries opposing the government. This uprising was soon suppressed by the military, and Wagner was forced to flee the country.

From his exile in Switzerland, Wagner wrote his friend Franz Liszt begging him to produce "Lohengrin" in Weimar. The letter agreed and arranged the world premiere of the work with considerable success. Wagner did not see a performance of it until his return from exile 13 years later.

While the beauty of Wagner's score is readily apparent to today's listener, it probably sounded strange when it was first given. In the music of "Lohengrin" Wagner was making yet another musical step forward in the development of his now-familiar style.

- The character Lohengrin is a symbol of the man who, in Wagner's own words, seeks "the woman who would not call for explanations or defense, but who should love him with an unconditioned love."

Among the musical highlights are the orchestral preludes to Acts I and III; Elsa's "Dream" and her prayer; the third-act bridal music; Lohengrin's aria "In fernem land", and his moving "farewell".

CAPT. F. J. LOCKWOOD

Air Force Concert Set On Feb. 9

American music ranging from Yankee Doodle to Count Basie will provide the theme for the Air Force Academy Band concert at 3 p.m. Feb. 9.

The concert is opened to the public without charge.

Under the direction of commander - conductor Capt. Arnald Gabriel, the band will sketch a musical history of America.

The program includes traditional tunes such as Yankee Doodle and a medley of Civil War songs featuring a mixed chorus of 45 voices from the Cadet Wing and the Officers Wives Club.

"A Concert in the Park" will provide a gentle spoof of that much remembered segment of Americana.

On the more serious side, the band will present "Lincoln Portrait," music by Aaron Copeland, words by Carl Sandburg. TSgt. Ken Shaw will narrate.

Also on the program is a parade of the big bands featuring the swinging sound of the 30's. Music of Glenn Miller, Harry James, Tommy Dorsey, Jimmy Dorsey, Benny Goodman, Guy Lombardo, Les Brown Lawerence Welk, and Count Basie will be heard.

MSgt. Dick Hubbard has also arranged a special valentine medley.

The Boy Scouts of America were incorporated on Feb. 8, 1910, in the District of Columbia bia.

Bandsman Lockwood To D. C.

Capt. Franklin J. Lockwood, assistant director of the Air Force Academy Band since May 1961, will leave Feb. 4 to assume a staff position with the USAF Bandsman School in Washington, D.C.

Capt. Lockwood is well known to Colorado and Rocky Mountain area residents. He has appeared with the Academy Band in its regularly scheduled Sunday concerts in Arnold Hall and at many public events such as the Pueblo and Colorado Springs Armed Forces Day parades, the Cheyenne Frontier Days parade, local rodeos, etc.

A native of Johnson City, N.Y., Capt. Lockwood attended Elmira, N.Y., schools and the Valley Forge Military Academy.

After graduating from Valley Forge in 1945, he enlisted in the Navy and served as a signalman during World War II. Following discharge from the Navy, Capt. Lockwood attended the Utica, N.Y., College of Syracuse University and Ithaca College, graduating from the college in 1950 with a BS degree.

Prior to his appointment as a warrant officer bandleader, Capt. Lockwood taught instrumental music in the Cortland, N.Y., High School and served as assistant to the president of the New York State School Music Association.

Following his appointment as a bandleader, Capt. Lockwood assumed command of the 686th Air Force Band in Weisbaden, Germany, and was command band supervisor for the Air Force in Europe.

In 1958, Capt. Lockwood was assigned as commander and bandleader of the Fifth AF Band in Tokyo. For his contributions to President Eisenhower's "People to People" program and to community relations with the Japanese, Capt. Lockwood was awarded the Commendation Medal and received the key to Tokyo from Ryotaru Azuma, governor of the Tokyo Metropolis.

Arizona Camp Used

Location sequences of "Captain Newman," starring Gregory Peck and Tony Curtis, were filmed at Fort Huachuca, in southern Arizona. Originally a cavalry post established in 1877 to protect white settlers from renegade Apaches, the post occupies 74,000 acres of starkly barren desert land.

SKI AMERICAN

By ROBEL SRAUBHAAR
Director
Crested Butte Ski School

CRESTED BUTTE, Colo. — (NEA) — After you have become so accustomed to your skis that they don't feel like buckets of cement, you should learn to walk on the flat. It is the most important step for the beginner and an excellent conditioning exercise.

The technique of walking is natural. It consists of short rhythmical steps accompanied by the use of your poles. Poles and skis must be coordinated — right foot forward with left arm and pole and vice versa. Weight should shift from the stationary ski to the one put forward. Practice walking for at least two hours before taking your first ride on the lift.

In Switzerland as a boy, my main ski activity was the Nordic Event Cross Country. This was basically running on skis, or gliding. Today in my Crested Butte ski school I heavily stress gliding as an excellent exercise and method of moving over a flat area.

Gliding is like walking, only more strenuous and swifter Your body is propelled forward by an unweighting motion and a strong placing of the opposite pole.

At Crested Butte, as in most ski schools, a beginner must learn climbing before riding the lift.

The easiest form of climbing is the sidestep. This is done by taking the weight off the uphill ski and stepping it up the slope. Then the weight is transferred to the uphill ski and the downhill ski is brought up the slope. During this maneuver, don't stay on the flat of your skis, dig the edges into the hill.

Remember the terms, "downhill ski" and "uphill ski." Downhill refers to the ski nearest the bottom of the hill as you go across the slope. The terms are used frequently later in your lessons.

A speedier, but more difficult method of climbing is the herringbone. Face up the hill with your tips apart and the heels of skis together. Support your wight with your poles and by transferring your weight, lift one ski at a time up the slope, freeing your pole on the opposite side as you do so.

The traverse sidestep allows the skier to go both up the slope and across it at the same time. Using constant motion and weight shifting, the skier climbs in a sidestep and walking combination.

The straight run — down a slope, pulled by graviety — is a confidence and body control.

The slope on which the straight run is attempted should have a very gentle pitch and a long flat outrun so you can slow up gradually. Otherwise you probably will come a cropper when it is time to stop.

The most important requirement for the straight run is relaxation. You'll probably be nervous the first time you attempt the straight run, but don't let it stiffen you.

Your feet should be together, your body perpendicular to the hill and ankles and knees should be slightly flexed. Don't bend over as though you were picking up something

Holding the poles in proper position may prove a bit difficult at first. The poles should be held free of the snow, with the tips slightly behind you. Your arms should be bent slightly forward.

Practice straight running until you feel perfectly at home doing it. Jump up and down while running; lift one ski, then the other and take small jumps with both skis.

Next: Falls.

Plays to Pay For Time Lost

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway players are to receive one day's pay for performances canceled when President Kennedy was assassinated.

The adjustment is expected to be the model for settlement of contract involving other theatrical crafts.

The governing council of Actors Equity originally said that all wages would be waived for the shows that shuttered both on the day of the President's death and his funeral. The general membership petitioned that it should have been consulted on the waiver of contractual terms and the compromise was worked out.

Cascades Singer At Carson

Pvt. John Long, a guitarist who played with the Cascades, a popular recording group, is taking advanced individual training with Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 61st Infantry.

The Cascades became famous in 1961 when their "Rhythm of the Rain" became a hit record.

Long played the rhythm guitar in the band that provided background music for the Cascades' first popular song.

The 22-year-old musician has been playing the guitar for eight years and professionally since 1959.

He plans to do some entertaining while in uniform. Whether it be playing at service club dances, being in talent shows, or playing for the men in barracks doesn't really matter to him. He just loves to play.

Producers Check Rules

NEW YORK (AP) — A campaign to codify business methods has been started by Broadway's stage producers.

The League of New York Theaters, trade association of managers, set up two speciai committees for the self - improvement project. One is to work out precise rules for members to follow in production of plays, the other is exploring the possibilities of improved control over ticket distribution.

The league action follows an inquiry by the state attorney general's office into alleged sharp practices and ticket scalping by some theatrical interests.

Colorado Gal to Complete In Press Queen Contest

When the Colorado News Photographers association picked 20 - year - old brunette Lee Flinn of Denver, as the "Face of Colorado" she became a double-barreled winner.

Winning the face of Colorado gave her the right to compete in the National Press Photographer association "American Face" pageant in Las Vegas June 21-26. Here she will compete against 30 to 40 other press queens for the right to win th first title devoted almost entirely to facial beauty.

Thru an arrangement with the International Beauty Congress in Long Beach, California, Miss Flinn will also represent the State of Colorado in the United States portion of that pageant, formerly the Miss Universe pageant.

Should she win the "American Beauty" title at the IBC, she will walk off with $1,000 in cash, hundreds of dollars worth of merchandise prizes and will compete immediately afterward for the International Beauty title and a jackpot of prizes, including $10,000 in cash.

Even tho the press photographer pageant is emphasizing facial beauty in seeking the most beautiful face in the United States, the boys behind the camera are not overlooking figures, as Miss Flinn's qualifications testify. The attractive brunette is 5'6", weighs 118 lbs, and measures 34-22-34 in the right places.

Arlene Dahl, breathtakingly beautiful screen actress, is working with the NPPA in setting up standards and guidelines for selecting the American Face. Miss Dahl, world wide authority on beauty, was recently named by the NPAA as the "Ideal American Face," by virtue of the fact that Miss Dahl has the type of clean, healthy beauty that every American girl strives to attain.

Miss Dahl will head up a judging panel at the American Face Pageant which will include several Hollywood cameramen who have photographed the world's most beautiful women.

The American Face pageant will be a feature of the Nevada Centennial celebration and will be held in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Press Photographers association. Should Miss Flinn win the American Face title, she will travel to Long Beach in August to be the official ambassadoress of the press covering the IBC pageant, as well as competing as the Colorado representative.

The International Beauty Pageant, held during the week of August 5-15, is sponsored by the City and Port of Long Beach and until five years ago, was known as the Miss Universe Pageant.

Lee Flinn was chosen the Face of Colorado by the CNPA at their annual ball in Denver last fall. She is a former United Airlines stewardess and now is employed by a Denver saving bank.

LEISURETIME BOOKS by John Fetler

Putnam's Announces New Heinlein Volume

A new volume of science fiction by Robert Heinlein of Broadmoor, to be entitled "Orphans of the Sky" is scheduled for April publication by G.P. Putnam's Sons. The publishers announce: "The 'orphans of the sky' are members of a civilization that has evolved in a gigantic motorless speaceship which has been drifting in the interstellar spaces for centuries. To the people that live in the ship, earth is a forgotten place-no more than a myth, a tenet of religious faith. To them the ship is the entire universe. Until one man, Hugh Hoyland, learns the truth. . . .Orphans of the Sky is a gripping, unforgettable piece of storytelling, one which will add considerable luster to Robert Heinlein's already formidable reputation as the dean of science-fiction writers."

CATTLE—RAISING ON THE PLAINS OF NORTH AMERICA. By Walter Baron von Richthofen. University of Oklahoma press. $2.00. This book was first published by D. Appleton and Company in 1885. The University of Oklahoma has reprinted the volume as Number 24 of its Western Frontier Library.

Walter Baron von Richthofen has left an indelible imprint upon Denver and Colorado. He has left his name to subdivision, a street bears his name and he built the impressive Richthofen castle. Among his many and varied and business and social activities he found time to run stock and dairy farms and to write this book.

His book was one of the first to set forth the many advantages of rainsing cattle in the new West from the point of view of finance.

The good Baron illustrated in convincing fashion the fantastic profits to be gained in the cattle industry in the 1880's and 1890's in the West by citing actual operating rations and examples of people and companies who compiled these profits. One of the more interesting features he points out is the large amount of foreign capital which was invested in this industry during this period of our history.

On present standards the foundation for Richtofen's many statements could be challenged. It is, however, easy for the reader to visualize the impact this little volume had in bringing people to the West and convincing them to enter the cattle industry.

The author dedicated his book to the cattlemen of Colorado but all can enjoy it. This is a recommended addition to western libraries. - R. B. Murray.

NUCLEAR DISEASTER by Dr. Tom Stonier - $2.45 - Foreword by Gerard Piel - Meridian Book - One twenty - megaton nuclear bomb, if detonated on New York City, is likely to dill ¾ of the city's population - probably ten times the total number of fatalities that America has suffered on all of its battlefields through its previous history — says Dr. Tom Stonier in his new book, Nuclear Disaster, published this month by The World Publishing Company. This volume describes in detail the immediate damage, injuries, and death that would be caused by the explosion of a thermonuclear weapon on a key metropolis, the social and economic chaos that would result, and the long-range effects on future generations and our natural envioronment. In a recent interview, Dr. Stonier provided answers to some of the questions raised by the Possibility of a nuclear attack.

Q: Could America, with its vast resources, recover economically and socially from a nuclear disaster?

A: If a single twenty-megaton bomb were detonated on New York City, the number of deaths that could result would probably be ten times the total number of fatalities that America has suffered on all its battlefields through its previous history. It is likely that 6,000,000 of the city's 8,000,000 people would be killed. New York is the financial captial of the world, the corporate heart of the nation, the ttransportation and communication hub of the Northeast, and the nation's total labor force. A single strike against New York could reduce the U.S. economic capacity by five to ten per cent. Strikes at the key areas in the U. S. would shake the economy to the core. As we examine the possible physical, social, biological, and economic damage, it becomes clear to me that the cumulative disaster probably would be too great for our society ro recover from. Just as with the destruction of Mesopotamia at the hands of the Mongols, millions of people may survive the destruction, but society does not.

Q: What would be the greatest danger from a thermonuclear explosion on New York City?

A: Fire. A tremendous amount of heat is emitted from a twenty-megaton explosion — enough to vaporize over 10 million tons of ocean water. On a clear day an air burst could ignite the clothing of a man almost 20 miles away. At least 10 fires per acre would occur in every part of the city. Sincethe total area of the city is approximately 200,000 acres, one could expect well over a million fires to break out within a half hour.

Q: Could we leave the city enough to escape the fire and heat?

A: It is not likely. A twenty megaton air burst would probably, on a clear day, ignite approximately 1000 square miles, involving not only New York City but such places as valley Stream in Nassau County, New Rochelle in Weschester County, and West Orange, New Jersey.

Q: Can we protect ourselves from fallout?

A: Yes, but fallout immobilizes relief forces and prevents virtually all resuce and relief operations. Protection from fallout does not mean protection from the greater dangers of fire. Most injured persons within the Ney York City limits are likely to succumb to either fire or fallout.

Q: How would radiation likely affect those who survive?

A: It is likely that survivors who had been subjected to extensive radiation would have life cut by ten years. We could expect a doubling of the incidence of cancerous diseases and such degenerative diseases as heart and kidney failure, a reduced vigor and ability to resist infections, and a drastic curtailment in reproductive power.

Q: Could our weather be affected?

A: One of the real problems is that enough dirt and debris will be injected into the stratosphere that it will act as a key shield against the radiation we normally receive from the sun. That would result in a world - wide cooling of the atmosphere. What would then occur is uncertain, but it could result in a vicious weather cycle that could produce another ice age.

Bahamas Tops Tourist Record

NASSAU, Bahamas — A record wave of tourism last year carried the Bahama Islands to a new crest in the keenly competitive travel business.

The Bahamas topped its own tourism record for the fifth consecutive year, recording an unprecedented total of 546,404 visitors for 1963 — a 22.8 per cent increase over 1962's 444,870.

Expansion prorgrams have been initiated in many of the major hotels. Davis E. Richardson, president of the Bahamas Hotel Association, said this policy would continue.

"The association is not unaware that continuing efforts and studies will be necessary if Nassau is to provide its future visitors with the very best accommodations," he said. "There never has been a shortage of rooms here and we do not intend that there ever shall be."

The Nassau Beach Hotel has announced plans for a $3 million expansion program. The Emerald Beach, Montagu Beach, Sheraton-British Colonial and Royal Victoria hotels all are in the process of updating present facilities.

The Hon Sir Stafford L. Sands, Kt., C.B.E., M.H.A., minister for finance and tourism, hailed the new tourism record as a stepping stone to even greater heights.

"It is significant, he said, "that as the Bahamas enters a new phase of responsibility and greatness under its new Constitution, it does so with its main industry — tourism — still providing a sound economic base and showing every indication that the people of the Bahamas will reap even more benefits."

The Bahamas was granted internal self-rule earlier this month.

Sir Stafford, who forecast last fall that the colony would welcome its half-millionth visitor before the end of the year, said the growth of the islands' tourist industry "is a reflection on the attractions we have to offer."

Here's a breakdown of the tourism statistics for 1963: 398,676 visitors to Nassau, 147,728 to the Out Islands, increases of 18.6 and 35.7 per cent, respectively, over the figures for the preceding year.

Nassau recorded 36,834 visitors in December — including 20,783 stopovers — for a 27.7 per cent boost over 1962. Every month in 1963 showed an increase over the corresponding months of 1962, both for Nassau and the Out Islands.

Record-Breaking Year Set By U.S. Mint in 1963

The Bureau of Engraving's 1963 report shows the year has been a production record-breaker.

Excluding coins in the 1963 proof sets, the Philadelphia and Denver mints struck 3,824,699,866 coins! The mints also struck coins for the Philippines, El Salvador and Ethiopia.

Production in 1964 will probably be much higher.

And speaking of production, its history dates back 2,500 years ago—an art that has advanced with each generation.

The task of minting our coins was given to the Bureau of Engraving soon after this country's founding. Besides minting, the mint must also insure the standards of the coins it strikes and see that they conform in size, weight, shape and fineness with the legal requirements.

Before a coin is produced, a master hub must be made of the desired design. This hub is usually three to four times the size of the coin that is needed. Through an electrotyping process, a copy of the finished master design is engraved in metal. When this metal copy is completed, it is inserted into a reducing lathe where a third copy is made. This time it is in a size that is required for the needed coin.

Then skilled engravers are employed to tool in by hand some of the more delicate portions of the design which can not be entrusted to the reducing machinery, before the die is hardened and tempered to make the real working dies which actually strike, or produce the coins that eventually find their way into our pocket change.

The melting down of the various metals to be used in the coins is the next major step in the process. In the melting department are numerous gas furnaces that are each capable to melt 250 pounds of the needed bullion at a time and this same procedure can be completed five times during a standard eight-hour shift. Next the metals are refined, or parted from their baser components before being melted into cast bars, or ingots.

While this is going on, the dies are prepared to go into the coining presses. After being clensed of all foreign matter and rinsed in clean water, they are then dried in a large steam-heated copperpan, placed in the presses for the striking of coins from the proper blanks, or planchets.

The process whereby the ingots of metal are made into planchets is called the "breaking down" process by passing ingots between large heavy rollers until the metal is thin enough for the particular coins that are to be struck. These strips of metal are then passed thru a machine which stamps out the small discs, or planchets, the same size as the coins that are to be made, or struck.

These planchets are then inspected on "selecting tables" where imperfects are returned for re-melting and reworking.

Our dimes, quarters and half-dollars, (the silver coinage), are given milled edges to help protect them from wear. This is done by feeding them into a tube where they rotate on a horizontal plane and the fixed grooves give them the reeded edges.

After the milling and reeding, the planchets are again cleaned to a higher degree by annealing them by heating to a red hot temperature before dipping them into a strong solution of sulphuric acid and water which is strong enough to both clean and brighten them. After being rinsed real well in water and dried in sawdust, they are then ready for the stamping process.

The planchets are fed into the coining presses through vertical tubes and on reaching the machine, the planchet is caught and held in place by a steel collar while the steel dies are closed upon it with a great pressure of as much as 100 pounds per square inch. The pressure used depends on the coin that is being struck.

Last in the process is the final inspection and counting of the coins before they are placed in bags and sent to the various Federal Reserve Banks thruout the country.

Coins leaving the mint are all counted by machines and put into bags containing a $1,000 in half dollars; $500 in quarters; $500 in dimes, $200 in nickels and $50 in cents which so many of us, in error, call pennies!

Stamp Cites Artist

A Charles M. Russell painting of cowboys in action at roundup time is to be this year's commemorative postage stamp in the "fine arts" series.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski announced today that the Russell oil, "Jerked Down", is being adapted to a five-cent multi-color stamp that will first be issued with ceremonies March 19 at Great Falls, Mont., home of the celebrated cowboy artist. It will be issued on the 100th anniversary of the artist's birth.

The painting hangs in the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art, Tulsa, Okla. Russell has painted a hazard of the roundup—the unpredictiveness of cattle. A cowboy has thrown his lariat over a cow, but a second cow has become entangled in the rope, causing the rider to be "Jerked down." As the cowboy struggles to retain his seat in the saddle, a fellow cowboy rides to his aid.

The horizontal stamp will be printed on the Giori presses in brown, blue and yellow. It was designed by William K. Schrage. The vignette was engraved by Charles A. Brooks. Lettering and numerals are by George A. Payne.

The "Jerked Down" stamp marks a return to western art that began the series in 1961 with "The Smoke Signal" by Frederic Remington, a contemporary of Russell. Both artists captured with fidelity the spirit of a vanished era.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the Russell stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Great Falls, Montana, 59401. Each envelope must be marked, in pencil, in the upper right corner indicating the number of stamps to be affixed (singles, pairs, blocks, etc.). Requests for first day covers should not be sent to the Philatelic Sales Agency, Washington, D. C.

An enclosure of medium weight should be placed in each envelope and the flap either turned in or sealed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Russell Stamp."

Collectors are cautioned that orders for first day covers must not include requests for uncanceled stamps. Cover requests must be postmarked not later than March 19, 1964.

Philatelic history was made recently when Pope Paul VI visited the area of the Holy Land. For the first time the Leader of the Catholic Church was honored by Israel with a special bilingual cancellation in Hebrew and Latin commemorating the visit of the Holy See to Nazareth. A copy of this cancellation was forwarded to the Associated Press by the Penny Black Stamp Co. of Dumont, N. J., and it will surely be considered a collector's item because of the historical significance of the occasion.

The U.S. Post Office Department announced that commemorative postage stamps will be issued this year for the New York World's Fair and to mark anniversaries in Nevada and New Jersey. The World's Fair stamp will first be issued in Flushing, N.Y., on April 22, opening day of the fair. The Nevada stamp will commemorate 100 years of statehood and the New Jersey stamp will herald the 300th anniversary of English acquisition of that state. Dates and places of first-year issuance have not been set for either. All three stamps will be 5 centers. In addition to the World's Fair commemorative, a 5c embossed envelope will also be issued at the same time.

India has issued a new stamp bearing a portrait of Mrs. Elanor Roosevelt and commemorating the 15th anniversary of the Human Rights Charter. The illustration shows Mrs. Roosevelt beside a spinning wheel.

ISADORA DUCAN, Her Life, Her Art, Her Legacy, - By Walter Terry - Isadora Duncan became a legend in her time, and her influence was essential to the birth of American dance. She rebelled against convention. The freedom and originality of her art also characterized her llife, which was restless and exciting, triumphant and tragic. She won the acclaim of audiences throughout Europe, in Russia, and finally in her own country. As her art grew, her dances reflected the tragedies that befell her: the loss of her children, an unhappy marriage, disillusionment, and poverty.

Walter Terry, dance editor of the New York Herald Tribune and dean of American dance critics, tells the story of Isadora Duncan's career, defines her art through the eyes of her contemporaries, including material that has never before been published, and appraises her contribution in terms of its effect on the present dance scene. This handsome volume, containing sixteen pages of photographs with drawings by such contemporary artists as Walkowitz, Clara, Bourdell, Grandjouan, Rodin, etc., makes an invaluable contribution to the library of books devoted to the dance. - Dodd, Mead & Co., - $4.00.

FIRST ORATORIA - The first oratorio ever written, "Anima e Corpo," by Emilio de Cavalieri (1550 - 1602), will be presented on "Lamp Unto My Feet" Sunday, Feb. 2 (8:00 - 8:30 AM, PST) on the CBS Television Network. (This is a rebroadcast.)

"Animea e Corpo" was produced by Pamela Ilott, Director of Religious Broadcasts for the Public Affaris Department of CBS News. Roger Englander director.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Mary Urban

Trophies for the June dog show were displayed and selected by members of the Colorado Springs Kennel Club at a meeting Monday night at the Antlers Hotel.

Mrs. Wally Leach, trophy chairman, said contributions are needed for the trophy fund. I will be more than happy to pass along to her your name and address if you are interested in helping buy trophies for the show. Names of contributors will be published in the show catalog.

The club's program was highlighted by a film strip presented by Rutherford T. Phillips of Denver, executive director, American Humane Association. The film depicted the society's operations, physical plant and personnel, problems and accomplishments.

The Humane Society of the Pikes Peak Region's facility at 633 S. 8th St., was the model for the film strip which has been shown thruout the U.S.

Others who very generously answered questions put to them by kennel club members were E. P. Gregory, president of the Humane Society of the Pikes Peak region, Charles Abbott, who held the presidency for 13 years preceding Gregory, and Skip Seabolt, director of the association.

Many qyestions about the humane association were answered by our guests. I am sure we all learned some very important facts about the work being done in this area to make life a lot better for our animal friends.

I would suggest that if you have never visited the humane association building that you do so. You will be impressed by the large, clean, well-kept buildings and grounds. The people who work there are well informed, experienced in their field and very pleasant. They will be glad to have you see every part of the work being done there. But—steel your heart because there are some very lovable animals just waiting to have you love them and take them home.

I wasn't told to say this, I thought it up all by myself. If you care to contribute a dollar or more to help in the operation of the association I am sure they would be most grateful for your help.

Don't forget the next meeting of the kennel club will be held at 8 p.m. Feb. 24 in the Green Room of the Antlers Hotel.

If interested in the club, please call me at 495-2143.

Novak Names

A Hopkins (Minn.) junior high school has its own Mr. Novak and his first name is John too. He and his students get a big kick out of the sameness of name with the NBC-TV "Mr. Novak" series. And John has a brother who teaches in the local high school. So Hopkins has two Mr. Novaks while the TV program has just one.

CBS Reports On Catholics

The legal, social and political implications of federal aid to Roman Catholic elementary and secondary schools, and the impact the controversy over such aid is having on all of American education, will be explored on CBS REPORTS: "The Catholics and the Schools," at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, on KKTV. CBS News Correspondent Harry Reasoner is the reporter.

The broadcast points out that federal-aid legislation has not been enacted primarily because of the issues concerning aid to parochial schools. American Roman Catholic school enrollment of 5,500,000 pupils represents more than 90 per cent of all students in church-related schools. Many Roman Catholics, along with a small number of Orthodox Jewish and Christian Reform groups, have insisted on federal aid for their schools if it is voted for public educational institutions.

Alford Stars

Phillip Alford, the youngster who won critical acclaim for his featured role in "To Kill a Mockingbird" steps into the spotlight again in his second acting chore as the homeless orphan who is "adopted" by a trouble-prone dog in the two-part program "Bristle Face" on NBC-TV's "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color" ending Sunday, Feb. 2.
